American Girls Guests of Cuba

HAVANA, Feb. 8. (AP) — Five American girls, guests of the Cuban government in its international beauty pageant opening Sunday, arrived today from California, Florida, Missouri, Texas and Louisiana for a ten-day visit.

The girls competing for honors in Queen Librada Del Carmen Flores's beauty court are: Sheila La Gae, "Miss California!" Bobbie Lang, "Miss New Orleans;" Cora Lee Pomeroy, "Miss Galveston;" Norine Putney, "Miss St. Louis;" Luella F. Rhney, "Miss St. Petersburg." "Miss Miami," Edna Peters, will arrive from Miami tomorrow to complete the court.

Will Rogers Remarks:

NEW YORK, Jan. 8.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Every day now stock market "faw down go boom," so tomorrow no session. Called off on account of the "flu." And a funny thing it was on account of the "flu," if it had "flu" up they wouldn't have had to call it off on account of the "flu," but as it "flu" downward, why everybody has to "flu" around Saturday and get ready for not only the "flu" Monday but maybe "pneumonia."

I see where Heflin asked for a Senate investigation. This crash coming on the same day as the Pope becoming free don't look good to Tom.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

NORTHWEST FREEZING

Mercury Drops Still Lower

Colder Weather Predicted Today Throughout Four States

Eastern Oregon Worst Hit With Thermometer 40 Deg. Below

PORTLAND, Feb. 8. (AP)—Subzero temperatures prevailed throughout the Pacific Northwest tonight and no relief was seen in the United States Weather Bureau's forecast of a further drop of the mercury. Ochoco Station in Eastern Oregon, with 40 deg. below zero, was the coldest spot in the Northwest.

While the Rocky Mountain section reported slowly rising temperatures after a frigid period, Southern Washington, Eastern Oregon and the coast section of the State prepared tonight for colder weather.

Idaho Falls, Idaho, reported 34 deg. below zero and Lewiston 15 below, while Pendleton, Or., and Walla Walla, Wash., reported 21 and 10 deg. below, respectively. The coldest spot in Klickitat county, Washington, was Centerville, where the mercury tumbled to 33 deg. below with ten inches of snow on the ground.

DENBY DIES IN HIS SLEEP

End Comes at His Detroit Home

Former Secretary of Navy Forced from Cabinet by Teapot Oil Scandal

He Had Served in Two Wars, Legislature and Congress; Interested in Business

DETROIT, Feb. 8. (AP)—The courageous heart that carried Edwin Denby with head unbowed through the Teapot Dome scandal failed him today and brought sudden death in his sleep to the former Secretary of the Navy at his home in the Whittier Apartments here. He was found dead in bed by his wife, Mrs. Marian Thurber Denby, when she awoke. Mr. Denby would have been 59 years of age on the 18th inst.

Besides Mrs. Denby, their daughter, Marian, 13, was in the apartment at the time. A son, Edwin, Jr., 16, is a student at the Severn School in Maryland. He also leaves three brothers, Charles Denby of Washington, Wythe Denby of Chicago and Garvin Denby of New York.

IN GOOD HEALTH

A huge, rock-like figure of a man, Denby apparently was in his usual good health when he retired Thursday night. He had undergone a physical examination recently and was pronounced in good condition.

A love for the sea was deeply ingrained in "Ned" Denby, as his friends called him. His father was at one time United States Minister to China, but Denby insisted upon enlisting in the Navy during the Spanish-American War as a plain gob—a gunner's mate third class on the U.S.S. Yosemite. The World War came and Denby enlisted as a leatherneck, a private in the Marine Corps, from which he was mustered out as a major.

While his resignation as Secretary of the Navy on his birthday in 1924, virtually forced by his connection with the Teapot Dome affair, was a bitter blow to Denby, he turned it in without bitterness in his heart.

In his capacity as Secretary of the Navy Denby signed the transfer from the Navy to the Interior Department of the naval oil reserves in Teapot Dome, Wyo., and Elk Hills, Cal., by executive order of President Harding. Later, Denby, with Albert B. Fall, then Secretary of the Interior, signed the leases that transferred the properties in turn to Harry F. Sinclair and Edward L. Doheny.

RESPONSIBILITY ASSUMED

When the oil scandal broke, Denby at first was spared. In 1924 demand was made in the Senate for his resignation. Replying to these demands, Denby assumed full responsibility for the oil leases. He declared they were made in strict accordance with the law and in the best interests of the country.

Long afterward he reiterated this conviction, and added: "If the matter came before me again tomorrow, I would do the same thing."

He pointed out that an act of Congress requires the Secretary of the Navy to protect the oil reserves and gives him power to dispose of them if he believes it best.

Upon his resignation, Denby returned to Detroit again to take up his banking, industrial and legal work. He found a hero's welcome awaiting him and a day set apart to fete him. Resolutions and testimonials of his friends told him that, while "Ned" Denby "perhaps made a mistake, he never was unfaithful to a trust."

Funeral services will be at Christ Episcopal Church here at 11 a.m. Monday with burial in Elmwood Cemetery on Detroit's East Side.

PRESIDENT COOLIDGE EXPRESSES SYMPATHY

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—A telegram of sympathy was dispatched by President Coolidge today to Mrs. Edwin Denby upon the death of her husband, the former Secretary of the Navy.

"I am deeply grieved to learn of the passing of your husband," the President said. "His life was an outstanding example of good citizenship. He served his home city, his State and his country both in peace and in war. He was a member of the Cabinet, displaying qualities of heart and mind which endeared him to all his associates. Mrs. Coolidge joins me in heartfelt sympathy."

All the Navy's warships and stations were ordered today by Secretary Wilbur to fly their flags at half mast on the day of the funeral of former Secretary Denby. The tribute is a usual custom of the Navy upon the death of a former Secretary.

Mr. Wilbur also announced that the Navy will be represented at the funeral by some of its officers. The Secretary said Mr. Denby's death came as a surprise because on a recent visit to Washington he appeared to be in excellent health and spirits.

"We extend our sympathy to the bereaved family," he said.

FALL KILLS FOKKER'S WIFE

Famous Plane Maker's Mate Plunges from Window of New York Apartment to Death

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Viola Fokker, wife of Anthony H. G. Fokker, airplane manufacturer and designer, committed suicide tonight by jumping fifteen stories from the bedroom window of their Riverside-Drive apartment. She was 29 years of age.

Mrs. Fokker had suffered from a nervous disorder for two months and for a time was in a Boston hospital. She was removed a few days ago to the Presbyterian Hospital here and had been discharged from there only this afternoon.

Fokker told police he returned home tonight after a day of flying and, being tired and sleepy, decided to take a nap before dinner. His wife, he said, already was resting. She was in a highly nervous condition, he told police, and complained: "You are always sleepy; why don't you talk to me once in a while and pay some attention to me?"

He attempted to quiet her, he said, and then fell asleep.

WOMAN DISAPPEARS

Mrs. Fokker called the maid and ordered Mr. Fokker's dinner and a glass of water for herself. When the maid returned with the water Mrs. Fokker was gone. The maid wakened Fokker, who noticed the window was open and looking down he saw his wife's body lying in the driveway fifteen stories below.

Police said a protecting ventilator had been removed from the window. They listed the case is suicide.

Fokker collapsed and was under the care of a physician.

Mrs. Fokker, a native of Canada, was an expert flyer and frequently piloted her husband's planes. They were married two years ago.

FAMOUS PLANE MAKER

Mr. Fokker is a native of Holland and came to the United States in 1920. He designed many of the fighting planes used by the Germans during the World War and has been successful as a manufacturer and designer since coming to this country.

It was one of his planes that was used by Commander Richard E. Byrd on his flight to the North Pole and on the trans-Atlantic flight.

ROME PACT SIGNING TO BE DELAYED

Vatican and Government of Italy Would Avoid Crowds of Sunday

ROME, Feb. 8. (AP)—Signature of the treaty of conciliation and concordat between the Vatican and the Italian government has been postponed from Sunday until Monday morning.

On Sunday a te deum will be sung for the anniversary of the Pope's coronation in the Church of St. John Lateran, which adjoins the papal palace, where the ceremony of signing will take place.

As news of the momentous event in the Lateran Palace certainly would become known, a great gathering of people would ensue, which it is thought best to avoid. Consequently, the signing was put over a day.

The treaty will be signed with a golden pen supplied by the Vatican. The pen will be kept in the Vatican museum as a historical memento.

HOOVERS AVOIDING FETES

Wealthy Winter Colony in Florida Disappointed; Flood of Invitations Declined

MIAMI BEACH (Fla.) Feb. 8. (AP)—The President-elect and Mrs. Hoover have disappointed socially the wealthy winter colony of Miami and Miami Beach. They literally have been showered with invitations to functions of various sorts, but thus far have accepted none.

In fact since their arrival more than two weeks ago, they have lived in virtual seclusion on Belle Isle or on the houseboat on which they have made a couple of excursions to the fishing grounds off the Florida keys.

On those trips they were accompanied by a number of old friends and they have had many other friends in for luncheon and dinner. The only invitation they have accepted was that to a private luncheon given in their honor yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus H. K. Curtis aboard the Philadelphia publisher's yacht in Biscayne Bay.

LATEST INVITATION

The latest invitation to come to Mr. and Mrs. Hoover is that from the committee of 100, composed of winter residents of the Twin Resort cities, to attend the first annual ball of those residents to be given one week from tonight at the Nautilus Hotel, Miami Beach. The committee proposed to provide a Presidential box for the next chief executive and first lady.

The invitation was declined with the explanation that Mr. Hoover on that date will be engaged in his two-day inspection of the Okeechobee flood district of Southern Florida, on which he will embark next Friday.

BILTMORE HERE ALOOF IN MERGER

Combine of Largest Two Hotel Chains Planned; Los Angeles Unit Out

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—Reports from New York that negotiations are under way in that city to effect a merger of two of the largest hotel chains in the United States, the United Hotels Company and the Bowman-Biltmore group, were confirmed here today by George H. O'Neil, vice-president in charge of operations for the United Hotels Company.

The merger, if completed, will represent the combination of $250,000,000 in properties, O'Neil said, but probably will not include the Los Angeles Biltmore. The latter, although part of the Bowman-Biltmore chain, is operated as a separate organization, O'Neil said.

O'Neil has been in this city for several days to supervise personally a contemplated $1,500,000 remodelling and new construction program at the St. Francis Hotel, the latest addition to the United Hotels chain.

O'Neil said if the deal is consummated Frank A. Dudley, president of the United Hotels Company, probably will be president of the group and John McEntee Bowman, head of the Bowman-Biltmore chain, probably will be chairman of the board.

French Chamber Gives Poincare Confidence Vote

PARIS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The French Chamber of Deputies today gave the government of Raymond Poincare a vote of confidence, 460 to 20, on a motion expressing the Chamber's belief "in the patriotic attachment of the population of Alsace-Lorraine to the republic and to France."

Previously the Chamber by a vote of 330 to 256 had rejected a Socialist substitute motion which the Premier also made a vote of confidence.

JURY CONVICTS ALL THREE OF BRIBERY CONSPIRACY

Quickly Returned Verdict Crushes Tailor While ex-Prosecutor Tries to Conceal Emotion

Former Dist.-Atty. Asa Keyes, E. H. Rosenberg and Ben Getzoff were found guilty of criminal conspiracy to give and receive bribes, by a jury of ten women and two men in Superior Judge Butler's court last night.

The jury deliberated on the evidence two hours and five minutes, arriving at the verdict at 9:45 p.m. Only one ballot was taken by the jurors, the rest of the time being taken in discussion of the case.

"It's all wrong and the truth will come out," said Keyes after the verdict was read.

Although his face showed the strain under which he was laboring he made an attempt to be cheerful.

SENTENCE DUE MONDAY

Superior Judge Butler set Monday at 10 a.m. for sentence. The conviction on the conspiracy charges carries a sentence from one to fourteen years. In the case of Keyes, he, as a public officer, will not be admitted to probation.

Attorneys William Beirne and Paul Schenck, representing Keyes, asked that their client, who was at liberty on his own recognizance during the trial, be allowed his freedom until next Monday, and defense counsel for Rosenberg and Getzoff joined in the request, but Judge Butler declined to grant it, and all three of the convicted men were remanded to the custody of the Sheriff and taken to the County Jail.

GETZOFF CRUSHED

"That settles it!" he exclaimed, sinking back in his seat.

"Come on, fight," he was urged, but he only shrugged his shoulders and hunched down in his seat.

The courtroom was well filled when the verdict came in, and a whisper "conviction" ran around the room as the jurors filed to their places in the jury box, the stern and lined faces of the jury men and women indicating that they had performed an unpleasant duty.

"Have you arrived at a verdict?" asked Judge Butler.

"We have," replied Mrs. Florence D. Johnston, who had been selected forewoman of the jury.

THREE SLIPS TELL FATE

Three slips were handed to Court Clerk Stoner, each one bearing the fate of one of the defendants.

Getzoff was declared guilty on the first one read by the clerk of the court, and the verdicts against Rosenberg and Keyes followed.

As it was possible for the jury to have found any one of the defendants guilty and acquitted the other two, the suspense lasted until Clerk Stoner, in measured tones, had read all three of the verdicts.

After the verdicts were delivered Judge Butler discharged the jurors after complimenting them for their attitude throughout the case, saying that he had never seen a jury more attentive to the evidence and the arguments, even though they were kept away from home for five weeks.

ONLY ONE BALLOT

According to Mrs. Florence D. Johnston, forewoman of the jury, there was only one ballot taken—fifteen minutes before they reported—and that declared the guilt of all. After the jurey returned from dinner Mrs. Johnston was elected to head the members of the panel, and immdiately thereafter plunged into a discussion of the case.

Dist.-Atty. Fitts, who had held a conversation with Mrs. Johnston and her fellow-members immediately after they were excused, declared the discussion in the jury-room unique in criminal court trials of Los Angeles county, inasmuch as strong argument and bickering were lacking.

ARGUMENT LACKING

The best information from Fitts and Mrs. Johnston indicated that the discussion behind the locked and guarded doors was most amiable. There was not the slightest bitterness displayed by any juror—all seemed of one mind from the start. As the conference proceeded, some of the jurors said they were amazed to find themselves in one frame of mind and ready to ballot.

Despite the agreement which was apparent from the beginning the jurors asserted they deliberated the entire two hours and five minutes in calm and dispassionate discussion in order to be positive of their opinions. Then the ballot was taken, the trio found guilty, the verdicts returned to the court and the jurors parted with warm friendships for one another.

The quick verdict came as a surprise to Keyes and Getzoff. When the buzzer from the jury room rang indicating that the jury had arrived at a verdict Keyes and Getzoff were out of the Courthouse and nearly twenty minutes elapsed before they filed in, the cynosure of many eyes.

Keyes plainly showed the struggle for composeure that was going on within him. When the verdict of guilty was read against Rosenberg, his lips tightened. Usually the most cheerful of the

FIERY APPEAL ADDRESSED TO JURY BY PROSECUTOR

He Links Legal Arguments With Flaming Philippics Directed at Conspiracy Suspects

An eloquent plea for law enforcement coupled with a bitter attack on Asa Keyes, Ed Rosenberg and Ben Getzoff, together with a general discussion of the evidence and testimony as presented by both the prosecution and defense, was Dist.-Atty. Fitts's closing argument to the jury in the Keyes bribery trial. It took Mr. Fitts just two hours to deliver his address.

In his remarks the District Attorney pointed out what he termed the weak spots in the defense advanced by Keyes and the other two defendants and explained to the jury the amazing nature of the story related by Keyes. He called attention to the many gifts received by Keyes and then connected them with various actions of the former District Attorney in reference to the Julian trial. His argument, according to courtroom observers, was the most powerful appeal made during the five and one-half days of argument.

Portions of Mr. Fitts's argument follow:

May it please the court, and you, ladies and gentlemen: Before another sun comes up, there will be committed to your custody and your keeping the honor of the county of Los Angeles and the integrity of the public service of the county of Los Angeles. I have the privilege of standing before you as the chief law enforcement officer of this county. I have found myself, ladies and gentlemen of this jury, in a rather sad position during the course of this trial. I was confronted on the day that I arrived from the East, from the day that I took up the press in Cleveland, O., and there I found that a former friend and a former associate had been indicted by the grand jury of this county, and there came before me, as the next District Attorney of Los Angeles county, of course, the conflict between duty and former association.

I want to say honestly and truly, that I came into this courtroom—for I knew the evidence; I had seen the evidence piled step by step in the preparation of this case—and I came into this courtroom just in the same frame of mind as Maj. Simpson has expressed it, hoping against hope that when this case had finished and the defense had commenced, that there would be presented in this courtroom and to this jury at least, a sane, reasonable explanation of the things that we have built up.

EARLY ASSOCIATION

I recalled that in 1919, just after I had come back home, I took the civil service examination. As a civil service employee I entered the office of the District Attorney of this county under Mr. Woolwine, as one of the younger deputies, and I came to know Mr. Keyes there. Our offices were opposite each other.

As time went on and I went ahead in the office, I became better acquainted.

So as I came into this courtroom, even with all the evidence we had built up, that to our minds would be very difficult to explain in an honest way, I still hoped, as Mr. Stewart and Mr. Simpson and Mr. Clark, that when we came to the time for them to present their defense to you that we would find in that defense an explanation.

But, ladies and gentlemen, as they produced witness after witness on the stand, there began to creep into my mind first a strong suspicion that they were not telling you the truth, and then suspicion gave way to conviction.

So I now stand before this jury as the responsible law enforcement officer of this county, and I charge Asa Keyes, and I charge Ed Rosenberg, and I charge Ben Getzoff, under the evidence in this case as presented in this courtroom to this jury from the witness stand, as having corrupted the public service that Asa Keyes was a part of for so many years in this county.

ATTACK MADE

And I say with all the earnestness that God has endowed me with, as I sat in this courtroom and listened day after day to the evidence from their witnesses, I say to you then and there, ladies and gentlemen, that I saw before me one whom I suspicioned to be, one whom I was convinced to be, a man who would enfeeble the government of which he was a part, and a man, if every servant of the public service of America would pattern after his course of conduct in the last two years, would be to cause the government to be despised, and to render it contemptible in the eyes of every decent citizen in our nation.

I say to you with all that hope, and as I listened to this evidence in this courtroom, Asa Keyes must remember that he took the Lincoln—not I, that he was Asa Keyes, the District Attorney of Los Angeles county, a man occupying the most sacred position that could come into the public service next to the right to judge; a man who occupies the right in this county at his will to take human lives and human liberty. I say to you that that was the man who took his radio, and that was the man who brought me into the courtroom here as your District Attorney. I am not responsible. It is my duty under my oath before my God, and that oath means something to me, to stand before the jurors in this county and before the courts of Los Angeles county and to ask for the conviction at the hands of courts and juries the men and women guilty of a violation of your laws.

"POLITICS" ITEM

You know we are human beings in that office. We have heard so much here, without foundation whatever, that Mr. Keyes is the victim of politics. Ladies and gentlemen, I have served in the public service of California for some time. I am not new to public life of our county or our State. When Mr. Schenck stood before this jury and told you that he had heard during the various campaigns that I conducted in this State, statements I had made, he knew that with what soul and strength and courage God has endowed me with, that I believed in honest public service. That is what he knows. He knew as your Lieutenant-Governor of California, that I had consistently taken the position up there that while there were many economic questions coming within government, and different matters coming within government, matters of economics, that I stood for the right.

There are two phases in your government service where no decent man or woman will allow political expediency to influence him, and that man or woman in your public life who is so debased and so unprincipled that they will for the sake of political expediency ask for a man's liberty, is the lowest form of life next to a receiver of bribes.

I say to you, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, that some five or six years ago I stood here before this jury box in this courtroom and there sat on the opposite side of the counsel table, three men on trial for their lives. They were convicted and executed. There was called to my mind a statement of the law as to my duty as a public prosecutor, and this is by the Appellate Court of California. It is not long.

DUTY OUTLINED

"A public prosecutor represents all the people, all and every person accused of violating public law is none the less because he is so accused. A public prosecutor represents the majesty of the law and stands for the protection of every citizen against the taking of his life, his liberty or his property without due process. The law condemns rather than commands the conviction of an innocent person upon insufficient evidence or by unfair means."

Ladies and gentlemen of the jury, we are not trying in this case the Julian case. We are not trying Jack Bennett's guilt or innocence in the Julian case. We are not trying in this case Ed Rosenberg's guilt or innocense in the Julian case.

OTHER ISSUES

They have sought to bring every conceivable issue that they could bring here except the ones charged in the indictment. They have sought to try before this jury—they have sought by every artifice and by every means and device at their command to throw out a smoke screen to camouflage the issues in this case for the purpose of befogging the minds of the jury in this case. We are not trying the Julian case. The charge in this case is not bribery. Did Asa Keyes, did Ed Rosenberg, did Ben Getzoff, and did Jack Bennett, confer, agree or understand, without any necessity of a definite agreement? Did they act in concert? Did they understand each other for the purpose of influencing Asa Keyes's action?

We are not charging him with bribery here, although we have gone further and we have proved bribery in this case. We are charging him with Rosenberg and Getzoff and Bennett with acting in concert to unlawfully influence Keyes's action. And under the charge in this case, and under the indictment before you, it is immaterial whether he was in fact influenced or not. That is not necessary under the charge in this case. And when they go out to try Rosenberg's guilt or innocence in the Julian case, that is just simply an attempt to throw out a smoke screen here, because it is not material.

We have tried it because we have known the facts. We have been confident in the truthfulness of our facts. It is not a charge here. They are charged with agreeing together to influence the action. And, listen! Under a law and under the indictment in this case, if you find that they did act in concert, if you find that there was any understanding without the necessity of being a definite legal understanding, if you find that they were acting in concert in an understanding, and that in pursuance of that concert of action or understanding, any overt act, even the hiring of the renting of the room in the Hayward Hotel, was sufficient. If you find those facts to be true beyond every reasonable doubt, it is your duty under the law and under the evidence and under the indictment to find a verdict of guilty against each of these three men.

WITNESS QUOTED

Now, we find that Bennett says, "I saw Asa Keyes take money." Harry Light says that. "I saw Asa Keyes take money from Getzoff."—Sherman. "I saw Asa Keyes take money from Getzoff."—Pike. "I saw Asa Keyes coming out of the dingy rear office of the tailor shop with his billfold in his hand."—Nellac.

But what do we find Asa Keyes doing? Just before the argument opened up in the Julian case, he says to Julian Richardson, "I am not going to ask for Rosenberg's conviction. You can do as you will." And Richardson says to him, "I will ask the jury to convict him." Now, if Mr. Keyes's story is true, if he wanted him dismissed solely to use him as a witness, why did Mr. Keyes say to Julian Richardson, "I am not going to ask for Rosenberg's conviction." That was at the conclusion of the case where he occupied the same place in the history of that case that I am occupying here. It would be the same as if I would say to this jury, with Bennett on trial,—or I would say to Mr. Stewart, "I am not going to ask for Bennett's conviction."

"HE STOOD ALONE"

Asa Keyes stood alone. He stood against Judge Doran; he stood against Richardson; he stood against Becker—Becker, the able substantial lawyer he is. He stood against Van Cott. With the ability of Van Cott, why didn't he call these two people into his conference? I would have done it in the office.

They are the ones who knew this testimony, who had argued the demurrer in the courtroom when the demurrer was entered to the Julian indictments; they were the ones who knew the evidence before the grand jury; they are the ones who had argued the law points; and yet when it came time to dismiss Ed Rosenberg, we find Keyes ignoring the Hickman case, ignoring Becker, ignoring Van Cott, ignoring Richardson, and ignoring every man in the office, walking down innocently to dismiss the case against Ed Rosenberg.

HOUSE QUESTION

The question of this house that Keyes and his wife had striven for for years, had been saving for for years, seemed to stick in the craw of some of the gentlemen on the other side. Mr. Davis pointed out to you yesterday, ladies and gentlemen, if there were anything wrong in the two bank accounts that have been mentioned, if there was anything wrong with the checks that was given for, drawn by Keyes on the Merchants National Bank down there, on the Union Savings Bank, on a savings account—if there was anything wrong with the check that was given as deposit on that house on the 26th of March, drawn on the Bank of Italy on the checking account, don't you suppose it would have been placed before you, ladies and gentlemen? Did they do it?

Now, listen! Asa Keyes with twenty-five years in the District Attorney's office knew that a bank account was open to the process of the court, and that is too alert and too skillful and he knew it, to put this asserted corrupt money in a bank account. But if Asa Keyes wanted to be fair with this jury, if he wanted to place all the facts before this jury upon which he asks at your hands a verdict of not guilty, why didn't Asa Keyes—why didn't Mrs. Keyes when she was on the witness stand, tell you where they got their money?

MONEY LACKING

The evidence in this case is that in 1925, Keyes and Mrs. Keyes started to look for a home. There was a lot that Getzoff had, but they were unable to build a $12,000 or $14,000 home, and they continued to look, according to Mrs. Keyes, all through 1925, 1926 and 1927, and they didn't find a home that was suitable for them until in the midst of the Julian case, and then it cost $32,000. Then what do you find in that picture yonder in May or June, 1927, just a few months before Asa Keyes paid $15,000 on his Beverly Hills home? He tells Ben Getzoff that he is too poor, that he is unable financially to buy a new radio.

Then here is a significent thing: The price of the house was $32,000. How did Jack Bennett, how did Ben Getzoff know the price of that house? Because Ben Getzoff when he asked Bennett for money to pay for the house—Ben Getzoff told Jack Bennett, and he so testified in this court before you, that the price of the house was $32,500. Why, ladies and gentlemen, you say there is no corrupt association down there; you say there is no understanding there; they would have you believe that it was only for the purpose of taking a drink now and then that Keyes went down there!

Now, going back to the matter of these lamp shades. What is the significant fact in this case? Mr. Keyes tells you and Mrs. Keyes tells you that they went down to Ben Getzoff's brother-in-law to look for lamp shades. They went there alone. Neisner, who sold the lamp shades, says that they selected lamp shades, and Neisner says, "I sent the bill to Asa Keyes. I sent it with the merchandise or I mailed it."

PERTINENT QUERY

Now, this is a present from Getzoff to Keyes according to Keyes. Keyes and Mrs. Keyes selected this at night. The bill is sent to Keyes. Louis Berman pays the bill. How did he know that the lamp shades had been purchased? Who told him? And if he was told by Ben Getzoff, then why? What is the association? What is the relation between those men down there that would cause those men to be so close and so intimate that in a matter of lamp shades, when the District Attorney of this county has ordered them, the bill is paid for by the brother of a defendant on trial? And yet Keyes tells you there was an intimate association that they had down there.

Ladies and gentlemen, if there was not a scintilla of evidence in this case; if there was not one single word of testimony other than this one fact, this one bit of evidence stamps absolutely without controversy that Asa Keyes took the money, as has been said he took it; that Asa Keyes was a corrupt grafter. It shows without the possibility of refutation that Asa Keyes was a perjurer on the witness stand here; that he stood before this jury and lied with all the ability he had when he told you that, "I was doing the best I could to convict Jack Bennett in the Julian case."

He produced Costello, and Costello said, "We did nothing in the case of Jack Bennett in the forgery case until Mr. Keyes was indicted," and then Keyes, panic-stricken—then Keyes with a guilty conscience—then Keyes knew an investigation would be commenced, called Costello in as an afterthought and he says to prosecute Jack Bennett. But before that, what do we find? And Mr. Clark has touched upon it, and I want you before you do other than vote a verdict of guilty in this case, as you go in that jury room—I want you to answer your consciences this question:

CALLED HIM "LIAR"

Why did Asa Keyes, the District Attorney of your county, seeking to prosecute that double-crosser, that damnable liar, as they call him, that thief, as they called him here—ah, what a difference there is between his characterization of Jack Bennett in this courtroom and the way he characterized him in the Julian case! What a difference before these two juries! But Keyes says, "You know that I knew he was a double-crosser; you know that I knew during the Julian trial that he was a thief and damnable liar;" and yet we find the District Attorney of your county prosecuting a double-crosser, prosecuting a thief and a liar, a man who has stole $35,000,000, according to his statement here before you—prosecuting that man, going to his brother's home, the brother that had met Keyes, under the testimony in this case, only two or three days after the Julian crash came, for Louis Berman never met Asa Keyes until May, 1927, after the Julian crash came.

Yet Asa Keyes with Louis Berman's brother on trial, the brother that he has called a liar and a thief and a double-crosser and an extortioner of $35,000,000, Asa Keyes, occupying that position that he did, where every action, of course, should be done with the greatest caution because of the great power with which he is clothed and the great responsibility that rests upon his shoulders, we find him breaking bread with the brother of the man, whom he had met since the Julian crash, the brother of the man that he calls a liar, a thief and a double-crosser, Jack Bennett.

AUTO RECEIVED

Now, I am just about to close with the evidence, but before I do I want to read just this one excerpt here. It is not long, ladies and gentlemen of the jury, the facts of this case are that Keyes or his daughter did receive a Chevrolet, and that when Ben Getzoff went down to buy that Chevrolet, he lied about it. And if he didn't have a reason for lying, why did he do it? If he didn't have something to cover up, why did he lie about his relationship with Keyes's daughter at that time? And when Asa Keyes went down to buy his Lincoln, as he tells you he bought it, what are the facts? Wilkes told you from the witness stand that the two men came into the Lincoln agency. He says, "I didn't know who they were until they left." Asa Keyes, the District Attorney of your county, he should not be ashamed of his name if he would have you people believe his testimony here, but he goes down there and he looks over those cars. He never told the salesman his name. Ben Getzoff is shown a car. Ben Getzoff asks the price of the car. Ben Getzoff asks for a roadster, not Asa Keyes.

The salesman tells you that Keyes said nothing. Ben Getzoff is shown a green roadster and as both of them leave, still not knowing who Asa Keyes was, why Ben Getzoff hands his card to the salesman. As yet Asa Keyes is unknown. Yes, Asa Keyes is buying the Lincoln. And finally, two or three days later, Wilkes receives a call from Ben Getzoff—and Keyes is buying the car—and he goes down there and Ben Getzoff says, "I will take the Lincoln roadster." Asa Keyes is buying. And he goes down there and again Ben Getzoff, just as he did with the Chevrolet, asked about the special and extra equipment.

WATCH PURCHASED

So we come down now to the purchase of the watch. Ed Rosenberg, smiling, smirking, sarcastic Ed Rosenberg on the witness stand; he is the head of all the corporations, yes, that he has told you about. He is the man that less than two weeks after the verdict, paid $630 for a wrist watch out of gratitude to the District Attorney who would not ask for his conviction before a jury some two weeks before. He paid $630 for a wrist watch. He paid $1150 for a radio. And yet he would have this jury believe that he had to borrow $1800 two weeks later from Dave Getzoff and Ed Rosenberg, a man of family as he tells you he is, his whole characterization on that witness stand was, "I cannot be convicted here: I am Ed Rosenberg."

"I got the initials," says Bacon, "E. H. and the last name began with an R." Bacon is the salesman at Brock's. "I didn't understand the name. I got that much down on the sales ticket and asked him to repeat it." Rosenberg says it was an innocent transaction. "And he says, 'Is it necessary to have the name?' I says, 'No, if you don't want to give it, but it is customary for us to get the name.' 'Well,' he says, 'just call it Lutz.'"

"THEY HAVE LIED"

I am saying that Ed Rosenberg would have you believe that it was an innocent transaction. Yet they have lied about the Chevrolet; they have lied about the radio. They have falsified about the watch down there.

Ladies and gentlemen, this whole case from the moment that the first stipulation was entered into in this case that Asa Keyes was the District Attorney of this county, reeks with lies and perjury from the side of the defense in an endeavor and an effort to becloud the issue here and to lead this jury astray, to prevent you from returning a verdict as under this evidence you ought to return, of guilty against Ben Getzoff and Ed Rosenberg and Asa Keyes. And their whole case is built on fabrication and indirection. Why, I ask this jury when you go to your jury room, you analyze their defense and tell me if you can what their defense is except indirection, insinuation and hearsay. Where is a straightforward defense? Where is there any defense that would cause any man and woman, any men and women reasonable minded to justify the receipt of a Lincoln, to justify the receipt of a $1100 or $1000 Chevrolet, to justify the receipt of a radio, to justify a smoking jacket, to justify a chaise longue, to justify a $15,000 home, to justify the receipt of lamps, and to justify as it is in this case, the gift of an automobile from Jack Bennett and Ed Rosenberg to Ben Getzoff?

I told you that there were two classes of society in America, one battling against each other, the gangster against you, the honest people. Standing between you and them comes your police department, comes the District Attorney's office, comes the Sheriff's office, comes your Governor, each one of us in the public service of America today. I came down from Sacramento to do the best I could. The first and primary object of our government is the protection of our womanhood, the safeguarding of your children from the Northcotts and the protection of your lives and your property, so ladies and gentlemen, no matter what elese we do, no matter what else we give you, the first and primary object is the protection of womanhood, the safeguarding of human life and the protecting of property.

I want to be worthy of the faith and trust that you have vested in me; I want to live up to my oath of office, and yet, ladies and gentlemen I am helpless and I cannot do this job unless there sits in the jury box of this court men and women who believe in the country, who believe it is your prerogative and your duty to sustain and stand by all the ideals that we have in our country. That is your responsibility.

I have told you, ladies and gentlemen, with all the earnestness that I have, and I believe in the honesty of the public servants and I believe in my job. I want to protect life and I want to protect property and I want to protect Los Angeles from the Northcotts.

HEATED DEMAND

But I cannot do it unless you give me a battle line with the same kind of courage and the same kind of sincerity that we demanded ten years ago, and I ask you by your verdict here to demand of your public servants, to demand of me and Mr. Stewart and all the balance of us, that you demand by your verdict in this case that we shall not pursue in the years that I am District Attorney the same rotten course of graft and the receiving of bribes as that pursued by Mr. Keyes in the last two years of his holding office.

Tell the people of America that the people of this county are honest people, and let us tell them that the truth is that the vice of bribery so eloquently portrayed by Mr. Clark is that it opens the door of justice to the man with money and closes it to the man who is working for $5 or $6 a day.

Why, ladies and gentlemen, this country of ours is built and founded on a fair and square deal. When Calvin Coolidge not so very long ago stood before the Boy Scouts, he made this statement that rung from one end of the country to the other: "Confidence in our courts must be restored and faith in American justice revived." Calvin Coolidge knew the definition of justice for the definition of justice is truth in action, and all we ask you in the name of the State of California, for I am your representative and chosen by 2,500,000 of people, to enforce your laws, and I ask you to be fair; with all the heart that I have, I ask you to be fair. At the same time I ask you to do unflinchingly your duty as you told us you would do it when you came here.

REVERENCE FOR LAW

Let reverence for the law become the religion of our nation. And yet, ladies and gentlemen, we can have no reverence for the law if there are two standards, one for Jack Bennett, one for Ed Rosenberg, one for Ben Getzoff, one for Asa Keyes, and another for some one else. If we are to have reverence for the law it shall be built up even handed by the courts of justice. Let every man and woman in the nation receive the same square deal from every one in public service. That is the only way that we can have reverence for the law as far as our efforts are concerned in the county of Los Angeles and in the nation at large.

Ladies and gentlemen, I leave this case with you confident that you are going to do your duty. As Mr. Clark has said, and I join him, when you came here and told us you would do your duty in this jury box and be guided by the law and the evidence, I believed in you and I still believe you now.

I believe you are going to do your duty under the indictment in this case, and under the indictment in this case, ladies and gentlemen, I charge Asa Keyes and Ed Rosenberg and Ben Getzoff that they have debased and rendered contemptible unto the eyes of every man and woman in this county the government of which Asa Keyes was a part.

MORE CHARGES

I charge Asa Keyes that he has rendered that bribe service. I charge Asa Keyes, as we have alleged under our indictment, that he associated with Getzoff and Rosenberg for corrupt purposes. We charge that he performed these corrupt purposes. We charge that he received the gifts that Mr. Davis said that the children of Los Angeles county were deprived of by reason of the Julian catastrophe. If there is any man within the confines of the county of Los Angeles who should have upon his soul as long as God lets it remain there a blot for the injustice that he has rendered to this county, for the blot that he has put upon the fair name of our county, if there is anyone responsible in our county for the failure of justice in the Julian case it is Asa Keyes, the former District Attorney of this county.

Because of his conduct, because of his receipt of bribes, because of his transfer of the business of the District Attorney to the dingy office of a Spring-street tailor, because of the corruption that characterizes his whole service, because of the grasping heart and the putrid idea of the public servant that he has carried into effect, I ask at your hands as twelve men and women responsible to every man and woman in the public service, to every citizen of this county for the enforcement of your laws, I ask at your hands that you return a verdict of guilty against Asa Keyes for the bribe-taker that he is, against Ben Getzoff and against Ed Rosenberg for the participants that they are in the sordid, rotten, putrid scheme of bribery that persisted in this county under Asa Keyes.

OATH RECALLED

I do so knowing that you are going to do your duty, for you cannot do otherwise and be truthful and honest to your oaths and your responsibility as citizens of this county. Go to your jury room. Be fair and be square and let us be big about this thing. Be fair to them as human beings, but be fair and be big to the State of California whom you represent, and if you do, your verdict will be one of guilt unequivocally and your answer will be to the public servants of this county that we do not tolerate bribery, we do not tolerate the course of conduct of Asa Keyes, for you will repudiate on behalf of 2,500,000 people the system of bribery in which he engaged, and if you do so, you can only do so by that which I ask of you, a verdict of guilty against each of these defendants under the testimony and the evidence as we have laid it before you in this case.

Scorching Diatribe Aimed at Keyes

Dist.-Atty. Fitts Addressing Jury

HISTORY OF BRIBE CHARGE FORMS DRAMATIC STO

Keyes Case Accusation First M by Grand Jury on Oct. 31, 192 State Moved Quickly Then

The first revelation that the grand jury had been [illegible] the conduct of Asa Keyes in the District Attorney's [illegible] evidence of asserted misconduct had been [illegible] in the afternoon of October 31, 1928.

At that time the grand jury, headed by Col. [illegible] foreman, returned before Superior Judge Edmonds [illegible] against Keyes containing eight specifications [illegible] gifts of money, property and other things, and [illegible] the then District Attorney with willful and corrupt [illegible] office.

With the accusation three secret indictments were filed charging a criminal conspiracy in making and receiving a bribe, and named Keyes, Jacob Berman or Jack Bennett, Ed and Jack Rosenberg, Ben and Dave Getzoff, Charles Reimer and A. I. Lasker.

OTHERS VOTED LATER

These indictments, which later were replaced by other true bills found by the grand jury, were based on asserted acts of Keyes in connection with Rosenberg as a defendant in the Julian Petroleum cases, with Berman in the same case, and with Lasker in the dismissal by Keyes of charges of grand theft and violations of the Corporate Securities Act against him. In all three indictments Keyes was named a defendant. In one the Rosenbergs, the Getzoffs and Reimer were codefendants; in the second Berman and the Getzoffs, and in the third Lasker.

The accusation against Keyes, which was brought for the purpose of removing him from office pending an investigation of the charges against him, was placed in the hands of Attorney John W. Hart, as special prosecutor, for presentation at a hearing, and the various defendants named in the conspiracy and bribery true bills surrendered and were released on $50,000 bond. Keyes was released on his own recognizance, as suggested by the grand jury.

EVIDENCE GIVEN

The indictments were based principally on evidence as placed before the grand jury by Milton Pike, Joseph Sherman and John Rettenger, former employees of the Getzoffs in their tailor shop at 609 South Spring street. The tailor shop, according to the indictments, was the meeting place of the various defendants and the trio of employees testified to the hearing of various conversations and the passing of money between the defendants.

The more specific charges in the indictment set out an asserted corrupt agreement between Keyes, Berman, the two Rosenbergs and the two Getzoffs to bring about the release of Berman and Ed Rosenberg in the Julian Petroleum cases, which were ended with an acquittal of several defendants on May 23, 1928.

Much of the testimony before the grand jury was taken from a little brown diary which Pike asserted he prepared from notes taken on small cards during his employment by Getzoff. The diary started on May 24 and ended on July 28 when the tailor shop was sold.

MEETINGS REVEALED

The little brown book revealed numerous meetings between Keyes, Getzoff and others in the tailor shop, and formed the basis for the investigation by the grand jury in which several witnesses were called to substantiate statements of Pike, the writer, and the two other employees.

Five of those indicted appeared before Judge Edmonds on November 2 and were arraigned, bonds made and they were released. On the next day all the remaining accused appeared, and Hart was authorized by the Board of Supervisors to proceed with prosecution of the accusation against Keyes for "willful misconduct."

On November 7 Atty.-Gen. Webb announced appointment of Dist.-Atty-elect Buron Fitts to prosecute indictments against Keyes and the seven defendants, and on November 8 the accused appeared before Judge Edmonds and date for plea was set for the following Tuesday. In the meantime the grand jury had returned a second indictment of criminal [illegible] Keyes, and named A. I. [illegible] a defendant.

Three Quickly Convicted of Scheme to Cheat Justice

KEYES AND TWO OTHERS SOON LEARN THEIR FATE

three accused men, he paled and the color did not return to his face up to the time he was led to jail.

Dave Getzoff, son of Ben Getzoff, sat by his father's side, as the verdict was read. The son visibly flinched as he heard his father's fate.

Although Mrs. Keyes and her two daughters testified at the trial, and were present when Keyes made his argument before the jury, they were not in attendance when the verdict came in. Just before the jury came in bailiffs warned spectators against any demonstration, and the courtroom was cleared shortly after the verdicts were read.

GETZOFF COLLAPSES

On the way to the County Jail in the custody of detectives from the District Attorney's office, Getzoff suffered a severe attack of nerves. In the jail elevator in the Hall of Justice on the way to the booking office he collapsed completely and at the booking office Jail Physician Blank was summoned to revive him.

Keyes and Rosenberg assisted Dr. Blank in reviving their erstwhile codefendant, offering him encouragement until he was able to stand before Deputy Sheriff Hopkins and give the essential data required of a prisoner entering the jail. Later Dr. Blank ordered him taken to the jail hospital until he is recovered.

Rosenberg, by the time he reached the jail was much improved physically from the shock he received in the courtroom when he heard the verdict read that caused him to slump in his chair as a death pallor swept over his face. Deputy Sheriff Hopkins took the required data from him as he did from Getzoff.

KEYES SHOWS FEELING

Keyes, although somewhat shaken, still retained much of the poise that marked him during the trial. His face, however, showed the terrific strain he has been under and it was seamed, flushed and furrowed as he told his name, age and address to Deputy Sheriff McDermott for the jail records.

Then the convicted men went through the regular jail routine of finger-printing and receiving the blue denim of a celled-prisoner and, with the exception of Getzoff, who was placed in the jail hospital, were to be lodged in tank 10-B-2, according to Assistant Night Jailer Sumner.

On March 4, next, Keyes and Getzoff must again face trial with A. I. Lasker, a broker, on a bribery and conspiracy charge asserting that Getzoff and Lasker used a large sum of money to influence Keyes in the dismissal of twenty-one felony counts against the broker. The counts were dismissed on the order of the former District Attorney.

The case of Lasker, who has been reindicted and convicted on a number of the felony counts dismissed by Keyes, is a direct outgrowth of the exposure of the Julian case "fixing" conspiracy upon which Keyes and Getzoff were convicted last night.

STATE RESTS CASE

The State rested its case against the defendants at 5:30 p.m., the closing argument—a bitter denunciation of Keyes and an eloquent appeal to the jury to uphold the honor of Los Angeles county—being made by Dist.-Atty. Fitts.

Immediately on completion of the State's arguments, Judge Butler began reading his instructions to the jury.

He explained the law to the jury and instructed the ten women and two men, who later found the former prosecutor and his two codefendants guilty of a criminal conspiracy to give and receive bribes, the various legal points which they must consider.

Judge Butler gave his instructions in a low but steady voice, which carried to every member of the jury and could be heard throughout the still courtroom. He began his instructions at 5:30 p.m. and completed them at just 6:15 o'clock.

CHARGE EXPLAINED

Beginning with instructions that the jury should not allow pity or passion or prejudice for or against any of the defendants to sway the verdict, the judge went on to explain the nature of the charge against the accused. He made it clear that they were charged with a conspiracy and not with bribery or receiving a bribe.

With the explanation of the charge completed the court then went into the matter of the credibility of the witnesses and informed the jury that alone it must decide this point. He declared, however, that character, relations to the case, intelligence and manner in which the testimony was given must be considered.

Testimony found to be false in part must be distrusted, the judge informed the jury and corroboration of testimony was explained to mean when testimony corresponds with that given by a second person or comports with some facts which are otherwise established.

He dwelt at great length upon the theory of reasonable doubt and went into the legal points surrounding the testimony of an accomplice. He explained that taken alone the testimony of an accomplice was worth nothing but that it had to be corroborated by other testimony and proven facts.

The law of a criminal conspiracy and how to apply it took up a large portion of the three-quarters of an hour devoted by Judge Butler to reading his instructions.

Circumstantial evidence and its weight in a criminal action came in for quite a bit of attention in the later portion of the instructions and the judge closed his remarks by instructing the jury that each defendant was entitled to the individual opinion of each juror.

ALTERNATE DISMISSED

Judge Butler's last act before handing the case over to the jury was the dismissal of the alternate juror, Ethel M. Milford, who immediately was taken to her home by deputy sheriffs. She declined to comment on her probable vote on the advice of Special Prosecutor Clark.

After the bailiffs—two men and two women—in charge of the jury were sowrn the ten women and two men retired to dinner, returning to the Courthouse at 7:30 p.m. to commence deliberations.

Yesterday proved the most colorful day of the trial that lasted five weeks. Throngs of persons, a large number of them prominent in the life of the city, crowded the courtroom and stood in line outside throughout the entire day.

For an hour and one-half those in the courtroom listened in tense silence, broken only once or twice by the strained voices of defense counsel raised in objection late in the afternoon as Dist.-Atty. Fitts in stentorian tones denounced Keyes as a criminal and demanded his conviction.

STIRRING CHARGES

"He has debased and rendered contemptible this county in the eyes of the world," Fitts told the jury as he drew toward a conclusion. "He was responsible for the failure of justice in the Julian cases. He has made of the Temple of Justice a den of thieves."

"By your verdict," the District Attorney told the jury, "you will say whether this sordid, rotten, putrid scheme of things as carried on by Asa Keyes will continue in Los Angeles county. You twelve represent the 2,500,000 people living in this county, and your verdict will say whether others pursue the same course of conduct as did Keyes."

Fitts, in his argument, made a comprehensive survey of all the evidence in the case. He prefaced his remarks by declaring that he had entered the courtroom five weeks ago with the hope that Keyes would be able to explain away the case that the State prepared and would be able to prove his innocence.

"But you analyze their defense," he demanded of the jury, "and tell me, if you can, where it is. It reeked with lies and perjury."

TWO GROUPS IN LIFE

The District Attorney declared that American social life is composed of two groups—the decent, law-abiding citizens and the crooks and thieves—each in constant struggle for supremacy.

"Constituted authority is the first-line trench against the lawless group," went on Fitts, "and Keyes is the greatest deserter from the defending ranks. The lowest form of human life is that man that takes a public office and then becomes a deserter."

Coming to a discussion of the evidence, the prosecutor declared that the State is required to prove only one of the overt acts charged in the indictment to get a conviction but that it had furnished the jurors with a number so that they might know it all.

With this basis he took up the discussion of the golf clubs, the Lincoln automobile, the smoking jacket and other gifts received by Keyes and declared that the circumstances surrounding any one of them were enough on which to base a verdict of guilty.

NEW DENUNCIATION

"The defense tried every issue in the case except those charged in the indictments," shouted Fitts. "They attacked the testimony of Milton Pike, Joseph Sherman and John Rettinger and tried to make perjurers of these poor men without success. Keyes was a bigger perjurer than any one of them. I'd rather go to face my God from a pauper's shack than from the Beverly Hills home of Asa Keyes."

Keyes transacted the business of the county of Los Angeles in the dingy Spring-street tailor shop of Ben Getzoff, Fitts charged, drank whisky there and met members of his staff there.

"Why, it was a regular branch office of the District Attorney's office," cried the prosecutor.

In the matter of Keyes's new $27,000 home in Beverly Hills, which the defense charged the prosecution had failed to connect to any bribe plot through bank records or other evidence, Fitts had a long and hot answer.

He declared that defense knew well that Keyes was too clever to have placed large sums of bribe money in any bank account, and asked why, when Keyes and Mrs. Keyes took the stand, they failed to explain where they got the money to buy the house when they, at the same time, admitted they were unable to finance the building of a $14,000 house in 1925.

"They called Jacob Berman a liar, thief and double-crosser," shouted the prosecutor, "and Keyes told you in his arguments that he knew Berman as a rat and a fox, but you remember that he accepted a $173 set of golf clubs from him while there was still a charge of forgery and embezzlement against Berman, and that later he had dinner with Berman's brother Louis."

Fitts was preceded in his arguments before the jury by Special Prosecutor William Clark, who concluded an argument lasting nearly a court day at 4 p.m. yesterday.

"In principle there is no difference between Asa Keyes and Benedict Arnold," asserted Clark at the height of his speech. "We have soldiers to cope with the enemy abroad—can we cope with the enemy at home? Rome fell from corruption, are we to follow in her footsteps?"

"Let us forget all of the evidence of those witnesses that the defense has attacked as unreliable and see what there is left," he continued. "Five days after Rosenberg was indicted we find that an $1150 radio was delivered at the home of Asa Keyes. Even assuming that Keyes believed Getzoff wealthy, there is no evidence that he ever gave him anything before. Yet Keyes knew that Getzoff wanted to do something for Rosenberg—Getzoff had told him so. Did Keyes call up and send the radio back? Did he berate the tailor for trying to influence him? No. Keyes still has the radio."

EVEN COURT SMILES

"Keyes presents a blacker picture of himself than they have painted of Berman," the special prosecutor continued. "He tried to steal the good names of my associates when he knew that all he uttered was untrue slander."

Even Judge Butler's stern visage broke into a smile a few minutes later when Clark, asserting that he based his conclusions on the way Keyes was lauded before the jury by his attorneys, said that he had but to close his eyes to see Keyes on his way to heaven—wearing a smoking jacket, listening to an $1150 radio, with a set of golf clubs in one corner, a Lincoln roadster on behind as a trailer, and in his hand a sheaf of Ben Getzoff's liquor prescriptions.

The courtroom rocked with suppressed laughter when Clark asserted:

PEOPLE APPALLED

As he concluded, Clark declared that the people of the State and nation stand appalled at the situation, and he called on the jury calmly to consider the facts and bring in a verdict warranted by the evidence.

"It's up to you," said the special prosecutor. "You don't deserve a better government than you want."

The personnel of the jury that last night began deliberating on the Keyes case is as follows: Mrs. Abigail Bender, Mrs. Etta Shepherd, Mrs. Nellie Beck, Mrs. Elsie Corbin, Fred P. Eichhorn, Mrs. Tillie Vollmer, Mrs. Nettie Lytle, Mrs. Cora A. Myer, Joseph Alves, Mrs. Florence D. Johnston, Mrs. Mary F. Jones and Mrs. Nellie Phelps.

"TRAVESTY" CHARGED

Keyes did "lay down" on the prosecution of defendants in the Julian cases, Clark told the jury as he resumed his arguments, commenced Thursday afternoon, when court convened again yesterday morning.

"The District Attorney's closing argument in that case was the most reprehensible travesty on justice ever perpetrated in the courts of this county," the prosecutor informed the jury.

Returning to a discussion of the three defendants in the present case, Clark accused Keyes and Rosenberg of trying to saddle all the blame on "poor old Ben Getzoff."

"Getzoff is as bad as the defense said Jacob Berman was, and a little worse, but Keyes and Rosenberg are a little worse than either of these," declared the speaker, turning from the jury to shake his finger at Keyes and Rosenberg.

CHECKS BRANDISHED

As he excoriated the defendants the prosecutor brought to the attention of the jury what he termed irrefutable evidence of their guilt. He brandished three $50 checks written by Louis Berman and indorsed by Ben Getzoff that State's witnesses testified was money produced by Jacob Berman as a weekly entertainment fund for Keyes.

Another check for $1500 from Louis Berman to Ben Getzoff also was shown the jury. This was the check that Jacob Berman testified was part payment on a Buick automobile that Getzoff demanded as part payment for his activities in "fixing" things for Berman with Keyes.

"STICK TO FACTS"

Earlier in the course of his morning address Clark counseled the jurors not to be led astray or become confused on the facts of the case by the flights of oratory indulged in by counsel for the defense. As for the defense cry for "some direct evidence" to show the existence of a conspiracy between the defendants, Clark said that if the prosecution in a conspiracy case were called upon to show the actual organization of conspirators, with a constitution drawn with legal precision, showing officers and setting forth the purposes of the conspiracy, "then you might as well repeal your laws against conspiracy because you never could get a conviction under such requirements."

And then he shot a blow at the defense in this line of reasoning by reading to the jury from Keyes's own address to the jury in the Julian case where he told the jury, as a prosecutor, that the State could not be expected to produce eyewitnesses to the conspiracy but that evidence of the existing conspiracy could be determined readily by the actions and behavior of the conspirators.

"And it seems to me, ladies and gentlemen of the jury," said Clark as he swung around and faced Keyes, "that I have read somewhere in the Bible, 'Judge not lest ye be judged!'"

FITTS PRAISES AIDES AND JURORS

"No Man Will Ever Be Called Upon to Perform Harder Task" Prosecutor Declares on Behalf of Self and His Assistants

Dist.-Atty. Fitts, shortly after the return of the verdicts and the adjournment of court issued the following statement:

"No man will ever be called upon to perform a harder task than that which rested on the shoulders of myself and associates during the last six weeks. We have tried to do our duty unflinchingly as well as honestly.

"I want to pay tribute to the jury that tried the case for their unswerving loyalty, courage and sincerity. They have rendered a public service, and the public of Los Angeles county should be truly grateful to them.

"At the same time, I want to express my very sincere appreciation to Chief Deputy District Attorney Robert P. Stewart, Special Prosecutor William Clark and Dep. Dist.-Atty. William Simpson, as well as to Lucien Wheeler, chief of the bureau of investigation, and his assistants Blaney Mathews, John Burwald and Eddie King, who so ably assisted the prosecution in this case."

Special Prosecutor Clark, his voice hoarse from his long talk before the jury, said:

"No higher courage is ever required than that necessary to the discharge of a difficult public duty, where the natural feelings of pity and sympathy must be rigidly suppressed.

"The people of the county of Los Angeles cannot too highly appreciate the courage and integrity of the jurors who have discharged such a duty in the most important criminal case tried within the recent history of this county.

"The people of Los Angeles county are to be congratulated also upon having a law-enforcement officer devoted to his duty, and with the courage to discharge it."

SEGRAVE'S AUTO HAS AMBITION

British Challenger Says Daytona Beach Bus Can Do 240 Miles an Hour

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Maj. H. O. D. Segrave, American-born British challenger for the world's automobile speed record, today said the car he intends to drive at Daytona Beach, Fla., next month is capable of attaining a speed of 240 miles an hour.

"I want to say now," the major asserted in an address at a luncheon of the Advertising Club, "that 240 miles an hour is darned hard to do. Many factors enter into it, including the human factor, and when I say it is possible with this car, I do not mean to assert positively that it will be attained.

"The engine isn't cooling properly until it is doing around 150. We will have trials at Daytona and a special system of steering will be devised which will call for having the car sighted as sensitively as a fine gun and aimed at an object in the distance.

"We hope to learn from such tests data that will be of value to the motor car builder of the future. Also we feel we are keeping up the old English tradition that calls for clean sportsmanship and although the present record of 207 miles per hour is held by the United States, we hope to give you a new mark to shoot at."

The acquittals re returned by the jury on May une 4, Keyes and wife purchased worth of lamps and shades, which are delivered to their home and the bill was paid by Louis Berman on the order of his brother Jacob. Keyes admitted receipt of the lamps and shades, but declared he intended to pay for them until Getzoff declared they were a gift for the new home.

June 19, Berman got a list of golf clubs from Keyes and told his brother Louis to buy the complete set, including bag and inlay, costing $173, and deliver them to Keyes, who declared they were beautiful. Practically no reference to the expensive golf clubs was made by Keyes or other defense witnesses.

July 14, Keyes, Getzoff and their wives were dinner guests at the home of Louis Berman, where a long-distance telephone conversation was held by Keyes and Getzoff with Jack Berman. Keyes admitted the social affair and telephone conversation, but declared he could not remember the words he used in speaking with Berman.

TELEGRAM RECEIVED

July 16, Getzoff received a telegram from Jack Berman, discussing actions of Rosenberg and his demands. Louis Berman gave Getzoff check for $500, as a result of instructions received in telephone conversation of July 14. Telegram and check for amount placed in evidence, and not denied by defense.

July 18, Keyes and Getzoff inspected Lincoln coupe, which was purchased by Getzoff on July 23 with $1000 bills, and delivered to Keyes. Keyes admitted delivery of the car, but declared that the money was a loan from Getzoff, which he expected to repay from a salary of $1000 a month he was to receive as attorney for a finance company Getzoff planned to organize.

Other cash payments were in the prosecution's record, but all were denied by Keyes, while Getzoff did not take the witness stand, but Rosenberg and other defense witnesses intimated that the money paid to Getzoff by Berman was for a $25,000 loss suffered by the tailor shop owner in the Julian crash.

In presenting the prosecution of the charges against Keyes and his codefendants, Dist.-Atty. Fitts and his assistants offered testimony covering incidents from May, 1927, the date of the collapse of the Julian Petroleum Corporation, to the payment of $50 by Louis Berman, brother of Jacob, to Ben Getzoff on August 24, 1928.

The indictment asserted that the conspiracy existed from September 1, 1927, to September 1, 1928, but both prosecution and defense referred to occurrences during the Julian trial, which was completed on May 23, 1928, as well as incidents which took place during the investigation of the collapse, and while the grand jury was returning indictments against the principals of the Julian corporation.

CHIEF POINTS

In their chronological order the chief points as brought out by the prosecution in support of the charges, and the reply of the defense, as shown by the testimony were:

June 29, 1927, four days after the indictments were returned in the Julian cases the State declared Ed Rosenberg ordered a $1150 radio delivered to the home of Asa Keyes, payment for the gift being made by Ben Getzoff. Rosenberg, from the witness stand, denied that he ever had purchased or selected a radio for Keyes, but Keyes admitted that the radio was delivered about the time specified, but that he believed that it was sent to his home by Getzoff.

During July, and the fall months up to November, it was testified that Keyes and Rosenberg were frequent visitors at the Getzoff tailor shop at 609 South Spring street. Keyes said that he was a frequent visitor, but Rosenberg testified that he had been in the place only four or five times.

SMOKING JACKET

January, 1928, a smoking jacket was purchased by Getzoff for Keyes at the request of Rosenberg, State witnesses declared. Keyes declared he had never received such a smoking jacket, but that he remembered trying one on in the tailor shop which was too small. Rosenberg denied all connection with the purported gift.

February 9 or 10, 1928, Ed Rosenberg had conversation with Jack Berman at Hall of Justice, during course of Julian trial, and in afternoon took Berman to 609 South Spring street, where they met Getzoff, according to Berman. Later Berman testified he paid $5000 to Rosenberg for Getzoff, and on February 14, after a return from San Francisco he paid a second $5000 to Rosenberg. Also Berman declared he agreed to pay Getzoff $100 per week for entertainment expenses, and then Rosenberg took him to the tailor shop where Getzoff told him that the $10,000 had been used to pay Keyes's gambling debts. Rosenberg denied the trip to the Getzoff shop, and produced witnesses who testified that he was out of the city during the time mentioned by Berman, and that he never received any money from Berman for Getzoff. Keyes testified that he never received any money from Getzoff at any time.

CAR FOR DAUGHTER

March 7, chaise lounge, which was ordered at Barker Brothers on March 2 by Berman and Getzoff, costing $435 was delivered to Keyes's home. Keyes admitted the arrival of the gift, but declared that he thought it was one he had ordered in December from Chicago. He testified that Getzoff refused to give him the bill for the piece of furniture and that he never had paid for it.

March 9, Getzoff told Berman, the latter testified, to buy a car for Keyes's daughter, because it would please Keyes and help the situation along. Getzoff bought a small coupe, paid for it with $1000 bill, ordered it delivered to Miss Keyes, whom he called "his daughter" and refused to sign the sales slip. Keyes admitted the gift, as did his daughter, but both testified that they thought it a present from Getzoff who long had been a friend of the family, and whom they believed to be wealthy.

HOME DEAL

March 15, negotiations were under way for the purchase of the Keyes home in Beverly Hills. Early in March, Berman said, he put up $7500 for a new home Keyes was buying. In the middle of the month, he declared, Getzoff demanded $10,000 from Berman to release the new Keyes home from escrow, which Berman put up. March 26, Keyes paid $2500 deposit on house, and on March 28 paid in escrow $8500, plus $4000, plus $100. Keyes testified as to the purchase of the new home during March, as did his wife and daughter, and denied that the money came from Berman or Getzoff. The source of the money used in the home purchase was never placed before the jury by defense witnesses.

TORAL DIES AT NOON TODAY

Slayer of Gen. Obregon Spends Last Hours in Prayer as Portes Gil Denies Final Plea

MEXICO CITY, Feb. 8. (AP)—Jose De Leon Toral tonight spent the last hours of his life in prayer in the death cell of the penitentiary on the outskirts of the capital. At noon tomorrow he will face a firing squad in fulfillment of the death sentence imposed for assassinating President-elect Obregon on July 17, 1928.

President Portes Gil today denied his appeal for executive clemency, which was his sole remaining hope. Relatives were permitted to pay final visits to him today. As soon as Gov. Puig Casauranc of the Federal District received the final papers from the San Angel Court, where Toral was tried, he notified the director of the penitentiary to carry out the sentence at noon tomorrow.

Toral, posing as a cartoonist, last July approached the one-armed warrior-President as he sat at a banquet table and fired six bullets from a revolver into his body. Gen. Obregon died a few minutes afterward.

TO DIE IN COURTYARD

Tomorrow Toral will face the bullets of justice in one of the courtyards of the penitentiary called Patio Alvaro Obregon in honor of the man he killed.

The prisoner made two final requests this afternoon. One was that he be shaved before his execution so that he might face the firing squad with a clean face. The other was that he might visit briefly under guard his modest home to kiss his wife and two children, the youngest a boy only a few days of age, good-by.

He previously had asked for permission to have a Catholic priest with him before execution that he might make confession and receive the last services from a minister of his religion. He had testified during his trial that he killed Gen. Obregon because he thought it would contribute toward ending what he called the persecution of the Catholic church in Mexico and promote a settlement of what he described as a religious controversy.

CALM AND COMPOSED

Toral was calm and composed today when prison officials brought to his cell the formal order for his execution. He read deliberately the document which gave him only twenty-four hours to live. He said no word.

"Please sign here," requested an official, indicating the place where the signature of a prisoner doomed to death is required. Toral with a firm hand took the pen and signed his name clearly and boldly without a tremor. Then he knelt and resumed his prayers.

Mother Concepcion, who was convicted of conspiring with Toral and was sentenced to twenty years' imprisonment, is ill in the infirmary of the same penitentiary and within earshot of the courtyard where Toral is to die. Unless she is moved she will hear the volley which will end the life of the young student who used to come to her house to pray, but of whose idea of killing Obregon she always has denied knowledge.

Toral was granted one of his last wishes tonight. The penitentiary authorities permitted his wife, still pale and weak, to bring into his cell his ten-day-old son that he might see him once.

The authorities announced that he would be granted another in that a Catholic priest will be with him tonight before his execution tomorrow.

Edison Company Faces Charges

MERCED, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—A suit asking $300,000 damages and an injunction against an asserted "threat of the Southern California Edison Company to stop the entire flow of waters in the San Joaquin River and its tributaries" was filed in Superior Court here today by the Charles S. Howard Company. The plaintiff contends that riparian rights on property along the San Joaquin River and Mariposa and Deep Sloughs will be violated if a plan of the defendant to construct dams, tunnels and other projects above their lands is carried out.

The Howard company owns large areas of cattle lands along the San Joaquin River. Water has been taken from the river and its tributaries during the past three years in violation of the riparian rights of the Howard company, the complaint charges, and asks $200,000 for damages sustained.

COOLIDGE FIRM IN NAVAL STAND

Opposition to Retention of Time Clause Stressed

But Signing of Measure for Cruisers Expected

House Sends Appropriation Bill to Senate

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—President Coolidge's dissatisfaction with the naval cruiser bill as approved by Congress was reiterated today at the White House. It was asserted the President has not changed his attitude of opposition based on the retention of the time clause.

Despite this fact, however, there is a general impression that he will sign the bill, probably early next week. The engrossed copy of the bill reached the White House during the day and was referred to the Budget Bureau. The Navy Department also will pass on the measure before the President acts. It is known that naval officials are making their plans on the theory that the President will sign the bill without question and that funds will be provided for starting work on the first five cruisers before the end of the present fiscal year.

Meanwhile, pacifist appeals for a veto of the bill are reaching the White House. To offset propaganda of this character are numerous urgent requests for the siging of the bill.

If President Coolidge were not going out of office so soon there is a feeling that he might veto the bill. While he is for the cruiser construction program he has been insistent that the inclusion of a time clause requiring building the different groups of ships to be commenced within specified periods may interfere with a proper balancing of the budget.

Already accused of leaning toward pacifism, the President evidently realizes that a veto of the cruiser bill would be interpreted as another evidence of this trend. Also, inasmuch as both houses would promptly pass the bill over his veto, he would accomplish nothing and the closing weeks of his administration would be marked by a serious blow to his prestige.

When it became evident that the President will not sign the cruiser bill at once, House leaders decided not to hold up action on the naval appropriation bill further. The bill was passed late today and sent to the Senate. The plan now is to add about $12,000,000 to the bill in the Senate for commencing construction of five cruisers during the present fiscal year.

Representative Britten, Republican of Illinois, chairman of the House Naval Affairs Committee, said today that the announcement from London that Great Britain has no intention of postponing any part of her naval building program "is good enough for the funny pages."

Mr. Britten said that whenever the United States considers an increase in naval strength announcements come from London of the slowing up of the British naval program, but that as this country acts a different attitude is apparent. Only pacifists, he said, have taken the reports of any curtailment in the British program seriously. Great Britain has a secret naval program, he said, which calls for the expenditure of $300,000,000 for cruiser construction and $425,000,000 for battleships between now and 1937.

PRESIDENT'S MIND OPEN ON SHIP BIDS

Coolidge Holds Data on Subject Insufficient to Base Advice On

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—President Coolidge, while still a constant advocate of the transfer of the government's merchant fleet to private operation, has not sufficient information to give a final opinion upon the adequacy of the bids now being considered for the United States and American Merchant Marine lines.

It was disclosed today that Mr. Coolidge was impressed by the fact that while some concerns offered to take over the ships at practically no payment, one has offered a substantial sum. This circumstance leads him to believe that the latter may be fairly adequate. P. W. Chapman & Co. of New York were the high bidders for these lines, offering $16,000,000.

The President is unchanged in his opinion that the United States government is unqualified to enter the shipping business, especially if every action by the Shipping Board requires an investigation by Congress. He believes that the business of the Shipping Board should be transacted by those responsible for it.

Texas, Oklahoma, Arkansas, Louisiana, Kentucky and Tennessee were feeling the storm with rain, snow and lower temperatures.

A storm of blizzard proportions sent temperatures near the zero mark in Oklahoma and Northern Texas. More snow tonight and tomorrow was predicted and warnings were issued to stockmen.

The snow was the heaviest in several years in some sections of Oklahoma and drifts played havoc with highway traffic.

In Southern Kansas the white blanket ranged from two to eight inches in depth. Two readings of 12 below zero were recorded in the State.

SENATORS SEND RIVER WARNING

ficial use out of the normal unregulated flow of the stream and declared that the Senate, in his opinion, would refuse to ratify any proposed treaty giving the country more than that.

The Mexican water phase, Pittman asserted, "is the bugaboo which more than anything else has prevented an agreement" by the Colorado River States. Besides everything else, he said, Mexico could not economically irrigate more land than the approximately 240,000 acres she now is watering from the river.

NEW EFFORT MADE TO WIN OVER ARIZONA

PHOENIX, Feb. 8. (AP)—A new move to have Arizona ratify the Colorado River compact was initiated in the Arizona House of Representatives today, this proposal appearing as House Concurrent Resolution No. 8, by Representative Wisener of Yuma, the chief difference between the new resolution and that introduced by Representative Smith of Mohave as House Concurrent Resolution No. 1 being that the Wisener resolution recognizes the Swing-Johnson bill and seeks to have Arizona become the sixth State to ratify the compact as provided for in that bill.

GOV. YOUNG TELLS CALIFORNIA'S STAND

SACRAMENTO, Feb. 8. (AP)—The following statement by Gov. Young regarding California's general policy as to the proposed six-State Boulder dam compact was made this afternoon:

"The Santa Fe meeting between Colorado River commissions of California, Arizona and Nevada has not yet been held, and the ratification of a seven-State pact, therefore, is our present objective. As long as this possibility exists, California should be the last State to prejudice such a consummation by proposing to enter a six-State pact.

"It is hoped that the Santa Fe conference will so adjust relations between the three lower basin States that all can join in a seven-State agreement. It is with this hope that California has accepted the invitation to the Santa Fe meeting."

UTAH SENATORS AT ODDS ON COMPACT

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—President Gardner and Speaker Stine of the Utah Legislature today received letters from Senator Smoot advising against ratification of the six-State Colorado River compact by Utah. They will present the letters to the joint session Tuesday morning when Gov. Dern, Commissioner Wallace and State Engineer Bacon will discuss Boulder Dam.

Senator McCarthy, Senate Democratic floor leader, has received a letter from Senator King urging ratification of the six-State pact by Utah. In a secret session the Utah Water Storage Commission adopted a motion calling upon the Legislature to ratify only a seven-State pact. It will be presented with the letters Tuesday. It is understood the commission is opposed to sending an "unofficial observer" to the tri-State conference at Santa Fe next week.

PLEA PLANNED BY NORTHCOTT

Doomed Boy-Slayer Schemes to Cheat Noose

Canadian Attorney Consults on Counsel Here

Rancher's Appeal Expected at Sentencing Monday

BY JAMES M. KENDRICK
"Times" Staff Representative

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 8. (Exclusive) In face of a jury's verdict that he must pay the extreme penalty for the murder of small boys on his Wineville chicken farm, Gordon Stewart Northcott tonight began laying plans for an eleventh-hour effort to cheat the gallows.

Aided by J. M. McKinley Cameron, Canadian attorney who came here more than a month ago and here sat in the background during Northcott's lone fight for life, the convicted youth expects to obtain the assistance of one or two Los Angeles attorneys to aid him make a fight for an appeal.

The Canadian attorney went to Los Angeles today to confer with seven different attorneys who have offered their services in Northcott's forthcoming fight to reverse the verdict returned by a jury here last night in Superior Judge Freeman's court by which the youth was convicted of first-degree murder for the deaths of Louis and Nelson Winslow, and an unidentified Mexican.

NORTHCOTT JAUNTY

Despite the ordeal he has gone through during the past month young Northcott tonight maintained his jaunty attitude and still believes that he will escape the penalty decreed for him.

"If I have to walk up the thirteen steps to the gallows in San Quentin I will die like a man," Northcott boasted today, when surrounded by interviewers. He sat in the anteoffice of the County Jail this afternoon while a physician treated an infected eye, which has troubled him before.

"I want to apologize to officers and newspaper men whom I have accused of abusing me. They have been more than fair, taking everything into consideration, but my vituperation was a necessary part of my defense," he declared.

VERDICT EXPECTED

"Yes, I expected the verdict, despite my declarations to the contrary. That was why I was able to go through with last night's court session when the jury returned the verdict," the youth continued.

"They can hang me to doomsday but I will never admit that I know anything about any bodies or where the victims I am accused of killing are buried," he said.

Northcott, jailers said, spent a restful night last night and apparently was pleased that his long drawn-out fight against the charges presented by the State had come to an end.

"I am not making any confession and these desert trips officers are taking will not do them any good," he stated.

The slayer referred to a trip taken this morning by Sheriff Sweeters and Deputy Sheriff Brown to a desert spot where they believed Northcott's victims had been buried.

TRIPS TO DESERT

The trip was one of several made since Northcott confessed to the murder of the three boys for whose death he is scheduled to hang, and also the death of Walter Collins, kidnaped Los Angeles boy.

Today Deputy Dist.-Atty. Redwine, chief of the prosecution staff that convicted the slayer, said that he will continue to postpone Northcott's trial for the Collins boy's death, which is incorporated in a sparate indictment, until the youth's appeal is disposed of.

The time of Northcott's removal to San Quentin following his sentence to death Monday at 2 p.m. by Judge Freeman, will depend upon the action taken by the slayer or attorneys expected to be retained to aid him, it was indicated today.

If Northcott makes an oral notice of appeal at the time of sentence, which apears a foregone conclusion, he has two days in which to file his written notice. This move alone, however, will not deter his immediate transfer to San Quentin while the motion is pending, officials said here today.

MAY DELAY REMOVAL

On the other hand, it was pointed out, if the youth or his representatives ask for time to argue the motion, his removal from the Riverside County Jail may be delayed several days.

In the death sentence which will be pronounced upon him Monday, as a result of the jury's verdict convicting him of all three counts of first degree murder without recommendation, Northcott will be ordered removed to San Quentin within ten days.

Sheriff Sweeters said tonight that he will take the youth to the State's prison as soon after the sentence as he legally can do so.

Northcott does not like his quarters in the county prison here and expressed an opinion to go north as soon as possible, jail attaches said.

Northcott today called for a Roman Catholic priest who remained with him less than fifteen minutes. Neither would comment on the meeting.

AFFIDAVIT INQUIRY

Investigation into the asserted irregularities of affidavits introduced in Northcott's behalf at the beginning of his trial will be renewed now that the trial of the slayer has ended, Redwine announced tonight.

According to the prosecutor, four out of five of the documents presented in an effort to change Northcott's plea from not guilty to not guilty by reason of insanity had the seal and signature of a Los Angeles notary public attached without the notary's permission.

Two weeks ago the asserted irregularity was called to the attention of officials here, but action was deferred until Northcott's trial was completed.

BURNS DETECTIVES JAILED

Two Held as Accomplices in Sutcliffe "Love Nest" Stabbing and Suit on Agency Likely

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—Claude Cooley and Robert Shore, operatives for the Burns International Detective Agency here, were jailed on charges of assault with intent to commit murder and the possibility of action to penalize the agency is admitted as an aftermath of the "love nest" slashing which climaxed a triangle in the family of Mr. and Mrs. Walter J. Sutcliffe of Los Angeles.

The two detectives accompanied Sutcliffe to the St. Francis Hotel, where Sutcliffe cut Carl Bengston, musician, several times with a knife when he found Bengston and his estranged wife, Pearl Sutcliffe, in a room together. The private operatives are held by Dist.-Atty. Brady to be equally culpable with Sutcliffe. The latter is a fugitive on a parallel charge.

RECORD DISCLOSED

Another sensation entered the investigation when Shore was accused of being an ex-burglar with a police record. He was arrested once in Pasadena, police say, the case being dismissed, and again here, being held to answer the Superior Court in 1925 and released on a one-to-three-year term of probation. He has been arrested three times under the name of Shone, police assert, as a $1000 vagrant, a booking used to hold suspicious prisoners. Two of the cases were dismissed and in the third instance, he served ten days in County Jail.

Bengston, recovering at the Dante Sanatorium, is expected to be discharged Monday. He has signed the complaint against Sutcliffe. Mrs. Sutcliffe, who stood by her admitted paramour, is reported "still in seclusion." She is registered under an assumed name at a downtown hotel.

Possible action against the Burns agency centers around a regulation holding the agency responsible for the actions of its operatives, according to Walter H. Killman, secretary of the detective license bureau of the State Board of Prison Directors. Killam explains that disciplinary measures would have to be instituted in a formal affidavit, to be filed with the board. Killam said if an action is filed and sustained, it would prohibit the Burns agency from doing business anywhere within the State. It is said at the District Attorney's office this phase of the slashing is under discussion.

Rest of Party Discovered at Camping Place

[In the fourteenth installment of Commander Dyott's story of his search for Col. Fawcett, missing explorer, he tells of the growing menace from Indians and the flight down river to join his main party.]

BY G. M. DYOTT

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance.]

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (Exclusive) The whole meeting of our party with the Wicurus who had interrupted our passage down the river to my main camp was typically Indian.

My camarada companion, Joao Climaco, had some odds and ends in his pocket, and calling to the chief we gave him a few trifles, explaining as far as we were able our predicament. For a time the situation was relieved.

As might be expected, it only proved a temporary measure, because we heard that many of the Wicuru tribe had walked to the bank of the Kuluene River and had been waiting three days for us to pass. The conference wound up with promises and we continued on our way, much to the relief of the Indians, especially Aloique.

For many hours we paddled steadily. Most of the time I was bailing water out of the canoe in order to keep it afloat, but periodically I would look around to see what the Wicurus were up to. They maintained a respectable distance until late in the afternoon, when they drew up closer.

WHOLE TRIBE GATHERS

The reason was soon apparent. The river in front of us narrowed down considerably, because of a neck of land which stuck out into the stream, reducing the navigable channel to a matter of thirty or forty yards. The point was almost bare of trees but it rose sharply for twenty-five feet or more, and was of an unusual brown color. There was something unusual about it, and I rubbed my eyes to get a better look—it was a solid mass of naked Indians armed with bows and arrows!

Apparently the entire Wicuru tribe had migrated across country to intercept us and had taken up this strategic position where they could practically hold us up at arrow's point. A flight of arrows effectively would have prevented our passing had we had a mind to run the gauntlet.

ANAUQUAS SILENT

If the Anauquas had been silent before, I have no words to express their dumbness on this occasion. One and all sat like mummies, their eyes on their feet and not so much as looking up at the crowds on the shore. Joao Climaco was beside himself with anxiety.

"We have nothing," he exclaimed despairingly, as soon as our fragile canoes scraped the sand. "We have come overland carrying packs. We could not bring you presents," and so on.

A decided feeling of disappointment swept the crowd. Some of the young braves looked troublesome. A good deal of chatter ensued. Yet we held to our argument. We knew full well that the five canoes of the Wicurus could not carry more than fifteen men, and it would be possible for us to deal with that number. But to find gifts that would satisfy several hundred was a thought that made me go hot all over to think about.

TICKLISH PLACE

What would happen to our small band if such a crowd descended on us? By water the Wicurus could not reach us because they had no canoes. By land they would also be prevented from leaving their territory by other waterways that intervened. Hence we would be safe from invasion provided we could only get away.

WHOLE TRIBE GATHERS

The reason was soon apparent. The river in front of us narrowed considerably, because of a spit of land which stuck out into the stream, reducing the navigable channel to a matter of thirty or forty yards. The point was almost bare of trees but it rose sharply for twenty feet or more, and was of an unusual brown color. There was something unusual about it, and I rubbed my eyes to get a better look—it was a solid mass of naked Indians armed with bows and arrows.

[illegible] PLACE

What would happen to our small band if such a crowd descended on us? By water the Wicurus could not catch us because they had no canoes. By land they would also be prevented from leaving their territory by other waterways that intervened. Hence we would be safe from invasion provided we could get away.

[illegible] were exceptionally clean-lookin, healthy specimens, pleasant to look at. A large number had very light skins. Beneath ligatures on arms and legs their skin was almost white. They were certainly the nearest approach to white Indians that I have ever seen. It is quite possible that they came from white stock originally. Their color was sufficiently light to give rise to some of the extraordinary stories Fawcett related about white Indians in these parts.

We would not wait for the Wicurus to think matters over.

"Come with us," we said, as we began pushing away from the shore and beckoning them to follow. "Let the chiefs come in their canoes. They will receive knives and axes at our encampment."

OUT OF RANGE

The gap gradually widened and before a counter-protest could be raised the swift current had carried us out of range. Some shouts were heard, but it was too late for them to act had they any evil design. The Anauquas and Kalapalos needed no urging. We went flying off down stream as fast as paddles could drive us, while that swarm of human bees buzzed disappointedly on the shore.

The Wicurus made full use of such canoes as they had. We camped at 7 o'clock but before darkness settled our numbers were swollen by the arrival of eighteen of their tribesmen. Competition for presents was now getting strong. The representatives of three different tribes were with us, totaling thirty in all. How they fared remained to be seen.

We had a mere handful of farinha for supper. There were no succulent morsels of fish, for we had been too occupied during the day to do any fishing. To bed, therefore, we went, and what a night! Thunder rolled across the face of the sky and cold wind blew. Sleep was impossible. Twenty Indians hung around us in their hammocks like so man yspiders. That alone would have prevented our taking much rest. Then it rained!

START AGAIN

While it was yet dark we crept off down the river. My canoe, leaking worse than ever, required constant attention. Again I asked Aloique about our projected trip together. He seemed positive that he could lead me to the spot of the Fawcett murder in four days' time.

I told him that I would take a companion with me. He informed me that Rapatzi would also go with us, making four in all. I was quite agreeable and felt extremely satisfied to think all was going so well.

Throughout the day the little Wicuru canoes dogged our footsteps. Like five shallow sources of black wickedness they kept at a uniform distance of 500 yards. Whenever I looked around they were always there at the same distance.

I could see that if we collected any more Indians on the way we would soon land ourselves in a barrel of trouble. So far we had managed to maintain a moral ascendancy over these wild people. How long was it going to last?

RAPID PROGRESS

Our progress was rapid. There was no more loitering. Everyone was anxious to "arrive" wherever our camp was. We were not positive that we would find any camp at all and it looked likely, for when we reached the confluence of the Kuluseu not a sign of our men was to be seen. We were debating what to do when the sound of some one chopping wood echoed through the evening air.

We followed a side channel in the direction from which the sound came and there, sure enough, was one of our tents pitched in the center of an expansive sand bar and Jack Whitehead, ax in hand, was splitting wood for the evening fires.

We fired a few shots, the signal agreed on to announce our arrival, and then pulled for the shore.

The main body of the expedition had traveled slowly, having taken five days to reach its objective. The men had had their experiences also. Indians had flocked down to meet them with outstretched hands, but wisely my men had remained in their canoes and had only given a few insignificant gifts, such as fish hooks, to the more important-looking ones.

FORTUNE SEEKERS

A trail of fortune seekers had followed them and their numbers were increasing daily. It seemed evident that this sand bar was the gathering place for all the tribes in the neighborhood.

Joao Climaco did not like the situation even for a camping site. He bade the Baikari Indians cross to the opposite shore and there, among the trees, make a real camp fit to live in. He went and so did all the Indians. Knowing his dislike for their company we could not refrain from smiling.

The insect pest is not as bad in the forest as it is on the open stretches of sand, for which reason the Indians prefer the jungle for sleeping. We, on the other hand, preferred the insects to the Indians and were glad to be rid of the latter's company during the night. Our camp had been well selected and its strategic situation proved our ultimate salvation.

(In his next article Commander Dyott tells of Aloique's boast to the other Indians that he intended killing him and the effect upon his plans to go to Col. Fawcett's camp beyond the Kuluene River.)

INAUGURAL TO HAVE COLOR

Governors of Twenty-two States to Take Part in Parade With Retinues in Gay Uniforms

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Promise of variety and color in the Presidential inauguration ceremonies has assumed definite proportions with the announcement by the inaugural committee that twenty-two State governors have reserved space for themselves and retinues in the parade.

At the same time, the committee announced other entertainment features on the tentative program of events—among them being concerts, air stunts by army and navy flyers, and a great display of fireworks on the mall.

Many of the executives, the committee said, will come with escorts garbed in gay uniforms. The Governor of Alabama will be accompanied by two captains of foot soldiers from the State National Guard and a band of fifty-three pieces. From Delaware, New Jersey and Virginia, artillerymen and cavalrymen will come with their chiefs. The Governor of Virginia will have 450 members of the Richmond Blues, the Richmond Howitzers and the Richmond Grays, and a fife and drum corps.

In the second division of the parade, the committee announced, sixteen additional military and civic units already have been assigned positions. Among them is a delegation from the San Diego Army and Navy Academy of Pacific Beach, Cal., and one from Coe College, at Cedar Rapids, Iowa.

The tentative program of public entertainment is to begin two days before the inauguration. On March 2 the navy yard will be thrown open to visitors. The Army and Navy on this day will conduct an air circus over the city, and there will be a riding circus at Fort Myer, Va.

On Sunday, March 3, special services will be held in all Washington churches. There will be a pilgrimage to the tomb of the Unknown Soldier in the afternoon, with a concert in the evening.

Tuesday will be given to the inaugural ceremonies, with the parade and the charity ball in the evening.

Utah Smelters Post Wage Rise

SALT LAKE CITY, Feb. 8. (AP)—Wage increases of 20 and 25 cents a day, effective the 15th inst., were posted by four smelting and mining companies of this vicinity today. Approximately 5900 employees are affected and it is estimated that the increase will amount to about $1300 a day.

SCIENTISTS' SHIP LOST IN SILENCE

Expedition to South Seas Long Missing

Tokio Embassy Asks Aid in Search

Cornelius Crane Heads Expedition

MANILA, Feb. 8. (AP)—The steamer Illyria, which left Boston, Mass., last October carrying a number of scientists bound for the South Sea Islands, has not been heard from since January 12. Insular customs authorities here have received a message from the American Embassy at Tokio asking aid in locating the vessel.

The Illyria, a two-masted vessel, was under charter to Cornelius Crane of Chicago, and last was heard of off Turk Island in the Caroline group.

Scientists here say the vessel had no fixed course and they take the hopeful view that the vessel has entered an area from which it cannot make the radio heard.

NOTED SCIENTISTS ABOARD MISSING CRAFT

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (AP)—The two-masted square-rigged vessel Illyria, which was reported twenty-six days overdue today in making radio calls, carried a group of noted scientists from a number of American institutions.

The party was composed of Dr. Albert W. Gerre, Stanford University zoologist and expert on marine life; Dr. Karl P. Schmidt, curator of the Chicago Field Museum; Dr. W. L. Moss of the Harvard medical school; Sidney Heap, English scientist, and Cornelius Crane of Chicago.

Ships in the vicinity of the Caroline Islands have been endeavoring to locate the vessel through radio calls.

The Illyria sailed from Boston through the Panama Canal and headed for various South Sea islands to make a study of marine life.

SKIPPER'S WIFE HAD MESSAGE MONDAY

MELROSE (Mass.) Feb. 8. (AP)—Miss Katherine M. MacMillan, sister-in-law of Capt. Selden B. Boutilier, skipper of the Field Museum ship Illyria, reported as missing, said at her home here that Mrs. Boutilier received a radio message from her husband Monday night.

MUSEUM OFFICIAL SAYS MESSAGE RECEIVED

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Stephen C. Simms, director of the Field Museum, said tonight that a message was received from the expedition about a week ago, when the Illyria was leaving Galapagos for the Marquesas Islands in the Pacific.

MINE BILL TILT LOOMS IN CONGRESS

Californian Sees Danger for Prospector and Small Operator in Measure

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—A spirited fight in the House Committee on Public Lands has developed over an innocuous appearing bill which Representative Englebright of California charges is the opening wedge of a legislative program which will wipe out the old-time prospector and small mine operator.

Passed by the Senate, where it was introduced by Senator Norbeck of South Dakota, the bill provides that on mineral claims in South Dakota national forests, mineral rights alone will be granted to the applicant, and not mineral, timber and water rights, which are granted to mineral land claimants under the present law. Without water and timber rights the prospector and small mine operator are practically powerless to operate, and even the large corporations would feel a burden with the loss of these grants. It is understood that a bill already has been prepared which will be presented in the Senate to make this ruling apply to all national forests if the present bill passes.

Representative Englebright is prepared to go into action against the Norbeck bill at the first meeting of the House Public Lands Committee to consider this legislation. The meeting is slated for Tuesday. In addition to Representative Englebright, it is believed that Representatives Arentz of Nevada, Colton of Utah, Douglas of Arizona, White of Colorado, Winter of Wyoming and possibly Hooper of Michigan will strenuously oppose the bill, in spite of the fact that it is confined in action to the State of South Dakota. They fear the precedent it may set, and the "follow-up" of a bill making the action national in scope.

This is the third time in the last three years that such legislation has been brought up. In both preceding cases the bills failed.

Money Wizards Attack Issue of Reparation

PARIS, Feb. 8. (AP)—The assembling of the keenest financial brains of the United States, Great Britain, France, Belgium, Italy, Japan and Germany, with the object of settling once for all the extent of Germany's obligations to the Allies of the World War, was completed today when the unofficial American reparations delegates arrived in Paris. The Americans immediately went into conference.

J. P. Morgan, Owen D. Young and Thomas W. Lamont, the unofficial representatives of the United States, brought a staff of thirty-four with them. Mr. Morgan, who stands out in the minds of Frenchmen as the personification of the power of money, remained in the background at popular receptions at railroad stations and other public places. He let Mr. Young do what little talking was done.

DE VALERA SENTENCED TO PRISON

Court Imposes One-Month Term When Leader Opens Harangue in Gaelic

BELFAST (Northern Ireland) Feb. 8. (AP)—Eamon De Valera tonight began serving a sentence of one month's imprisonment after his conviction on a charge of violating the Civil Authorities Act, forbidding his entry into Northern Ireland territory.

At the conclusion of evidence regarding the Republican leader's arrest on Tuesday at the Ulster border, Patrick J. O'Donoghue, the presiding magistrate, gave De Valera an opportunity to speak in his own defense. The defendant, who had been taken off the Dublin train at Newry while en route to Belfast to open a Gaelic bazaar, replied in Gaelic.

"Irish is not the language of these courts," the magistrate responded. "The official language is English."

The Crown Solicitor then interposed with the remark that De Valera understands English and was merely play-acting when he spoke Gaelic.

In passing sentence the magistrate said that De Valera by his demeanor not only failed to offer any reason or excuse, but seemed to have flouted the whole administration of justice in Northern Ireland, and expressed the belief that the defendant was there in consequence of his own deliberate act.

He stated that under the act magistrates could impose a term of imprisonment up to two years and a heavy fine, but in the hope that the defendant might even yet reconsider his attitude the magistrates had confined themselves to sentencing him to one month's imprisonment.

De Valera made no comment on hearing the sentence and was quickly ushered from the court.

COURT WILL RULE LATER ON SINCLAIR

Oil Man and Associates Make Application to Get Contempt Case Reversed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The applications of Harry F. Sinclair and others for reversal of their convictions for contempt of court on charges of jury shadowing on the Fall-Sinclair Teapot Dome oil conspiracy case were taken under consideration today by the District of Columbia Court of Appeals.

Martin Littleton of the oil man's counsel closed the appeal with the assertion that the incident which brought about a mistrial and which centered about Edward J. Kidwell. The judge quoted as saying he expected to get a car "as long as a block," was the only contempt in the case.

In addition to Sinclair, who was sentenced to six months in jail. H. Mason Day, an associate, is under setence of four months. William J. Burns, detective, was sentenced to fifteen days, and his son, W. Sherman Burns, was fined $1000.

Neil Burkinshaw, assistant District Attorney, who closed argument for the government, said that if jury shadowing is sanctioned by the courts it will leave a "dangerous instrumentality in the hands of the wealthy." He said it was not a case of plain shadowing by Burns detectives, but included contact with neighbors and relatives of the jurors.

HANGING BLAMED ON FATE

Mother of Harrison B. Randolph, Executed at Folsom, Says He Was Marked by Father's Crime

LINCOLN (Neb.) Feb. 8. (AP)—The fate that sent Harrison B. Randolph to the gallows at Folsom prison, California, today, was marked upon him as a prenatal influence, his mother, Mrs. Blanche Straka, declared here as she stoically received word of his execution.

"Harrison was a child of bitterness, he was born with the stigma of a father who was tried for murdering his wife and the influence of that tragedy marked him before he was born," his mother declared.

As an ignorant girl 15 years of age, Mrs. Straka said she married Randolph's father at Stillwater, Okla., to escape unpleasant home environment. Her husband, she said, was 40.

After their marriage, she related, she heard of the cloud of murder that enshrouded her husband, who was killed two months after Harrison was born. As a small baby he was adopted by the father's parents.

STRANGLER PRAYS AS HE GOES TO DEATH

FOLSOM PRISON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Praying aloud and walking unassisted, Harrison Randolph, 24, went calmly to his death on the gallows here at 10 o'clock this morning.

Randolph made his first public profession of religion today when he was accompanied on the death march by Father M. M. Hogan of the Catholic Church of Folsom. He made no last-moment statement, maintaining to the last complete silence in regard to his crime.

The murder for which Randolph paid the death penalty was particularly cold-blooded. After being befriended by Mrs. Pearl Hunnicutt of Bakersfield, who hired him to do some odd jobs and then fed him, he strangled her to death. He was captured soon after in Fresno and confessed to the crime. From the age of 16 Randolph had been almost continually confined in some penal institution.

NEMESIS OF APACHES ON TRAIL AGAIN

Fimbres Sets Forth With Friends to Seek Kidnapers of His Young Son

DOUGLAS (Ariz.) Feb. 8. (AP)—Francisco Fimbres, cattleman of Sonora, Mex., today began a daring scouting trip into the Sierra Madre Mountains to seek out information of the wild band of Apache Indians which killed his wife and carried his small son into captivity two years ago.

When the Indians have been located Fimbres expects to return to Agua Prieta to lead a punitive expedition of soldiers and volunteers gathered from the ranges of Southern Arizona and Mexico into the hills. Marchi Finn, prospector of the Sierras, accompanied Fimbres on the expedition, which will take them into the mountains from the Chihuahua side. At San Miguel Fimbres will be joined by Frederick Humphries, a life-long friend, and Pedro Castro, godfather of the captured child.

Fimbres recently returned from a trip into the mountains with ten companions seeking the remnants of the Geronimo band of Apaches. Mexicans say that the marauders who sweep from [illegible] hills to rob and kill in Sonora are descended from Geronimo and the Indians who made their last stand in Arizona forty years ago.

Gov. Fausto Topete commissioned Fimbres to wipe out the Indians. His first expedition was a failure because of lack of supplies, he said.

Wright, California Development Association; Nathan Newby, Jr., Standard Air Lines; Markel C. Baer, Oakland; David R. Faries, Maddux Air Lines; W. J. Davis, Transcontinental Air Transport, and Maj. Press Wireless Hearing Delayed

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Radio Commission today postponed from the 18th inst. to March 7 a hearing on the allocation of short wave lengths set aside for press use.

The postponement was made, the commission said, because attorneys for certain interested parties would not be able to reach Washington in time for the hearing. The notice of the hearing said that not only will transcontinental and point-to-point land allocations come under consideration, but also the proposed allocation of transoceanic channels to certain newspapers and news organizations.

SENATE PASSES WAR-FLOOD BILL

Measure Includes Plan for Sacramento River

Almost $500,000,000 Funds Would be Set Aside

Goes Back to House for Action on Additions

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The War Department appropriation bill providing nearly $500,000,000 for the military functions of the government, flood control in the Mississippi Valley, and California rivers and harbors development and inland waterways projects was passed today by the Senate.

The measure would appropriate $50,000,000 to carry on existing river and harbors projects; $10,000,000 for the Inland Waterways Corporation during the next three years, and $3,654,000 for improvement of roads damaged in Louisiana, Arkansas, Mississippi and Missouri during the Mississippi flood of 1927.

For carrying out the Mississippi River Control Act during the next fiscal year, $30,800,000 would be provided as well as $1,000,000 for the continuation of the flood-control work on the Sacramento River in California.

All House provisions were approved unchanged.

An unsuccessful attempt was made by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, to order the bill back to committee without instructions to eliminate funds for the Sacramento and southern road projects.

Another amendment by Senator Reed, Democrat, Missouri, providing for a payment of $142,500 to John W. Stockett, draftsman in the War Department for royalties on the use by the Army of a breech-loading mechanism on guns perfected by him, was adopted.

All amendments adopted by the Senate during consideration of the measure were retained. The measure goes back to the House for action on Senate additions.

UPKEEP COST OF CARRIER SHIP ATTACKED

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The possibility of Congress being asked to withdraw from active service the new giant airplane carriers Lexington and Saratoga because of their costly operation was mentioned in the House today shortly before the $347,000,000 annual naval supply bill was passed and sent to the Senate.

Representative French, Republican, Idaho, chairman of the Appropriation subcommittee on Naval Finances, said the ships, the newest additions to Uncle Sam's fighting forces, are proving expensive to operate and that the Appropriation Committee is considering the advisability of taking them from active commission with the fleet. He indicated this might be done as soon as the huge vessels, each of 33,000 tons displacement, could be replaced by carriers less expensive to operate.

COUNCIL TO HEAR BOOTH WEDNESDAY

Salvation Army Tribunal Obeys Court Order as to Trial of Commander

LONDON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The high council of the Salvation Army will resume its sessions at Sunbury Court Wednesday to take up again the question of readjudicating Gen. Bramwell Booth as physically unfit for leadership of the army.

This time the general will be permitted to defend himself against the proposed deposition through counsel, in accordance with the recent decision of the Chancery Court that the high council had erred in deposing him without hearing his attorneys.

The high council met today at the London Auction Mart and adjourned until Wednesday. Sixty councillors were present, the absentees being Mrs. Bramwell Booth and Commissioner Simpson, who is ill.

The preliminary business cleared included a formal resolution that Gen. Booth's legal representative be heard and that the high council's lawyers also be admitted on Wednesday.

Habitual Crime Law Denounced by Ardent Dry

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—The Michigan habitual criminal law under which the mother of ten children recently was sentenced to life imprisonment today was denounced as a "legislative excess" by an ardent dry, Representative Albert Johnson, Republican, of Washington, chairman of the House Immigration Committee.

The Wolverine's late "life for a pint" law, as it is termed by critics, presents the greatest obstacle to passage of the pending bill in Congress providing for deportation of alien felons, Mr. Johnson told the House Rules Committee, before which he appeared today asking a special rule for the consideration of the deportation and two other immigration measures with which the immigation group plans to wind up its program for this Congress. The harsh Michigan statute, he explained, if it remains effective after passage of the proposed Federal deportation law, will force deportation of many aliens who commit crimes of minor nature, as the State law brands as a felon any person jailed for three months or more.

STATEMENT ON BOULDER DAM

Eight Years Required for Work on Great Project

Information Desk Maintained in Los Angeles

EL CENTRO, Feb. 8.—The following official statement touching the proposed construction of Boulder dam is issued to answer the many inquiries regarding the Swing-Johnson bill, or Boulder Dam, by the Board of Trade of Imperial county under the supervision of the Imperial county Board of Supervisors and which has the indorsement by Imperial Irrigation District board of directors.

In the first place it will be perhaps a year after the act becomes effective before actual construction work on the dam will begin. The estimated time for constructing the dam is seven years. This puts the completion of the dam at least eight years from the passage of the bill. After about three years from the time construction begins there will be a reasonable amount of flood control and stored water for agricultural and other purposes. The construction of the all-American canal will require about four years. No direct reclamation benefits therefore can be expected for a period from three to five years from the time construction work on the dam and on the canal actually begins. Under the bill construction will not start on the dam until contracts are made for the sale of power and construction will not start on the all-American canal until contracts are made by the lands to be benefited for the return of the construction cost. It is assumed that these contracts will be promptly made.

Present irrigated districts such as the Palo Verde Valley, Yuma project and the Imperial and Coachella valleys, as well as other smaller areas along the river will be very materially benefited by flood protection and in the stabilization and assurance of their water supply.

A considerable new agricultural development will take place after water is available from the projects. The Laguna Dam from which the all-American canal will divert water is at elevation 151 feet above sea level. The gravity canal will, of course, enter Imperial Valley at a lower elevation, and a pump lift in excess of from 100 to 150 feet, depending upon cost of power, character of soil and crops to be grown, at any point either from the river or from any canal should not be considered feasible.

Lands possible of irrigation from the Colorado River are described in Senate document 142, Sixty-seventh Congress, second session.

It is hardly probable that any new development other than a reasonable extension of those areas now under irrigation and additional areas that can be served from the all-American canal will take place for many years. Any commercial and industrial impetus in the district near the site of the dam at Black Canyon will not be of an agricultural nature.

The furnishing of water from the Colorado River for new development of agricultural lands will be done at the cost of the lands benefited. This will mean that the expense for diversion dams, canals, laterals and other equipment will be assessed against the lands which are to receive water.

While the construction of the Boulder dam and the all-American canal will solve the flood menace and stabilize and make available a water supply for the lands now served and a considerable quantity of water in the river and the topography of the country place a rather definite limitation upon the expansion of such development. Anyone contemplating a purchase of lands yet to be developed should make careful study to ascertain whether or not these lands will be under a contemplated canal or within a feasible pump lift therefrom.

We regret that we cannot give you specific information as to the ownership of properties in the areas affected by this legislation. Some of them are Indian lands and not available for settlement; other tracts are in private ownership. But the most of the area under the all-American canal is public domain which the Swing-Johnson bill orders withdrawn from entry until water is available when ex-service men will have preference rights in filing thereon.

Imperial county maintains a desk and secretary in the Los Angeles Chamber of Commerce, who will give further information upon request regarding the Boulder Canyon Act as well as Imperial Valley farm lands.

BOTULISM TAKES TWO FROM HOME

Desert Rancher's Life in Peril as Wife and Child Die from Poisoning

SAN BERNARDINO, Feb. 8.—Stricken with deadly botuline poisoning, which has taken the lives of his wife and 12-year-old daughter, John Maines, a desert rancher, was dying at the County Hospital today painlessly but conscious of his impending fate. The poison was contained in home-canned pigs feet.

Maines's daughter, Myrtle, the oldest of his five children, died last Friday of the deadly poisoning at their ranch home at Hodge, near Barstow, and on Monday his wife, Mrs. Myrtle Maines, died at the hospital, her illness having baffled physicians. She, too, was a victim of botulism, it developed, when laboratory tests were made of throat cultures.

Last night Maines was sinking and his fever had begun to rise, indicating that complications had set in, according to Dr. S. B. Richards, superintendent of the hospital, who first diagnosed the illness which brought tragedy into the ranch home where Maines and his wife lived with their family of healthy, husky youngsters.

Medical science can do little if anything to combat the deadly germ, bacillus botulinus, Dr. Richards explained. In some instances a serum is administered but its benefit is questioned by authorities, the hospital superintendent said. There is none of the serum in the West and even if it were available Maines's illness has advanced too far to permit its use. "I fear that he cannot recover," said Dr. Richards.

With State food inspectors, Dr. Richards yesterday inspected all the foodstuffs in the Maines home. The canned pigs feet and pork was found to be infected. Dr. Richards said this substantiated his diagnosis of the insidious illness after Mrs. Maines's death. Maines told the physician before the throat paralysis which marks botulism poisoning, became serious, that he, his wife, and the girl had eaten the canned meat last Wednesday.

A day later the girl was stricken. The illness has some of the symptoms of diphtheria, particularly because it attacks the throat. It did not respond to treatment, however, and on Friday death came. Then on Saturday the mother and father fell ill. They were removed to the hospital in the same ambulance on Sunday. Mrs. Maines, whose illness was far more pronounced than her husband's, died early Monday. Throat cultures revealed that she had not died of diphtheria and Dr. Richards immediately ordered tests which revealed the deadly germ.

Stockholder to Favor Stewart

PASADENA, Feb. 8.—A block of Standard Oil of Indiana stock owned by John H. Eagle of 800 Bellefontaine street, will be voted in favor of Col. Robert W. Stewart at the annual meeting of the company's stockholders, it was learned today.

The battle for control of the company being waged between the Rockefeller family and Col. Stewart will be decided upon the basis of the stockholders' votes at this meeting.

"I do not think it fair to turn out Col. Stewart in view of his able management of the business for many years," said Eagle today.

CITIES INTERESTED IN SEWER CONFERENCE

MONROVIA, Feb. 8.—In an effort to interest Arcadia and Sierra Madre in an independent sewer proposition, representatives from the two cities will discuss the matter with directors of the Monrovia Chamber of Commerce at a noon luncheon meeting on the 13th inst. at Reynolds' candy shop.

The cost of going into the outfall sewer is prohibitive for Monrovia, according to a consensus of opinion of city officials who are now considering an independent proposition.

SNOW HALTS FORESTERS

[illegible] Planting Program Near Hemet Postponed for One Week Because of Storm

[illegible], Feb. 8.—With fifteen inches of snow blanketing the San [illegible] site chosen for the planting of 3000 small pines on [illegible] Birthday, February 12, the event today was postponed a week by [illegible] San Jacinto Kiwanis Club, co-sponsor with the Riverside [illegible] Board. The planting will be held as planned on February [illegible] announced.

[illegible] to change the date to [illegible] was reached following [illegible] from the mountains [illegible] of Corona and Dia[illegible] Ranger [illegible]. They reported that fifteen inches of snow [illegible] the entire uplands of the [illegible] and that more was falling when they left the hills. [illegible] was not suitable for a [illegible] number of cars to pass over. [illegible] by those in charge [illegible] intervening days [illegible] new date will allow the [illegible] sufficiently and [illegible] the planting [illegible] it is believed great difficulty would be encountered in setting out the small one-foot high trees.

The project is the largest of its kind ever attempted in this country and will be a forerunner of many like it and even larger if the present enterprise should prove successful members of the forestry board have announced. Trees are to be obtained at the Devil Canyon nursery in San Bernardino county, where thousands of Coulter pines are propagated.

The planting of the trees will be open to the public and an effort will be made by the two sponsoring organizations to interest as many persons as possible in the reforestation movement.

BREA OFFERS AIR-BASE SITE

Makes Strong Bid for Location of Proposed Aviation Field

BREA, Feb. 8.—Brea today made what is considered by community leaders a strong bid for the proposed Pacific Coast dirigible base when it mailed to Representative Phil D. Swing complete data on available sites and local meteorological data.

This action was taken following a meeting of the Brea Chamber of Commerce industrial committee last evening with newspapermen of the county. This is the first publicity thus far given the undertaking meant to secure the location for the navy's $5,000,000 dirigible base.

The government is being offered a site comprising 485 acres of land lying in a rectangle 2000 feet wide by two miles long. Additional land may be obtained adjacent to the tract if it is desired, the committee reports.

The report forwarded to Representative Swing points out that the district is virtually frostless with relatively slight temperature flustuations. Also it is asserted that the maximum wind velocity is 35 miles per hour, with few days in the year having more than a 10-mile wind velocity.

It is further argued in support of the location that Brea is but nineteen miles by air line from Los Angeles and only ninety-eight miles from San Diego, while other strategic military points are located within an extremely shore radius.

Orchestra to Be Conducted by Student

ONTARIO, Feb. 8.—Miss Helen Sandford, Ontario, recently returned from two years of study in Europe, has been commissioned with the task of organizing Pomona Community Symphony Orchestra, for the purpose of giving a series of concerts for communities of the citrus belt this summer. The concerts will be given in the Greek Theater, Ganesha Park, Pomona.

Miss Sandford will draw her talent from Ontario, Upland, Pomona, San Bernardino and other citrus-belt points.

Recently Miss Sandford returned from an extensive period of study in foreign lands. Before leaving for Europe Miss Sandford studies under Brahm Van Den Berg, Los Angeles, and P. Shaul Hallett of Pasadena.

In Europe she studied under Manz in Vienna, orchestration and orchestra, with Gordon Jacobs in London and spent a year at the Kapelle-Meister Schule, in Vienna.

The Pomona Symphony Orchestra Association has been organized for the purpose of providing symphony concerts in the valley during the spring and summer.

Boy Victim of Heart Failure

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 8.—Richard Galbreath, 14-year-old school boy, carried his paper route last night as usual. In the evening he studied his lessons for a while and then played his violin for his father and mother and little brother. He went to bed at 10 o'clock after kissing his parents good-night.

This morning, after his father had gone to work, Richard's mother entered his bedroom to call him for breakfast. There was no answer. The boy was dead.

Alvin, Richard's 8-year-old brother, was sleeping in the same room. He had heard nothing. A physician said that the lad died of heart failure in his sleep.

The boy was a son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Galbreath of 405 South Fifth street and had lived in Alhambra for ten years. He was a member of the First Methodist Church and of the Sunday-school.

SETS FREE SHIPMENT OF HUNGARIA PARTRIDGES

CHINO, Feb. 8.—Four hundred Hungarian partridges were set free today on the new State game farms near Los Cerranos Country Club, by a crew working under supervision of W. C. Malone, San Bernardino county fish and game warden.

The partridges arrived several days ago at Los Angeles Harbor from foreign ports. Anyone caught shooting partridges faces six months in jail, according to W. C. Malone. A trio of Anaheim school boys was recently caught here by C. L. Savage, district game warden. They had a gun with which they were trying to shoot pheasants. Due to their poor aim they missed right along but were taken to Judge Ralph Homan for a lecture. Their youth and good standing in school prompted Savage to make a plea in their behalf.

WAY CLEAR TO PAVE WEST VALLEY STREET

OWENSMOUTH, Feb. 8.—Protests against the paving of Topanga Canyon avenue from Ventura Boulevard through the Brant rancho and the Owensmouth townsite to Roscoe street have been denied, and it is expected that the contract for the work will be awarded by the Board of Public Works within the next three weeks. Owners of the rancho have agreed to deed certain lands for the improvement while the city will expend about $11,000 in work in the rancho section. Completion of this work will give a new important north-and-south artery to Ventura Boulevard from the western and northwestern end of San Fernando Valley.

MINISTER RESIGNS

ONTARIO, Feb. 8.—Rev. Harold L. Proppe, pastor of First Baptist Church, Ontario, for a short time, has resigned his position to fill the pulpit at the First Baptist Church, Hollywood. The resignation is effective March 1. Rev. Proppe came to California a short time ago from the East.

RIVERSIDE MAYOR OUT BY RECALL

Dighton Loses Office to John S. Long When 9000 Voters Visit Polls

RIVERSIDE, Feb. 8. — Mayor Dighton, storm center of the bitterest political feud in this city's history, was recalled today with more than 9000 voters visiting the polls. Dighton received, in semiofficial count, 3656 votes, while his opponent in the recall election, Joseph S. Long, polled 5473.

Dighton is expected to go out of office Monday, when the City Council will meet to canvass the returns, although friends of the executive hinted at some irregularity in the ouster proceeding and declared that it would be fought out in court. The Mayor could not be reached for a statement tonight.

Assuming office thirteen months ago, Dighton has been continually at war with the entire Council and has been the center of endless political warfare. As a result Dighton recently was acquitted in trials on two grand jury indictments charging criminal libel in an interview given an afternoon Los Angeles newspaper and misconduct in office. Every member of the Council, except two, is facing recall which will come to a vote early next month. Councilman Ohlausen escaped the charges and the recall petition against Councilman Taylor was thrown out on a technical error.

Further fuel was added to the battle today when the Board of Public Utilities authorized further payment of $8000 to a Los Angeles accounting firm, which was employed by Dighton to audit the city books after he made charges against city departments which led to the libel indictment against him. The board previously had paid $16,000 on the audit account and made the additional payment today in the face of an opinion from City Attorney Seymour that it was illegal.

Seymour, who was appointed by Dighton four weeks ago, was dismissed from office by the Mayor today and Police Judge Benshoof named to fill the office.

Clayton Lauds High Standard of Realty Men

VAN NUYS, Feb. 8.—About 200 real estate men and their guests from San Fernando Valley, Hollywood, Glendale, Burbank and Los Angeles attended the banquet given last night in the Woman's Club in honor of the visit of J. Bradley Clayton of San Jose, president of the California Real Estate Association. Members of the Van Nuys Realty Board acted as hosts, with Rockwell Smith, president of the board, presiding. Principal speakers were W. P. Whitsett, Water and Power Commission, who spoke on Boulder dam and the proposed California River Aqueduct; City Councilman Charles H. Randall, Earl L. White, Burbank; W. L. Twining, Glendale; Glenn D. Williman, secretary of the State board, and Mr. Clayton.

Mr. Clayton is the member of a realty firm in San Jose that has been in business for three generations. He told of the growth of the real-estate business in California during the last three decades, and dwelt particularly on the intensive efforts that for some time have been made by all State realty boards to keep the ethics of the profession at its best.

"Unscrupulous brokers and salesmen," he said, "will not be countenanced, and it is impossible for them to become members of any of the local State boards. The realty business in California is one of its most active industries, and it must be protected and kept at its high standard if we continue to deal with newcomers who are ready to be convinced that California is the most attractive State in the Union and the place to build and make their homes."

The speaking program was interspersed with music numbers.

Redlands Folk Are Slow With Tax Payments

REDLANDS, Feb. 8.—C. J. Tripp, City Treasurer, is worried. There is facing him the task of collecting almost $85,000 in less than two days, the largest task his office has ever faced.

Tonight Mr. Tripp reported that a total of about $110,000 of the $195,000 of city taxes had been collected. There was half a day today and a full day Monday in which to collect that $85,000 then the taxes become delinquent.

"It seems that there will be the largest delinquency in the history of Redlands, or my force will work harder than it has worked before," said Mr. Tripp at noon. "I don't know why the people have not been in to pay their taxes; seems they must know that the last day is Monday."

Redlands is collecting more money in taxes this year than ever before, and according to Mayor Allen Wheaton it will be needed as the cost of operation of the city is increasing all the time due to the steady growth.

ADMITS WRITING THREAT LETTERS

Robert Lufberry

SANTA ANA, Feb. 8. (AP)—Robert Lufberry, 46 years of age, of Long Beach, was arrested here today and confessed to a charge of attempting to extort money from residents of Fullerton, Anaheim and Long Beach.

Lufberry, who said he was the author of several books, admitted that he wrote letters to Charles C. Chapman, wealthy Fullerton business-man, and Frank Baum, a retired real estate dealer of Anaheim, demanding that they deliver money to him under a threat of death if his demands were disregarded.

Lufberry also admitted that he had attempted to extort money from several Long Beach residents. He was arrested after Orange county officers had investigated letters received by Baum and Chapman several weeks ago.

Lawyer Denies Current Report

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 8. (AP)—James B. Ogg, Alhambra lawyer, said today that reports that he would keep his 5-year-old daughter from attending school and institute a court action because of a disagreement over the right of school authorities to give medical examinations were erroneous.

It had been reported that Mr. Ogg would keep his daughter from school indefinitely because school authorities demanded that she submit to an examination following an absence from classes because of illness, and that he would institute a court action if his position were questioned.

Mr. Ogg said that he had challenged the right of the school authorities to give a medical examination in view of the law stated in Section 1618-A, California Political Code. His daughter was not kept from school, he said, and she returned without a medical examination because it was obvious that she did not have an infectious or contagious disease.

On Trial for Manslaughter

PASADENA, Feb. 8.—H. B. Crandall, local ice dealer who was charged with manslaughter following a head-on automobile crash on East Washington street in which two persons were fatally injured, will be given a preliminary hearing before Judge Valentine in Los Angeles Monday, it was announced today.

Crandall's car and a sedan driven by Dr. W. B. Gwin of Hollywood, collided at the intersection of East Washington street and Santa Anita avenue two weeks ago.

Mrs. Permillia Gwin, the physician's mother, and Mrs. Eva Gwin, his wife, died from injuries incurred in the accident.

HOLD CONFERENCE ON HARBOR BILL

SANTA ANA, Feb. 8.—New angles were evident in the Orange county flood control and harbor district propositions today, following a meeting at Orange yesterday of the legislative committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of the county, when the committee divided on the question of indorsing the harbor district bill referred to it by the county chamber body. From present indications battles are looming on the two issues.

A majority of the committee voted to report to the associated, which meets at Costa Mesa the 28th inst., that "the bill as drawn" be disapproved. There are several minor changes, which were agreed upon by all members of the committee, and which it is expected will cause no difficulty, but the fight came on the section providing for a majority vote to carry bond issues.

OPPOSED TO PROPOSED LAW

SANTA ANA, Feb. 8.—The legislative committee of the Associated Chambers of Commerce of Orange county was on record today as opposed to the bill introduced in the State Legislature by Senator Frank Merriam of Long Beach, which would allow Long Beach to annex Seal Beach, yet leave Seal Beach in Orange county for other purposes.

TUJUNGA'S LATE GRAPES

TUJUNGA, Feb. 9.—Tujunga is noted for its late grapes, and with each year the season is even more prolonged. Mr. Chapman is picking the last grapes off the vine, most of them being plump, sweet and of perfect shape.

HELD FOR INVESTIGATION

Ventura Man Said to Have Advertised for Young Girl Stenographer, Using Assumed Name

VENTURA, Feb. 8.—Bert Allen Davis, 42 years of age, Ventura carpenter, and married, was under arrest today awaiting a Federal investigation growing out of his asserted misuse of the mails.

Davis first fell under suspicion more than a week ago when he placed a classified advertisement in a local paper asking for an inexperienced, single girl to work for him as a stenographer. He gave a temporary address and left an assumed name with the paper's bookkeeper, which made it difficult to trace him.

Seven letters awarded his advertisement and of them Davis, who had used the name of Charles G. Bonney, chose one written in all sincerity by a Ventura high-school miss for the "position." He answered the letter and proposed, it is said, that the girl should accompany him on his travels as a salesman for a well-known make of automobile.

He described himself as single and attentive to his business. The latter was such, he said, that he was kept very busy during the daytime and would need his stenographer mostly at night during the time he expected to be in Ventura. He proposed a salary of $100 a month at first.

DEPLORES PASSING OF VERANDA

Prominent Eastern Man Says Front Porch is Now Thing of Past

PASADENA, Feb. 8.—One hundred years hence there may not be a single home equipped with an old-fashioned front porch in the United States, and one man who mourns the passing of what in past years has competed with the fireplace as a pillar of home life, is Albert C. Burrage, president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society, who is wintering at the Hotel Huntington.

The advocate of the front porch as a cementer of family bonds and neighborliness, practices what he preaches. For many years, he owned a winter home in Redlands. This mansion was built in the form of an H and had porches facing all points of the compass.

Mr. Burrage, a householder in Boston, has been president of the Massachusetts Horticultural Society since 1921, and he is the donor of a gold medal to the home owner who, by building a ground or side porch, most improves his property.

"The race in America today," he said, "is between the dreary apartment-houses of New York and the bungalow homes of California, where porches, gardens and patios lure the residents into the open air."

As a patron of American floriculture, Mr. Burrage fears that if porches disappear, gardens may disappear also.

"A woman must sit on her front porch to visualize and plan a garden. When she looks through curtained windows, the weeds in her yard do not hurt her conscience."

There is also danger, according to the authority on porches, that the asserted increasing lack of neighborliness in this country can also be laid to the disappearance of the porch.

"When entire families spent the long summer evenings on adjacent porches, they couldn't help knowing and speaking to each other. How can you know a neighbor who drives his car into his garage at night and lacking any other place to sit, disappears into his home so quickly that you could not recognize him if you saw him again?"

Mr. Burrage admires the California patios, but admits that the patio does not take the place of the old New England and Middle Western veranda as a promoter of friendship.

Dying Man Pens Note

SAN DIEGO, Feb. 8.—Penning a note while death gradually dimmed his senses, Clarence Davis, 64 years of age, 1142 Twentieth street, was found dead, a victim of gas asphyxiation in the kitchen of his home today, Deputy Coroner E. P. Matthews reported.

"Can't write—dying can't remember," the message concluded as Davis dropped the pencil from his fingers and slumped his head over a table. "All be good—good-by," the note began.

The message, virtually testifying to the sensations which Davis felt while death overtook him, was placed among other strange and unusual "death letters" in the files of the County Coroner.

While Matthews sent the body to the Bonham Brothers mortuary pending autopsy, he announced that he will conduct an inquiry into the death.

Charles J. Othick, 3044 Newton avenue, son-in-law of Davis, and Maude E. Fears, 4092 Georgia street, a daughter of the dead man, were to be questioned by Matthews, who said he learned that Davis deeded his entire property holdings to his son-in-law and daughter yesterday.

COLLEGE STUDENT INNOCENT VICTIM

UPLAND, Feb. 8.—Ralph Snyder, Pomona College student, was in San Antonio Community Hospital today with a fractured skull, caused by an automobile accident, in which he did not have a part. Snyder was standing on the curb when two automobiles driven by J. F. Hart, 109 Columbia avenue, Pomona, and Ray A. Flaherty, 1001 Hilts avenue, Westwood Hills, collided. Flaherty's car was turned completely upside down and while spinning about in the street, struck Snyder.

The college student was knocked unconscious. At the hospital it was reported his skull was fractured and that he was otherwise injured.

None of those in the two automobiles received serious injury.

Hit-and-Run Driver Sought by Officials

ALHAMBRA, Feb. 8.—Deputy sheriffs and police are looking for the driver of a green Buick sedan who speeded away Thursday evening after having crashed into an automobile at the corner of Rosemead Boulevard and Hermosa avenue, in the Temple City district, causing the death of Mrs. Emily P. Vincent, 79 years of age, of 147 South Normandie avenue, Los Angeles.

Mrs. George H. Wahlenmaier, 1316 Myrtle avenue, Los Angeles, suffered a broken collarbone and three fractured ribs. She is at the Alhambra Hospital. Mrs. Edith P. Humphrey, Mrs. Vincent's daughter, and the driver of the car in which the three women were returning to Los Angeles, escaped with minor bruises.

The hit-and-run car was recognized last night by service station attendants in Arcadia where the machine stopped to have a tire repaired. The attendant said a woman was driving and a man and another woman occupied the rear seat.

NEW PLAN FOR RAPID TRANSIT

Burbank Man to Submit Bill to Legislature

Proposed Enactment Before Chamber of Commerce

Test Suit Proposed to Obtain Decision on Validity

BURBANK, Feb. 8.—Two of the most forbidding obstacles in the path of a rapid transit system for the San Fernando Valley are nearly out of the way today, according to Charles Kline, transportation expert and resident of Burbank, who submitted a proposed legislative bill, concerning the legal means for the accomplishment of the proposed fast transportation route through the valley from Los Angeles, to the Chamber of Commerce today for that body's indorsement.

This bill, which provides the solution of the question, "Under what act will the rapid transit system be constructed?" and Kline's statement that the route shall be built on a forty-foot right of way next to the flood-control channel from the Los Angeles River through Griffith Park to Burbank, will eliminate the two most troublesome points blocking the progress of the system.

Kline also stated that David W. Pontius, president of the Pacific Electric, has agreed to handle the construction of a $3,000,000 tunnel and road bed from the present existing tunnel in Los Angeles to a point north of Sunset Boulevard and the continuation of the rapid transit system to the Los Angeles River.

The legislative bill, which will come before the State Senate shortly after the Legislature reconvenes on February 18, provides transportation districts to cover the unique situation experienced here where the route will pass through several cities and county territory. It states, according to Kline today, that a petition signed by 12 per cent of the property owners fronting on the right of way will inaugurate the project.

The transportation expert told the chamber directors any one city can handle the construction of the system, providing that the other cities and the county interested in the project give their consent. "No assessments may be levied for the payment of the cost of the work," Kline said, "until the other cities and the county give their indorsement. If the bill is successful in the Legislature, it will be effective in July. Then a friendly test suit will be sought, in order to get a decision from the Supreme Court of the State on its validity. After that decision is made, the proceedings for the rapid transit system can be started at once."

On Kline's motion, the bill was turned over to the public affairs committee of the chamber for investigation and recommendation next week.

Rock Mountain to be Moved

GLENDORA, Feb. 8.—Removal of a mountain of rocks from the foothill estate of J. H. LaChance to a Glendora rock crusher is now under way with a crew of twenty men and trucks on the job.

The rock mountain began its growth when LaChance, an eastern financier, visualized a thriving orange grove to replace some forty odd acres of rocky foothill ground and had the boulders, large and small, cleared from the land and piled into high banks which have stood for seasons as a monument to the development.

DEATH DISOLVES LONG PARTNERSHIP

GLENDALE, Feb. 8.—A business association of more than thirty years was broken last night by the death of L. W. Gingery, partner in the firm of Lee Gingery Company, furniture dealers, at the home of his daughter, Mrs. Theodore E. Sohle, 519 Palm Drive.

Mr. Gingery, before coming to California, was associated with M. W. Lee, in business in Sauk Center, Minn., for many years, and after the two of them came to this city they formed their partnership that was terminated by Gingery's death. He is survived by his widow, Mrs. Minnie Gingery; two daughters, Mrs. Sohle, and Mrs. C. E. Lucas of Oxnard, and a son, Carl C. Gingery of Glendale. Funeral arrangements will be announced later.

REQUEST STREET PLANS

City Council of Sierra Madre Asks Special Counsel for Detailed Data on Project

SIERRA MADRE, Feb. 8.—Acting upon recommendations as set forth by W. C. Earle, city engineer of Pasadena, and requested by the Regional Planning Commission, for the improvement of Huntington Drive on both sides of the Pacific Electric right of way from Colorado street in Pasadena to Villa avenue and on Huntington Drive or Central avenue along the south side of the Pacific Electric right of way from Villa avenue to Sierra Madre avenue, members of the City Council requested by special motion that Robert C. Wygant, special counsel for the Central-avenue project, in conjunction with engineer of work, H. S. Gierlich, prepare the necessary plans and specifications for the improvement to conform with the recommendations as outlined.

It is proposed to construct a roadway not less than thirty-five feet in width between curbs on each side of the Pacific Electric right of way to conform with that portion of Huntington Drive now improved south of Colorado street from Villa avenue to Sierra Madre avenue, which is along the west boundary line of the city of Sierra Madre. It is also proposed to condemn a strip of land not less than seventy-one feet in width.

The street between curb lines will be fifty-six feet in width with a three-foot parkway along the north side adjacent to the Pacific Electric right of way and twelve feet in width along the south side, making a total width of seventy-one feet.

The low punch came after fifty-two seconds of the round. Taylor, driving the clever New York youngster before him, let fly a left hook to the body, apparently in foul territory. Singer dropped to the floor, writhing in apparent agony, was carried to his corner and referee Patsy Haley, after consulting the judges, disqualified the middleweight.

The decision, ending a fast and furious battle, created a terrific uproar among the crowd that packed the Garden to the rafters. Singer, however, appeared genuinely hurt, and in no condition to continue the bout.

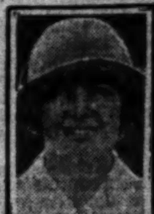
Flintridge Golfer Plays Brilliant Game to Trim California State Champion at Los Angeles

BY EDWARD LAWRENCE

Out of the finalist class into the championship class—no longer a "maybe," but a "somebody"—that is Miss Kathleen Wright, the most brilliant star in the diadem of the Flintridge Country Club.

For Miss Wright, Southern California's most inconsistent finalist of the past five years, yesterday won the annual midwinter championship by defeating the California State champion, Mrs. Gregg Lifur, of the Riviera Country Club, 3 down and 2 to play.



MISS KATHLEEN WRIGHT

Winning the championship is secondary to the fact that victory may be the agent in making Miss Wright one of the greatest women players in America. There are few finer players in the West today than Miss Wright, but she badly needed yesterday's championship to give her the confidence and "spark" to climb higher.

In defeating Mrs. Lifur, Miss Wright administered the knockout drops to a jinx, which has trailed her since Hector was a pup. The first time Mrs. Lifur met Miss Wright some four or five years ago she nosed her out for the Southern California championship. Again last April Mrs. Lifur met the Flintridge ace in the California State tournament finals—and won, 3 and 2. Miss Wright was also a finalist in the Southern California championship at Bel-Air in May, where she also reached the finals, only to lose to Mrs. Harry Pressler.

Southern Conference Cinder Season Starts at Caltech Field

The first Southern California Conference track meet will be held at Paddock Field, Pasadena, this afternoon when Fox Stanton's Caltech squad plays host to the University of Redlands team. Hostilities will commence at 2:30 o'clock.

"FOX" STANTON.

Caltech, with several outstanding stars, is a lopsided favorite to win. Redlands has only one or two capable athletes from last year, while promising sophomore prospects are busy with basketball.

Stanton has always been a good developer of track athletes. He labors under difficulties in that he gets very little in the way of material and in addition has only a limited amount of time with his men, due to stiff courses at the engineering institution.

Capt. Doug Perry of Caltech is doped to run away with both hurdles, while Lufkin should win the hammer and shot. Hull of Redlands is a good distance runner, while the Baptists also have a fine pole vaulter in Ball.

TROJANS BATTLE BRUINS

Rival Basket Teams Struggle in Second Game of "City Championship" Series

BY RALPH HUSTON

Two basketball teams, somewhat lacking in finesse and ability, but making up for those negligible faculties with a fiery brand of intense rivalry, get together tonight at the Olympic Auditorium to battle it out for the "city championship." The Trojans of the University of Southern California, and the Bruins, of the University of California at Los Angeles, being definitely out of the Pacific Coast conference race, have chosen to call their battle to the death just that.

Coach Leo Calland's Trojans are one up on Caddy Works's Bruins. While neither team has been able to lick California or Stanford to date, the supporters of the Cardinal and Gold slipped over a 28-23 victory on the Blue and Gold in a recent meeting, thus chalking up the first, and to date, only conference victory of the season for the defending champions. The Bruins are struggling along, with six successive defeats to their credit, but have yet to quit trying.

Rival Basketball Teams Slated to Mix Tonight at Stanford

BERKELEY, Feb. 8. (Exclusive) Upon retiring tonight several thousand students enrolled with the University of California will offer up prayers in behalf of their Golden Bear varsity, which tomorrow evening at Palo Alto will meet Stanford University in the second game of what amounts to a championship series.

"NIBS" PRICE.

It is ordered that California supporters should feel so trembly over what may possibly happen at Palo Alto, especially in view of the fact that the Reds were beaten by a decisive score on the occasion of the first battle two weeks ago. There are valid reasons for the fears found in the hearts of Coach Clarence (Nibs) Price and his loyal student backers. The first reason for uncertainty is the Cardinal gymnasium. The lighting is accorded a thumbs-down vote by the California players. Furthermore, California's quintet seems to be season-weary.

OXY TRACKERS MAKE DEBUT IN FOUR-WAY MEET TODAY

Occidental's first track and field meet of the 1929 season will be a quadrangular affair and will take place this afternoon at Patterson Field, where the Tiger tracksters play host to the Glendale and Pasadena Junior College and California Christian College spikesters. The hammer throw will open the four-way meet at 1:30 o'clock.

Coach Joe Pipal, grizzled veteran of the track and field, who guides the Oxy athletes, predicts a tough meet. Yesterday the Tiger skipper could be heard moaning and groaning throughout the day, the reason being the loss of several stars via the faculty ax, and the lack of material to supplant these athletes.

In the hammer Pipal lost his only performer and a good one in Dale Hensley, while the best broad jumper and pole vaulter in the school, Frank Winfield, also fell by the wayside. Both men failed in scholastic work this past semester.

In the pole vault Elmer Jones and Audell Dixon, letter men of last year, will be the sole representatives of the home crew. In the 100 and 220, Charles Ruth, demon varsity ace, and Belman, a 1928 freshman, should uphold the Tigers and tally considerable points.

The brightest spot in the Oxy line-up is the 880-yard run, in which Pipal believes his squad unbeatable. That goes, too, for the two-mile, four-man relay, in which Capt. Goodheart, Don Imler, Fred Appleton, Rud Crawford, Cameron Mullard,

REDLANDS BOY CHAMP VAULTER

Perry of Caltech Ranks With High Jumpers

Williams of Pomona Leads Broad Jumpers

Kircher to Score Points for Caltech Squad

(This is the fifth of a series of articles dealing with the track and field situation in the Southern California Conference.)

BY BRAVEN DYER

Holdovers from last year will probably score most of the points in the high jump, broad jump and pole vault during Southern California Conference meets this season. Very little startling material came to light in frosh competition last year and unless the various coaches are able to develop new men this spring the old standbys will have to ring up the digits on the scoreboard.

CLARENCE BISHOP

The high jump finds Clarence Bishop of Pomona, Doug Perry of Caltech and Hall of Occidental as the leading performers. Bishop tied for first with Bell, his team-mate, in the all-conference meet last year, clearing 6ft. 1⅛in. Hall was third, one inch behind the others. This seems to be Hall's limit. Bishop is generally good for 6ft. ½in., but outdid himself in the big meet last season. Perry was fourth at 5ft. 11½in.

We wouldn't be surprised to see Hall the outstanding man of the three this year. Bishop has played football and basketball and will probably feel the effect of these strenuous sports. Perry hurdles in both the high and low sticks, which will sap some of his strength. Hall, on the other hand, concentrates on the high jump.

Larson of Occidental did 5ft. 10in. as a frosh last year, while King, a varsity man at Pomona, is good for this height or slightly better. Orth, a transfer, is San Diego's main hope in this event.

Lee Williams, captain of the 1928 Pomona football team, is the best broad jumper in the circuit. He did 22ft. 8 1-4in. last year which was several inches better than any of his competitors could leap. Pomona's other two stars of last season, Bell and French, are gone, which leaves Kircher of Caltech as Williams's only real rival. This fellow came up with a bang last year from nowhere, leaping 22ft. 4 3-4in. to place third in the all-conference meet. He may surprise Williams and do 23ft. this season.

Capt. Maurice Fox of San Diego State has bettered 22ft. on occasions and ought to chalk up a lot of points this year. Inman of Pomona did 21ft. 3in. as a frosh and should get out around 22ft. this spring.

As for the pole vault, Ball of Redlands is the leading candidate for first honors at this time. He is the only man in the circuit who does 12ft. 6in. with any consistency. Baird of Pomona is good for 12ft., while Ingraham, a Sagehen frosh, won the peagreen event at the same height last year. Jones of Occidental hovers around this altitude.

voiced suspicions by ticket holders that the term "ringside seats" might be interpreted to mean any small surface within a mile or so of the ring.

The forty rows of ringside seats will be within eighty feet of the ropes, it was said.

Four entrances to the ringside will be available and these will be in addition to eight entrances to the other parts of the arena.

Dempsey had $15,000 worth of tickets in his car when he left for Tampa and said he expected to leave them in the west coast city in one of the ticket offices there.

He was to return late tonight for the hearing in Circuit Court tomorrow on his application for an injunction to restrain Stribling from flying his airplane or riding a motorcycle until after the fight.

Plans at present calls for the main bout to start about 10 p.m. eastern standard time.

TRACK SEASON OPENS TODAY

Entwistle and Crofton Jones furnish Pipal sufficient material from which to select an unbeatable crew.

With Harold (Iron Man) Webb out of school, the javelin honors must be won by Carrey and Drum or fall in the possession of the rival teams. Wendall Smith, Glen Roselle and James Coyne will take care of the shot and discus events, in which Oxy should garner 10 points in most every meet.

RABBIT PUNCHES

BY PAUL LOWRY

THE YELLOW STREAK

TOMMY LOUGHRAN says Young Stribling will beat Jack Sharkey.

Here's his reason:

Sharkey has a deeper yellow streak than Stribling.

What a swell tipoff on the heavyweight battle the Madison Square Garden promoters, aided and abetted by Jack Dempsey, are about to foist on the cash customers of Florida!

Dempsey brought the color out in Sharkey two years ago, and it seems funny now to see the man who knows more about that streak than anybody else dashing hither and thither to steam up interest in his former victim.

Although a poll of local scribes recently showed nothing higher than a $150,000 gate for the fight Dempsey announces the ticket sale already has reached the proportions of $189,000 with the battle still nearly three weeks away. Jack says this figure exceeds by $30,000 the estimated cost of the fight.

All right. Let's chalk that up in the notebook and see how the intake measures up with the outgo after the bout.

A NEW CHAMP?

THAT new heavyweight of Jack Kearns—Al Fay—is reported to be getting ripe.

From none other than the good Baron of Leiperville—Jimmy Dougherty—comes word that the youngster has been working with George Godfrey and gives every impression of becoming a "champ of champs."

Fay is only a youngster Kearns picked up in the East and hustled out of sight to train at Leiperville.

But he has the old Dempsey sock, and Kearns has stuck him away until he has learned some of the finer points of boxing.

The youngster knocked out a couple of foes before Kearns hid him at Leiperville, but will be uncovered, Kearns says, when his "Three Musketeers" campaign gets to rolling.

NO MORE JUDGES

THE ruling by State's Atty.-Gen. Webb that boxing judges cannot be appointed by the State Athletic Commission will eliminate all such disputes as arose before the Loughran-Emanuel fight the other night.

Hereafter, according to the legal ruling, the referee will have the sole voice in deciding a fight. That is what the principals and their managers wanted the other evening—but had a hard time in getting.

There is nothing in the commission rules and regulations as formulated slightly over four years ago to sanction the use of judges, and they have been used locally mainly because of a straw vote of the cash customers at the Olympic several months ago—at a time when the refereeing had been exceptionally bad.

REFEREE IS IT

BUT the rules say, "The referee shall, at the termination of all boxing contests or sparring matches or exhibitions which are of ten rounds or a less number of rounds, render his decision."

The squabble over the judges the other night resulted in the holding up of the fighters' checks by State Inspector Bill Bomb for two days although the boys fought their ten rounds and were entitled to their money.

However, here'll be no more messes like that if the Attorney-General's ruling is adhered to, and apparently there is no reason why it shouldn't be.

BRUINS BATTLE TROJAN SQUAD

subsequently was reinstated, and appeared in two games against Stanford. Some critics were so unkind as to relate that Mr. Balter was again conspicuous, and also by his absence, although he was in uniform. His failure to obstruct one Vance Fawcett gave the Cards a game. All of which has incensed the Bruin captain unduly and he is ready to turn loose in his customary style tonight.

With the Bruins all back in order, the Trojans have been suffering. Capt. Lloyd Thomas, although there is a rumor prevalent that he will start, is far from being in the best of health. In a recent practice scrimmage he suffered a floor-burn, which he neglected, and which subsequently became infected. He did not perform in the recent game with the Chinese All-Stars, and has been hobbling painfully about the campus. How he expects to start is a mystery, but that's the official word from headquarters.

The remainder of both squads are intact. Bob Baker is expected to work with Balter at the guard positions for the Bruins, with Bill Woodroof at center, and Larry Wilde and Dick Linthicum at forwards. This is the regular varsity line-up for the Bruins.

Calland likewise will start his usual team. This includes Thomas and Johnny Lehners at guards; Jess Mortensen, center, and Aaron Nibley and Henry Cano, forwards.

As reserves, Works has three highly capable men in Milo Young, center; Carl Shy, forward, and Al Sunseri, guard. Others who doubtless will see service are Carl Knowles, center; Erwin Piper, forward, and Frank Lubin, guard.

A Trojan second team composed of Gordon Boelter and Frank Smith, forwards; Hank Walbot, center, and Ray Harris and James Truher, guards, recently held the regulars to an 11-11 tie in a fifteen-minute battle. All five are expected to see service tonight.

The varsity event will get under way at 8 o'clock, or thereabouts. The two frosh teams will tangle at 7. The Bruin yearlings won the first contest.

HUSKIES CINCH CAGE LAURELS

PULLMAN (Wash.) Feb. 8. (AP)—The University of Washington Huskies apparently clinched the northern division basketball title by defeating Washington State College, 38 to 24, here tonight. While the Cougars led at the start, the Huskies quickly got into action and were leading, 21 to 9, at the half.

HOLLYWOOD TEAM WINS

Clyde Swendson's Hollywood Athletic Club water polo team walloped the Pasadena Athletic Club swimmers, 12-4, last night in the Circle H pool. Fletcher starred for Hollywood, getting 8 points. Weston Kimball, Hollywood sprint star, was injured in the latter part of the game.

Kearns says he has a letter from the National Boxing Association which gives him until March 27, next, to have Walker's signature on a contract to defend his middleweight title.

Between now and that time Kearns says Walker will sign either to fight Ace Hudkins at Las Vegas, Nev., on the Fourth of July or at Wrigley Field.

He says the Las Vegas proposition is hot, that the promoters have plenty of money but that if the scrap should fall through there it will be staged in this city.

MICKEY MUST DEFEND TITLE

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Illinois State Athletic Commission today tossed a bomb into the proposed light-heavyweight championship match between Tommy Loughran, titleholder, and Mickey Walker, ruler of the middleweights.

Paddy Harmon, president of the Chicago Stadium Corporation, was negotiating for the match to open the new $7,000,000 arena March 12. He already has Loughran under contract, but the commission ruled that Walker must first fight a logical contender for the middleweight title.

Paul Prehn, chairman of the commission, and president of the National Boxing Association, said the Loughran-Walker match would be impossible under present circumstances, as Walker was under suspension by the N.B.A. for failure to defend his title. He said there would be no objection to a Loughran-Walker battle after Walker had defended his middleweight crown.

Prehn named Ace Hudkins, Dave Shade, George Courtney and Rene De Vos as the outstanding challengers for the middleweight title. He said any member of the quartet would be acceptable as Walker's opponent.

Walker has been clamoring for a light-heavyweight championship match for two years. He invaded the division in two Chicago matches, knocking out Mike McTigue in one round and defeating Paul Berlenbach in ten rounds. Both are former light-heavyweight champions.

COMPTON CAGERS WIN FROM REDONDO, 37-14

Coach Paul Mickey's Compton Lions went into a tie for the Bay League basketball lead yesterday when they routed the Redondo cagers 37 to 14 on the victor's court. Mickey started his subs and Compton was leading only 14 to 7 at half time. In the second half, though, Canfield Weber and Yancey began hitting the hoop and the Lions pulled away to a decisive victory. In the preliminary the Compton middleweights nosed out the Redondo class B five 17 to 16.

MISS WRIGHT WINS TOURNEY

Shatters Jinx to Capture Midwinter Tournament

has been characterized by an inability to stand the gaff over the second nine, but there was no indecision about her play yesterday. She faltered long enough to lose the first hole, but evened the count on the third hole and was never headed thereafter.

Mrs. Lifur battled gamely to overcome a two-hole lead at the halfway point, but never got any further than winning the tenth hole. Miss Wright had a distinct advantage with her woods, and outside of the first two holes, played her irons equally well. Mrs. Lifur had no less than five three-putt greens, due mainly to the fact that her usually faultless chip shots were falling far short of the pin.

The defeat did Mrs. Lifur no harm, her place among the West's finest players being as secure as ever, and it did do Miss Wright no small amount of good, so everybody ought to be satisfied.

HOLE-BY-HOLE

Here is the hole-by-hole account of the match:

No. 1, 480 yards, par 5—Mrs. Lifur's drive bounced into a sand trap, while Miss Wright boomed one down the fairway over the 200-yard mark. The California State champion had a nice out with a spoon and played a crisp mashie shot to the green. Miss Wright dubbed her third shot after a long wood second, the ball rolling into a trap. Mrs. Lifur's long putt rolled 5 feet over the hole, and she sank it for a 5. Miss Wright was on the green in 4, and took two putts for a 6.

No. 2, 470 yards, par 5—Miss Wright again had the longest drive and second shot, but a weak third laid her ball alongside of that of Mrs. Lifur for a long, tricky putt. Both took three putts for 6's to halve the hole, Mrs. Lifur still 1 up.

No. 3, 340 yards, par 4—Miss Wright squared the match, when she laid her mashie second shot on the green, while Mrs. Lifur played for the pin and landed in a trap. Her long putt was over for a four-footer coming back, which she sank for a 4. Mrs. Lifur was on the green in three and two putts gave her a 5.

No. 4, 175 yards, par 3—Miss Wright's drive was off line, but on the green. She was down in the customary two putts for a 3. Mrs. Lifur played close to the pin and then muffed a four-foot putt to take a 4, which put Miss Wright, 1 up.

MRS. LIFUR LOSES

No. 5, 400 yards, par 4—The fifth cost the California champion another hole, when her spoon third dropped into a trap. Miss Wright was safely on with an iron third. Mrs. Lifur's out was short and she got on the green in 5 and took two putts for a 7. Miss Wright's 5 made her 2 up.

No. 6, 310 yards, par 4.—They halved the sixth, both being on in two and two putts for par 4's. Mrs. Lifur, whose drive was far short, played a beautiful second shot over the hill which guards the dogleg hole.

LONG DRIVES

No. 7, 235 yards, par 3—Both players had fine drives, but Miss Wright was in a trap. They both played good second shots and then missed short putts for 4's. Miss Wright's ball slid by a bare two inches from the hole, and Mrs. Lifur missed by an even closer margin.

No. 8, 515 yards, par 5—Miss Wright won her third hole with three perfect shots, the last one landing on the green for two putts and a 5. Mrs. Lifur's drive landed on the side of a hill in deep grass. She was on the edge of the green in 4 but her long putt was way over and she picked up for a 7.

MISS WRIGHT 2 UP

No. 9, 175 yards, par 3—The Flintridge golfer was only two up at the turn when Mrs. Lifur won the ninth hole with a fine drive and a 45-foot putt which stopped two inches from the cup for a sensational 3. Miss Wright found a trap to the right of the green, was out perfectly, but missed a 20-foot putt by inches to take a 4.

No. 10, 465 yards, par 4—Mrs. Lifur won the tenth. Her wood second bounced through a trap onto the edge of the green. Miss Wright's second also plowed through the tip of the trap and came to rest on the edge of the green in deep grass. Miss Wright took three putts and Mrs. Lifur two for a 5 and 4, respectively.

No. 11, 220 yards, par 3—Both players drove into traps on the eleventh. Miss Wright had a pretty out, but Mrs. Lifur's was even better. It was then that the Flintridge golfer arose to the occasion and plunked the ball into the cup for a 3 to halve the hole.

No. 12, 340 yards, par 4—They halved the twelfth, when Mrs. Lifur three-putted the green, after being on in 2. Miss Wright was in a trap and took two putts for a 5.

HALVE HOLE

No. 13, 415 yards, par 4—Miss Wright broke Mrs. Lifur's heart on the "jinx" hole. Mrs. Lifur had two woods straight down the fairway and was on in three for a short putt. Miss Wright's second shot dribbled down a steep hill to the right of the green. Without being able to see the pin, Miss Wright dropped her ball on the green, and layed her twenty-foot putt dead for a 5. Mrs. Lifur's ball hit the back of the cup and she also scored a 5, leaving Miss Wright still, 1 up.

No. 14, 530 yards, par 5—Mrs. Lifur protested the thirteenth hole on the grounds that a spectator had located Miss Wright's ball, but George M. Lewis, who officiated, refused to allow the claim on the grounds that the assistance was not solicited. The psychology of Mrs. Lifur's action nettled Miss Wright, however, and she dubbed her second shot. The Flintridge woman's champion played a perfect fourth shot, which dropped pin high. Mrs. Lifur played her third shot among trees in tall grass, but was also on in 4. Both placed their long putts close to the pin for short putts and 6s. Had Mrs. Lifur won the hole the outcome might have been different.

MISS WRIGHT WINS

No. 15, 140 yards, par 3—with supreme confidence, Miss Wright played a perfect shot dead to the pin, but the ball dropped into a small trap, which George Thomas Jr., built into the center of the green. Mrs. Lifur was short and in a trap. Her second shot was over and she took three putts for a 5. Miss Wright got out of the trap with a putter and took two putts for a 4 to be 2 up.

No. 16, 440 yards, par 4—Mrs. Lifur's last chance went glimmering when she drove a trap and dubbed her second shot. Miss Wright batted two woods straight down the fairway and was on in three with a 6-foot putt for a 4. She took two putts and a 5. Mrs. Lifur got on in 4, but missed a long putt and then turned to congratulate the winner.

The cards:

BABY SAL-MANCILLAS BATTLE MAY STEAL SHOW AT OLYMPIC

Baby Sal Sorio and Joe Mancillas are a good bet to steal the Olympic show next Tuesday night in spite of the fact that Bert Colima is boxing Johnny Gill in the top spot. It is a jealousy row as well as rivalry for the 130-pound Mexican championship.

Sal probably has as much color as Colima. He is much the same stylist, except that Bert is the master feinter in the ring today any place in the country. But much of Colima's color lies around the fact that he may be on the floor or may have his opponent there. Joey Sangor's greatest asset, probably, is a weak jaw. He goes down when hit and until recently used to get up and win. The Sangor-Sal knockdown battle here last year was easily the most thrilling and colorful match of 1928.

Mancillas has a stronger jaw than Sal, but he can't wipe out an opponent in a single swipe like the San Bernardino kid. Sal has been knocking out everybody he met in the valley the last two months.

Gill is an unknown quantity here. He used to be a good fighter, but will have to prove himself all over again.

Pop Parrett, Gill's manager, claims he has had his fighter under wraps in the gym. According to Pop he will knock Colima out in a few rounds and upset all of Jack Doyle's plans for an Ace Hudkins gigantic.

Gill has twice met Mickey Walker, Jimmy Slattery and Paul Berlenbach—giving away over 20 pounds to the latter two.

Colima is full of 1929 confidence. He wants to fight Hudkins, Walker and Armand Emanuel this year. He would even take a chance with Tommy Loughran if the light heavyweight title was at stake.

Two four-round bouts make 38 rounds of boxing on the one card.

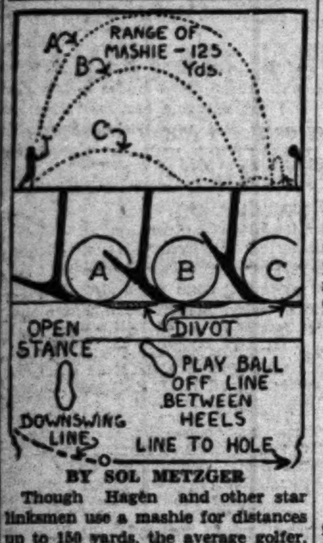
Golfers Urged Not to Press



BY SOL METZGER

Though Hagen and other star linksmen use a mashie for distances up to 150 yards, the average golfer, lacking the same fine control and powerful wrists (the latter developed by constant play the year around,) had best set 125 yards as his full distance for it. Trying for greater distances puts a premium on force, strength and very hard swinging, neither leading to sound play or balance.

When longer shots are demanded seek stronger irons. Play within your limits. This imitation business in golf, that is, of using the same club an opponent uses for a stroke, is not good. No two golf alike. Remember that. Do your own thinking and you'll get better results and progress far more rapidly.

The mashie, be it remembered, can be played in three ways—to run-up, to pitch with normal flight and to pitch with great height. The higher the pitch, the quicker the stop. Two reasons. First, the ball drops more vertically; second, hitting with more loft imparts greater backspin.

Almost all stars have common principles in mashie play. (1) An open stance; (2) they take the ball clean with the blade, but then drive it into the turf to take a divot. In other words, they strike the ball just before the lowest arc of the swing is reached. To do that they play the ball a bit nearer the right foot than for other shots.

Par golfers make their approaches stick. Metzger's printed and illustrated leaflet, "The Art of Pitching," explains in detail how to do this. Send stamped, addressed envelope to Sol Metzger, in care of The Times and ask for it.

KID FRANCIS VICTORIOUS OVER GOUYD

European Scrapper Master Throughout Hollywood Go to Win Decision

Gouyd was on the floor three times. In the fifth round Francis knocked him through the ropes. Gouyd hung over the lower strand with his shoulders resting on the edge of the ring. He got back into the circle, however, and continued. In the eighth canto, Francis let go a hard right and Gouyd once more hit the canvas.

They started out at a fast clip. Taylor piled into his eastern rival at the opening bell, pouring lefts and rights in to his head and body from all angles. Midway through the round, however, Singer clapped Taylor with a terrific right to the chin. The Terre Haute slugger, once generally recognized as the bantamweight champion of the world, was stunned temporarily and Singer drove him into the ropes with a fierce two-fisted assault.

Refreshed by the rest between rounds, the middle westerner more than held his own in the second session. He constantly found Singer's body with heavy left hooks. The third round saw Taylor open up with both hands, but he found Singer quite willing to trade punches. Taylor held a slight edge during the round.

The fourth round had barely opened when Taylor, punching with both hands, drove Singer around the ring. His left darted out like a young thunderbolt. Singer, fouled, dropped to the canvas and the fight was over.

FIGHT BY ROUNDS

ROUND ONE

Taylor rushed Singer and landed two left hook. Bud dug right in and belted Al's body with both hands. Singer crossed a right to the jaw and they engaged in a furious mix-up on the ropes. Taylor was wild and Singer nailed him with short left hooks as he came tearing in. Singer crossed two rights to the jaw. Singer staggered Taylor with a right to the jaw. Al followed this with left and right to the head, but Taylor recovered quickly. Singer's round.

ROUND TWO

Taylor came tearing out and hooked both hands to the head. They traded straight lefts. Singer hooked right to the body. Taylor ripped a left to the stomach. Al came back with both hands to the head. Taylor was bleeding from the mouth. Singer landed a one-two to the jaw. Taylor hooked a vicious left to the stomach, but Singer came back fast. Singer crashed left and right to the mouth. Singer's round.

ROUND THREE

ROUND FOUR

Taylor rushed out and when he tried to lead Singer tagged him with a left and right to the head, but was full of fight and stepped in close, swinging both hands. Singer dropped in a clinch, holding his groin and claiming a foul. When he stretched out on his back Patsy Haley stopped the count and awarded the fight to Singer on a foul. The punch was a low left hook. The time of fighting was 54 seconds of the fourth round.

Matsuyama in Billiards Win

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Kinrey Matsuyama, less than twice as tall as a billiard table, but ninety-two pounds of grit and courage, tonight pulled out a victory over Eric Hagenlacher of Germany, 400 to 385, in a third-round match in the 18.2 balkline title tournament. The calm little Japanese took the lead in the game for the first time when he came from behind to run sixty-eight in the thirteenth inning for his third straight win.

Welker Cochran of Hollywood, Cal., went into a tie for second place in the world's 18.2 balkline billiards championship tournament this afternoon by winning a one-sided match from Felix Grange of France, by 400 to 158 in twelve innings.

WHITTIER WALLOPS TIGER FIVE, 22-13

Whittier High easily beat the South Pasadena Tigers last night, 22-13, in a tough game played in the Poets' gym. Norris of Whittier starred, hitting the basket for 10 points. In a preliminary game the Whittier Class "C" cagers copped over the South Pasadena babes, 19-12.

SHIPPING NEWS
AND ACTIVITIES AT LOS ANGELES HARBOR

SAFETY AT SEA PLAN IN FAVOR

Lighthouse Commissioner's Suggestion Popular

Co-operative Radio-Bearing System Projected

Adoption Would Speed Aid to Stricken Vessels

Local shipping interests generally are approving the radio-bearing plan suggested by United States Commissioner of Lighthouses G. R. Putnam, whereby two or more ships in the vicinity of a vessel in distress would aid each other in locating the stricken ship by co-operation with their radio equipment. No ship receiving a distress call should depend alone on its own radio bearings, says Mr. Putnam in his published plan, but should ask the aid of other radio-equipped ships in determining the position of the distressed vessel.

"Cross bearings thus taken, together with longitude and latitude in which bearings are taken, would give a navigator sufficient information to plot on his chart the position of the vessel seeking aid," according to Mr. Putnam. "Accuracy of this plot will, of course, depend on the relative positions of the ships and the number of bearings reported, but in general it should give very promptly a position sufficiently close to enable the neighboring vessels to feel certain of the course to steer to render aid, and their respective distances."

Local shipping men point out that the system will also prove valuable to a vessel in dangerous waters or in doubt of her own position, her navigator being able by securing cross bearings from other vessels in the vicinity, together with a report of their own positions, to accurately check his vessel's position.

"The constant increase in the radio installations on ships, and the improvement in radio efficiency, are having the effect of saving from the sea the crews of many vessels which before the days of radio would oftentimes simply have been reported 'missing,'" continues Mr. Putnam. "There are now at all times along the traveled steamer lanes sufficient vessels efficiently equipped with radio-compasses and capable of taking accurate bearings at distances of several hundred miles to permit the determination of the location and distance of any ship capable of sending an SOS call."

TRAVEL TO HAWAII SETS SEASON'S MARK

Largest passenger list for Hawaii this season will sail at noon today when the Lassco liner City of Honolulu, Capt. Arthur Self commanding, departs with more than 400 travelers. An unusually large number are from Eastern States.

Outstanding are Capt. John D. Fredericks, Los Angeles attorney and former Congressman, and Daniel Willard, president of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, chairman of the War Industries Board, and of the advisory commission of the Council of National Defense during the war. He is accompanied by Mrs. Willard and by F. C. Batchelder, senior vice-president of the B. and O., and Mrs. Batchelder.

Others are Albert R. Pfeltz, assistant general manager of the American Can Company, Montclair, N. J.; John J. Schumacher, president of Southwestern University; C. E. Field, manager of the National Lead Company, Chicago, and bride; Hugh Chalmers, Detroit capitalist; Franklin W. Hemingway, Kansas City aviator, and Harry Lake, captain of police, Honolulu.

The liner is carrying a San Diego plane for the navy base at Pearl Harbor, and the largest number of automobiles ever dispatched to Hawaiian dealers from here. Building materials and foodstuffs comprise most of the general cargo.

The Lassco cabin liner Calawaii is due from Hawaii at 8:30 a.m. today, with several score passengers and freight. She will dock about 10 o'clock.

A new rudder which increases the speed of his ship three knots an hour is claimed by Capt. J. Tanaka, who brought in the Mitsui freight steamer Ibukisan Maru from Yokohama via San Francisco yesterday. It is the flaring Otze rudder, which eliminates the drag, is manufactured in Germany, and now is on 200 ships. Capt. Tanaka said it has increased his speed from nine an a half and ten knots to twelve and a half to thirteen knots, saving him more than two days in crossing the Pacific. His ship discharged 1300 tons of copra meal, porcelain ware and general cargo and sailed last night for the North Pacific.

The old schooner Mindanao is expected to spread her canvas and sail Monday for Cape San Lucas, where she will serve as a tender barge, being towed back with tuna now beginning to run. She will ply for the Van Camp Sea Food Company. Capt. George Fawcett owns and commands her.

Head winds have set back the scheduled arrival of the McCormick steamer West Notus from South America, and the ship arrived last night too late to pass quarantine. She will reach her dock early this morning, with several passengers and cargo of coffee, canned meat and fertilizer.

Los Angeles offerings continue heavy to the Orient, the American-Hawaiian Line dispatching the steamer Golden Wall today with 3500 tons of local products for South China. Most of it is cased kerosene and gasoline. The line's intercoastal steamer Mexican was in yesterday to drop 1800 tons of North Atlantic products and the American will sail east today after lifting 2000 tons.

Dollar liner President Carfield continued on her cruise around the world yesterday, sailing for San Francisco after embarking fifteen passengers and loading 1200 tons of freight. Among the travelers are Mrs. Emma Lyons and Miss Oleta Wilson, who will make the globe circuit, and Dr. and Mrs. L. Heimburger and four children, bound for Shanghai.

A. W. Smith, former district freight agent for the Luckenbach Line at San Francisco, has been promoted to assistant general freight agent at Los Angeles, effective the 16th inst. Three Luckenbach ships in yesterday were the Julia, loading for the Gulf; Paul L. to drop 2800 tons of Atlantic cargo, and the K. I. Luckenbach, loading for the Atlantic.

News of Ships and Sailings at Pacific Ports

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Another famous Pacific Coast vessel, the former Pacific Mail steamer City of Sydney, now a six-masted barkentine, was pulled off the mud flats of San Francisco Bay today, to make ready for a final voyage to Japan, where she will be scrapped. The vessel, which was built at Chester, Pa., in 1875, will leave here in three weeks for Puget Sound, where she will load a cargo of lumber for Japan. A Japanese master and crew, now on their way here from Japan, will take the vessel out of this port.

With more than 500 passengers, the Panama-Pacific liner Virginia, will sail from here tomorrow on her second voyage eastbound.

Hugh Gallagher, assistant operating manager of the Matson Navigation Company, today was elected president of the Waterfront Employers' Union for the coming year. Thomas G. Plant, operating manager of the American-Hawaiian Company, was named first vice-president.

SEATTLE, Feb. 8.—On her first long trip since her arrival here last December the new Coast Guard cutter Chelan will leave here early tomorrow to the point off Dutch Harbor, Alaska, where the freighter Alloway was reported in distress today.

While late reports tonight said the Alloway was in no danger and was proceeding under her own power to Dutch Harbor, the Chelan will make the run as a trial trip and to be on hand in case new trouble develops on the Alloway. Should the Alloway reach Dutch Harbor before the Chelan, Capt. John G. Berry, commandant of the northwestern division, said the Chelan would be recalled. Seattle is about 2000 miles from Dutch Harbor.

TACOMA, Feb. 8.—The Sound steamer Sentinel and the ferry boat Willochet crossed in the narrows this morning in a heavy fog. The Sentinel struck the ferry just off her port bow and stove in her bow and stem. The ferry boat was only slightly damaged, and both vessels were able to proceed without aid.

A full cargo of lumber for Philadelphia is being loaded by the American Star, which arrived late yesterday.

Bach Aircraft Company, Inc., which recently reincorporated under the laws of Delaware with a capitalization of 1,000,000 shares of common stock of no par value, will file application with the California Corporation Commissioner for permission to issue 300,000 shares of stock, according to an announcement yesterday by Carl Faucett, secretary-treasurer. It is understood that the company will shortly make application to list its stock on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange.

Organized in September, 1927, to take over a partnership, the company, a closed corporation, formerly was incorporated under California laws with a capital stock of 500,000. It moved its plant several weeks ago from Santa Monica to a nine-acre tract at the Los Angeles Metropolitan Airport and this week completed its first ship in the new factory.

The factory employs ninety persons and has a production capacity at present of three ships a month. It has standing contracts with the West Coast Transport Company and the Pickwick Airways, and its 1929 production schedule calls for thirty-six ten-passenger ships of which the total valuation will be $1,250,000, according to officials.

Additions to the present two units of the factory are planned, including an assembly room and a mill building where the company proposes to dry kiln its own lumber and mill it. Total assets are listed at approximately $350,000.

WOOL MART DEMAND AT LOW LEVEL

BOSTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—The Commercial Bulletin will say tomorrow:

The wool market has been marking time again this week. Manufacturers evidently need only to cover small requirements for the time being and are proceeding with utmost caution. In consequence of this fact and the easing tendency in prices abroad, as well as the disturbing influence of the advance in discount rates by the Bank of England and the warning against speculation by the Federal Reserve Bank of this country, there has been every disposition to go slow. There has been also a disposition to gauge the probable effect of the proposed tariff changes on which hearings have been held this week in Washington.

Foreign markets are all distinctly easier and more especially on the finer wools.

The goods markets have revealed no definite trend in goods demand as yet.

Mohair is quiet and rather inclined to be easier, especially on foreign descriptions.

The rail and water shipments of wool from Boston from January 1, 1929, to February 7, 1929, inclusive, were 20,265,000 pounds against 28,625,000 pounds for the same period last year. The receipts from January 1, 1929, to February 7, 1929, inclusive, were 22,760,600 pounds against 28,664,700 pounds for the same period last year.

TRADERS GIVEN REST TODAY

Closing of Markets May Help to Check Scramble for Profits; Practice May Continue

BY EARLE E. CROWE

Suspension of trading today in the principal American stock markets may help to clear the atmosphere. A two days' rest should somewhat alleviate the fever for profits, and allow a little more time in which to digest the warning against speculation issued by the Federal Reserve Board.

Brokerage-house staffs and employees of the stock exchanges are, however, the direct beneficiaries of the decision to close the markets today. The strain on employees has been terrific, and brokerage-house and exchange officials are the first to admit that the public has not been given the best service possible.

RULES OVERTHROWN

The human element has always been the most perplexing factor in speculation. In this bull market, the headlong rush of the millions to make money in stocks has not only overthrown a good many of the maxims of speculation that were once considered the rules of experience, but has broken down the physical strength of those people who have to do with the handling of the public's business in the market.

Many brokers will confess themselves at a total loss to meet the situation adequately. They don't know what the public is going to do, and they do not know if they can handle any more of what the public does when it makes up its mind. It is this situation that has impelled the New York Stock Exchange to increase its membership from 1100 to 1375 members. There must be more members to handle the volume of business, or one phase of the human element will crack badly.

Most forecasts on the volume of trading point to 8,000,000 and 9,000,000-share days at frequent periods in this year. If the volume is to reach these levels, either gradually or in sudden bursts of activity, the human and the mechanical equipment must be of the highest order. Steps have already been taken to improve and speed up the mechanical end.

RANKS BOLSTERED

Most Wall street houses, as well as many on the Pacific Coast, started out in the new year with numerous additions to the lists of partners and executive personnel. As many as five new partners were admitted by some houses. Veteran employees, in some instances, were raised to the rank of partners, some of them having started not so long ago as office boys. Any number of different business fields were also invaded for executives to assist in bearing the burden of a tremendous volume of business.

At different times, movements have been started to close all exchanges on Saturdays in order to allow a respite from the daily strain. The decision to close this Saturday is taken in some quarters as a forerunner of a regular practice, especially in view of the possibility that it may help to check the impetuosity of the trading public.

Weber Fixture Sales Volume Gains in 1928

Volume of business of the Weber Showcase and Fixture Company, Inc., for the year ended December 31, 1928, will show an increase of from 15 to 20 per cent over the preceding year, according to preliminary estimates made by officials yesterday afternoon. Directors of the company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the preferred stock. The first preferred is listed on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange with 40,000 shares outstanding. The second preferred, of which 6700 shares are outstanding, is largely held by employees, and the 125,000 shares of common are closely held. All of the stock is of no par value. REPORTS OF FOOD SALES SHOW GAINS

Piggly Wiggly Western and Safeway Increases Scored in January

January sales of the Safeway Stores, Inc., chain grocery and meat market system, reached a total of $12,889,399, a new high record for a month's volume comparing with $6,903,237 in January, 1928, an increase of $5,986,162, or 86 per cent, it was announced yesterday.

Piggly Wiggly Western States Company, which was formally acquired by the Safeway chain on the 5th inst., yesterday reported sales for the entire year 1928 of $14,896,213. This compares with $13,519,667 in 1927 and represents an increase of 10 per cent.

Safeway sales for the entire year of 1928 totaled $104,615,824 as against $76,484,749 reported for 1927, a gain of $28,131,075, or about 32 per cent. January sales broke the record for a month's volume which was made December last with sales of $10,055,368, surpassing this figure by $2,834,031, or more than 28 per cent.

Officials of the Piggly Wiggly Company stated yesterday that the chain would continue to operate under its own name and with its same retail distribution system. A. B. De Nault, president, will continue as general manager. No other personnel changes are contemplated. The company operates almost exclusively in Southern California.

Cold Weather Continues to Retard Trade

With the entry of February some mitigation of the severe weather for which January was notable above other years, with the holding of numerous auto and style shows, and market weeks at wholesale and clearance sales retail, rather more is reported doing in distributive trade, this especially in the West and Northwest, than was recorded in the opening month. Bad roads still constitute a drawback in the north central and northwestern areas of the country, but there are signs of improvement both in wholesale and retail trade, which, even with the weather drawbacks mentioned heretofore, have been and continue to be better than a year ago.

Relatively best reports still come from the industries, more especially from the factory lines engaged in the production or further fabrication of iron, steel, copper and kindred lines; from the silk mills, which took a record quantity of raw material in January, and from refining branches of the petroleum trade, which latter made new records in 1928 on an output of crude oil little different from the record production of 1927.

Weekly bank clearings, $14,964,715,000, an increase of 42.5 per cent over the same week last year.

MILLS TREASURY MATERIAL

Assistant Secretary Viewed as Fit Timber for Job of Chief if Mellon Retires

BY JOHN F. SINCLAIR

[Copyright, 1929, by North American Newspaper Alliance]

NEW YORK, Feb. 8.—I was talking with Secretary Mellon at one time about the possibility of reducing the costs of government work. He referred to the relatively small salaries paid to his chief assistants in the Treasury, several of whom handle decision involving millions and tens of millions of dollars and receive less than $10,000 a year in compensation.

"One of my hardest jobs," Mr. Mellon said, "is in keeping my assistants, for frequently high positions in private business are offered them at many times the pay they receive from the government."

Ogden Mills, now assistant Secretary of the Treasury, who received the bulk of his father's $50,000,000 estate, will doubtless remain. He does not need a large salary and he has a natural bent for politics and business.

A close friend of his said recently that, aside from Mr. Hoover, he knew of no man in Washington who worked harder at his job, spent more hours at his desk, or wrote more of his own speeches, than Mr. Mills.

When Mr. Mellon retires Mr. Mills will be ready to step into his shoes—if President-elect Hoover so desires. For Ogden Mills is not only able and experienced, but rich and ambitious.

"I wish I knew—but I don't; it may turn out to be the most important decision interpreting trade practices under the antitrust laws which the United States Supreme Court has ever given," said the president of one of the most important chain line organizations in the United States, referring to the recent decision dealing with the question of price policy.

The facts are these: Two competing companies bought cans from the American Can Company. One was charged higher prices than the other, and was less able to compete. The weaker company brought suit, and won.

The Clayton Act of the Sherman antitrust laws prohibits discrimination in "price between different purchasers of commodities where the effect of such discrimination may be to substantially lessen or tend to create a monopoly in any line of commerce."

The question the Supreme Court was called upon to answer, "Does this mean what it says?" and the Supreme Court answered, "It certainly does."

Before this decision, it was assumed that the Clayton Act applied only to discriminations confined to the line of the vendor.

But there are exceptions. If the seller gives a large discount to one customer and not to another, when conditions are comparable, and this leads to a price war between sellers and some buyers are caught at a disadvantage in the price war, such a situation may be illegal under the new ruling.

But for the vast legal implications involved in this case, decided, by the way, by a unanimous court, no sales manager or chain-store operator has yet felt himself upon solid enough ground to be able to speak.

Nevertheless, it is an amazing pronouncement.

New York State industrially is slipping. To read every day of the large business activities in New York City one would draw the conclusion that New York industry was particularly active and growing, but such is not the case.

The industrial commission of New York has disclosed a very definite falling off of industry in New York, and some States have gained materially at the expense of New York.

A committee has been organized to work out plans for the calling of a State economic congress to see what should or can be done. On the committee are some well-known business and educational leaders: Willis Booth, John W. Gerard, Merwin K. Hart, M. W. Alexander, Chancellor E. E. Brown, Maxwell S. Wheeler and L. F. Loree, among others.

Says the industrial survey commission: "Industrial prosperity is not distributed evenly. The growth of consolidations and of chain stores is only one of the forces seriously affecting all but the largest industrial centers."

The conference will doubtless make a complete survey of economic conditions and current trends in the State, and suggest some plan to rehabilitate many lagging small-town industries, which have brought serious industrial and business problems to many of the smaller cities of the State.

A wise move!

Film Concern Profits Show Big Increase

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—December profits of Warner Brothers Pictures, Inc., aggregated $1,000,000 after all charges, according to interests close to the company, and prospects are the net income for the second quarter ending around March 1 will approximate $3,000,000. In the like quarter of last year, profits totaled $508,496.

Profits of $2,917,724 reported for the first quarter ended December 1, 1928, were greater than for any previous three months or full year. This was equal to $5.30 a share on 550,000 combined class "A" and common shares outstanding. The December 1 quarter did not include the equity in the Stanley company, or other recent acquisitions. In the corresponding first quarter of the previous fiscal year, net profit was only $102,687.

The material increase in earnings of Warner Brothers in the past quarter is said to reflect the increasing demand for the company's Vitaphone productions released during the period, which resulted in a large increase in the company's film rentals. The December quarter included the first three months of the current theatrical season, which started in September.

Support Enters Local Market to Check Further Downward Slump of Prices

Under the influence of the firmer tone manifested in the New York market prices on the Los Angeles Stock Exchange yesterday checked the downward trend exhibited the previous day and, in response to a widespread support, strengthened fractionally. Although many stocks were forced to still lower levels, the oil group, which led the activity, rallied slightly as a whole. The total volume of trading picked up consideraby.

Rio Grande Oil, transferred to the extent of 12,500 shares, rallied 7-8 to 36½. Union of California set a strong pace in the trading and closed up 1-4 to 49½. Richfield gained fractionally to 42 3-8 and Pacific Western, the same to 18 5-8. Barnsdall at 40½ and Standard of California at 66 1-4, were each down 1-4. Macmillan Petroleum lost 3-4 to 36 1-4. Union Oil rights slumped 17½ cents to 1.37½.

Bank shares were spotty. Security Trust & Savings fell off 5 points to 630 and Merchants' National 15 to 230. Transamerica Corporation recovered 2 points to 132½. Los Angeles-First National was unchanged at 136 while California Bank slumped 2 points to 130.

Emsco Derrick continued to trade briskly in the industrial list and dropped off 1 1-8 points to 37 1-4. Hydraulic Brake sagged another 3-4 to 51 1-4. Byron Jackson eased fractionally to 77 7-8. Southern California Edison at 60 was off 1 1-8 points. Pacific Lighting fell 3-4 lower to 73.

Famine Report Brings Upturn in Wheat Pit

CHICAGO, Feb. 8. (Exclusive)—Famine reports from parts of China, Bessarabia and South Africa, with rationing of bread in some sections of Russia, outweighed all other factors in the wheat market today and resulted in a higher level of values. The May delivery moved up 1c early to a high of 1.28⅝. Selling against offers checked the advance, and toward the last there was selling of futures by some of the early buyers, due to the weakness in corn. The finish was unchanged to ⅛c higher, with March 1.24, May 1.27⅛ and July 1.29@1.29⅛. Corn was sold freely on an early bulge and declined 1½@1¾c from the high, with the close ⅝@⅞c lower, March being 95⅝ and May 98⅝@98¾. Oats were unchanged to ⅛c lower, with March 52 and May 52⅝, while rye was ¼@½c lower, March being 1.10¼ and May 1.09½.

The reports of a scarcity of food in parts of Europe and Asia, combined with the continued unfavorable weather abroad and a better demand for cash grain from the continent and the United Kingdom were the dominating factors in the market. Liverpool closed ⅜@½d higher, ignoring the decline in North America on Thursday. Buenos Aires was up ½@⅝c, while Winnipeg was ⅛c higher to ⅛c lower. Foreign markets apparently are little affected by the action of the Chicago market, and Liverpool May has had a range of only 9c since last October. While supplies of wheat in sight in exporting countries are about the largest known, this factor has been offset by the abnormally large taking by non-European countries, and exports to the latter during the first twenty-eight weeks of the crop year are almost as large as they were for the entire 1927-28 season.

Cold weather continues in the American Southwest, but sections that have been complaining of a lack of snow covering of late, have received more or less moisture in the last forty-eight hours, as much as six inches of snow falling in Western Kansas. Apprehension of crop damage continues to be expressed, because of the ice which has formed over part of the area, especially east of the Mississippi River. Export sales at the seaboard aggregated 200,000 to 300,000 bushels. The Southwest offered No. 2 hard winter to come here at a price equal of 2½c under Chicago May, but no purchases were reported.

Local bulls were on the buying side of corn, but outside buying orders failed to appear, and later there was liquidation by tired longs and also pressure from some of the early buyers and the market reacted sharply. An easier tone in the cash market had some effect, and more than offset the advance of ½c in the basis for cash grain at the Gulf. The local spot basis was steady to 1c lower, with country offerings to arrive small, but receipts at terminal markets are fairly liberal, and about normal for this season. Heavy feeding is reported in Europe, and it is felt that further purchases of American grain will be made in the immediate future, especially if the market has a good setback. Buenos Aires May closed unchanged, and Rosario ½c lower.

The seaboard was after cash oats here toward the close, with bids within a fraction of a working basis. Locals sold futures in sympathy with the break in corn and the finish was at the inside figures of the day. Trade in rye was limited and the market easier with other grains.

Good buying of lard by commission houses, attributed to eastern and foreign traders, took the offerings by packers and made a close at net gains of 12½c on May and 17½@20c on other months.

Bellies closed 12½@15c higher on May and July, while ribs were 2½@10c higher, July leading.

BANDINI—COMMODORE
It seems but a short time since we were selling Bandini around 20 cents per share, and Commodore around 10 cents per share. Recently these issues have changed hands at $12.00 and $2.50, respectively. There is often Big Money in Little Stocks, and if you own them outright and have the certificates, you are not disturbed by fluctuations in price and calls for margin.
WRIGHT CREEK MINES
Today we recommend Wright Creek Mines as a most promising "Little Stock." Listed on the Los Angeles Curb and San Francisco Mining Exchanges. We look for much higher prices for Wright Creek when the first smelter returns are received shortly. The new mill is running steadily and concentrates are accumulating. Buy Wright Creek today. Send for our reports.

STOCK VALUES RENEW SLUMP

comotive, Ingersoll Rand, Otis Elevator and Safeway Stores lost 10 points, and rallied 5 from the bottom.

United States Steel sold down 4 points at one time, but closed only about 1½ points off. General Motors sold off about 3 points, then cut its loss in half. Chrysler, Goodyear, Commercial Solvents, Montgomery Ward, Simmons, Electric Auto Lite and Commercial Investment Trust were among issues losing 4 to 5 points.

Among the few strong points was Union Tank Car, which jumped 6 points to a new top in response to good railway equipment orders, and Atchison, which rose more than 3 points. International Combustion Engineering rose nearly 7 points to a new top, but lost much of its gain.

The commodity markets were generally steady, wheat and corn were firm in response to good export movements, and cotton easily absorbed liquidation by stock exchange houses.

Foreign exchanges were again strong in response to the higher rediscount rate at London. Sterling and the Canadian dollar both rose to new 1929 highs. The peseta was again weak, losing about 1-6 of a cent.

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (AP)—Bank of America of California led the bank stocks to higher prices on the San Francisco Curb Exchange today. Opening at 172, off ½ point from the previous close, it rose to 174 at the close. Bank of America followed with a small share volume to close at 194, with no gain. Marine Bank was steady at 37¼.

Italo American Petroleum lived up to its reputation by selling steadily at 1.37½, and the preferred at 71 cents, off 1 cent in the preferred stock and no change in the common.

Lockheed Aircraft led the airplane stocks in losses by closing at 15, off 1 point. Fokker closed off ½ at 24½, after reaching 24½ as low. Maddux was inactive, with 12½ bid, offered at 12.

Pacific American gained fractionally to 35. Columbia Steel continued its days of inaction at 12, and Marchant closed at 30⅝, a new low for the $10 par stock.

As a whole the market today, although interesting, was spotted and inanimated.

DRIED FRUITS

NEW YORK CURB STOCKS

NEW YORK, Feb. 8. (AP)—Further unsettlement developed in today's curb market as a result of the flurry in call money rates and the agitation for a congressional investigation of the brokers' loan situation. Net declines of 1 to 13 points were distributed over a broad list but several of the public utility and aviation shares displayed conspicuous strength.

Electric Bond and Share scored an extreme gain of 31 points by touching 254 and then dropped back to 245, with buying influenced by merger reports. American Super Power issues, Buffalo, Niagara and Eastern, Arizona Power, and Electric Investors also recorded substantial gains.

In the aviation group, Curtiss Air and Express and Fairchild moved into new high ground, and Keystone and Universal recorded moderate gains. Popularity of the new models shown at the New York Airplane Exhibit was ascribed as a factor in the day's buying movement.

Goldman Sachs Trading Corporation common changed hands in large volume but showed little change on the day. Trading was inaugurated in the new stock to be issued after the declaration of the 100 per cent stock dividend, the price ranging from 111⅞ to 112⅞. Mining shares failed to make much response to the further advance in red metal prices.

Oils were inclined to heaviness. Indiana Pipe Line broke 5 points to a new low for the year, Gulf Oil of Pennsylvania dropped 2⅞, and Standard Oil of Kentucky and International Petroleum a point each. Standard Oil of Indiana closed fractionally lower at 92⅞ after moving within a range of 2 points.

Grigsby Grunow broke 13 points to 150 on reports that the stock had been heavily sold in Chicago yesterday. American Cyanamid B fell back 2 points on the failure of the company to receive approval for the proposed leasing of Muscle Shoals. Bristol Myers, Bullard, Ford of Canada, National Bancservice, National Stores preferred, Niles-Bement-Pond and Sparks Withington were among the many issues to yield 2 points or more.

The closing price is omitted when same as the low, and both low and close when same as the high.

SAN FRANCISCO

SAN FRANCISCO, Feb. 8. (AP)—In the face of unsettled market conditions in the East, the San Francisco stock market remained generally satisfactory today.

The majority of stocks in the industrial section were strong and most of them were able to close the session at fair advances over the opening prices.

The Langendorf issues, which have been dormant lately, showed activity, the A recovering to a close of 30¼ after a momentary sinking spell to 28 from an opening of 28, and the B attaining a close of 27½ from an opening of 25.

Atlas Diesel and Golden State Milk each were a point better off at 57¼ and 35½ respectively. Claude Neon gained to 59 from 55, later softening to 57 at the close.

Fractional advances were made by Caterpillar, Paraffine, Pacific American, Claude Neon Lights, Columbia Steel, American Toll Bridge and Sperry Flour.

Magnavox was noticeably weak all day, opening at 7½ and closing at 7¾. Leslie Salt dropped 2 to 40 on a light turnover.

The banks showed strength. TransAmerica opened at 131 and closed at 132¼ while Bank of America closed up 2 at 174.

RUPTURE
EXPERT HERE

F. H. Seeley of Chicago and Philadelphia, nationally famous expert, will himself personally be at the Alexandria Hotel, and will remain in Los Angeles this Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday, from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. daily, and Monday, Wednesday and Friday evenings, 7:30 till 9. Mr. Seeley says:

"The Spermatic Shield will not only retain any case of rupture perfectly, but contract the opening in 10 days on the average case. Being a vast advancement over all former methods—exemplifying instantaneous effects immediately appreciable and withstanding any strain or position, no matter the size or location. Large or difficult cases, or incisional ruptures (following operations,) specially solicited. This instrument received the only award in England and in Spain, producing results without surgery, injections, medical treatments or prescriptions, with distinguished personal patrons of all nations." "His method has always been most satisfactory."—Late Dr. Edward Shippen, former Medical Director, U. S. Navy.

This instrument is the same as supplied to Surg. Genls. Bureau, U. S. Naval Hospital.—Penn. R. R., Etc., Etc.

Will be glad to demonstrate without charge or fit them if desired. "If you want done what the rest cannot do. — See Seeley."

N. B.—Every statement in this notice has been verified before the Federal and State Courts.—F. H. SEELEY.

FRAUD WARNING—Beware of local impostors falsely claiming to be my "agents," or any other connection with me or my establishment, as same is fraudulent and their attempted substitution is both harmful and valueless. To those so imposed upon, I will extend special consideration and assistance.

Lindbergh Goes Fishing Between His Mail Trips

PANAMA CITY (Panama) Feb. 8. (AP)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh today spent a quiet afternoon with aviators from France Field in fishing off Cristobal. He landed at noon from the airplane carrier Saratoga from which he had watched fleet maneuvers since his arrival in the Canal Zone with the first mail flown from the United States.

Lindbergh apparently is not to make at this time the flight to Colombia, for which the government of that country granted him permission.

He is prepared to fly the amphibian mail plane north on Sunday, following the same route as that of his southward flight.

There was much activity in Canal Zone postal circles today because of the announcement that he again will carry mails on the return trip. The Panama government put special stamps on sale this morning and they were purchased eagerly.

Veterans' Units Fusion Favored

WASHINGTON, Feb. 8. (AP)—Consolidation of governmental veterans' activities in one bureau, but not under the direction of the existing Veterans' Bureau, was advocated today by former Senator Rice Means of Colorado, president of the company that publishes the Stars and Stripes, at a hearing before the House Committee on Expenditures.

He opposed the Johnson bill, which would give the Veterans' Bureau control of the Bureau of Pensions and the national soldiers' homes, contending it "would cause a disturbance in the ranks of veterans of all wars."

Disabled Ship's Weak Radio Call Tells of Plight

SEATTLE, Feb. 8. (AP)—A weak radio message for assistance today sent the Koki Maru racing in the North Pacific to the aid of the freighter Alloway, which was drifting helplessly with disabled engines in a heavy southwest gale. The freighter, which is believed to have been in a distressed condition for several days, carries a crew of thirty-four Seattle men. Two other ships were in the vicinity of the Alloway and reported standing by. Her approximate position is believed to be about 300 miles southeast of Dutch Harbor, Alaska.

The freighter Montauk reported she had learned the Alloway is out of fresh water and nearly out of food. She left Seattle under command of Capt. H. Throckmorton on January 29, last. The vessel is to be scrapped when she reaches Japan.

It is expected the Alloway will be towed to Dutch Harbor for repairs and restocking. The freighter Haynie, another former Shipping Board freighter, is at Dutch Harbor after being disabled in a similar storm while bound for the scrap yards in Japan.

Mrs. Whitehead Awarded Verdict

ATLANTA, Feb. 8. (AP)—Mrs. Julia Murphy Whitehead was awarded a verdict today in her divorce suit against C. P. Whitehead, Atlanta, whom she charged with habitual intoxication.

The suit was uncontested, Whitehead being reported to the court as in Havana, where he recently figured in the news when he charged that Miss Frances Porter, New York dancer, had stuck pins in him and thrown her shoe at him while a guest aboard his yacht.

Miss Porter later was landed at Key West by the yacht and soon afterward filed suit against Whitehead for $250,000, charging breach of promise and ruin of her theatrical career.

Mrs. Whitehead said they were married in 1922 and that she left him in 1927 because of his habitual drinking.

Los Filipinos se Proponen Luchar Contra el Arancel

MANILA, Febrero 8.—Hoy fue aprobada en la cámara de la legislatura filipina una moción que dispone el nombramiento de una comisión que vaya a Washington a prestar ayuda a los comisionados filipinos residentes en su lucha contra la proyectada legislación aduanal, por la que se trata de gravar con derechos varios productos de estas islas.

Es un secreto público que uno de los fines extraoficiales de dicha comisión es gestionar que venga a las Filipinas, como sucesor del gobernador general saliente, Henry L. Stimson, un funcionario que sea del agrado de los filipinos.

El citado caballero tiene pensado salir de aquí para Washington, D. C., el 23 del actual, a bordo del vapor "Presidente Pierce", que ha de llegar a San Francisco para el 20 de Marzo próximo.

CIUDAD DE MEJICO, Febrero 8. Un mensaje a El Universal, procedente de Querétaro, capital del Estado de igual nombre, dice que la cabeza de Casimiro Becerra, famoso cabecilla rebelde, ha sido exhibida en un poste en el centro de la ciudad. Agrega el reporte que el líder insurrecto, con dieciocho de sus partidarios, fue muerto en combate con las tropas federales.

Fannie Brice se Casa en Terceras Nupcias

NUEVA YORK, Febrero 8.—Fannie Brice, la artista que canta con emocoón "My Man" y otras canciones, se ha casado hoy con el hombre que compuso "There's a Rainbow 'Round My Shoulder" ("Llevo un Arco Iris en los Hombros") y "Will You Love Me in December as You Do in May?" ("¿Me Amarás en Diciembre Como me Amas en Mayo?")

Llámase el novio Billie Rose. En la ceremonia, que se efectuó en el Palacio Municipal, ofició el alcalde Walker. Es este el tercer matrimonio de la que hoy se llama Mrs. Rose. Su segundo marido fue Nicky Arnstein.

Estrangulador que Purga su Crimen en el Cadalso

PENAL DE FOLSOM, Febrero 8.—Rezando en voz alta y andando sin ayuda, Harrison Randolph, de 24 años, se dirigió tranquilamente al cadalso, donde fue ajusticiado a las 10 de la mañana de hoy.

Hoy hizo Randolph su primera profesión pública de religión, pues iba acompañado durante su marcha hacia la muerte por el Padre M. M. Hogan, de la iglesia católica de Folsom. No hizo declaración alguna de última hora, sino que mantuvo el más completo silencio en lo relativo a su crimen.

Fue de un frío crueldad el asesinato que hoy ha expiado Randolph. Tras haber sido amparado por la señora Pearl Hunnicutt, de Bakersfield, quien lo ocupó en algunos pequeños trabajos, y luego le dio de comer, mató a su bienhechora estrangulándola. Poco después fue detenido en Fresno, y confesó su crimen. Desde los 16 años había estado Randolph casi siempre preso en alguna institución penal.

A veces la licencia matrimonial es más importante que el matrimonio mismo. Si no, que lo diga el licenciado don Pedro Rendón, de Ensenada, quien se casó hace doce años en Veracruz, aunque sin recibir certificado alguno del acto, pues éste se verificó en la iglesia. De allí que la pareja se haya visto varias veces en aprietos para cruzar la frontera hacia este país.

El señor Rendón, hábil jurisperito, quiso legalizar su situación y decidió casarse de nuevo. Ante las autoridades mejicanas no pudo hacerlo, pues éstas se contentaron con sonreír y decirle que era ilegal el procedimiento. El juez superior Sproul, de esta ciudad, no participa de los escrúpulos de sus colegas de la Baja California, ni está tan apegado al trámite como ellos; por lo cual, se concretó a exigir a la pareja Rendón la licencia correspondiente para poder casarlos.

La boda se efectuó, y el señor y la señora Rendón están hoy casados dos veces, y tienen un certificado que da fe de la segunda ceremonia, y hace prueba plena ante los inspectores de inmigración del Tío Samuel.

Los noticieros interrogaron al señor Rendón si había tenido alguna aventura romántica en su vida de novio o de casado. El marido, que fue juez de primera instancia en la Baja California, y hoy representa importantes intereses petroleros, plegó la frente, pero nada le vino a la memoria digno de mención.

"¡Te hablan de episodios románticos!" intervino la señora Rendón, hablando el inglés con delicioso acento, y sonriendo aún más deliciosamente. "Cuéntales de aquella vez en que me sacaste del mar en Veracruz, y yo te castigué casándome contigo—por primera vez!"

Nuptial Certificate to be Their Valentine

Marriage license bureau chief, Rosamond Rice, poses with Ben Bard and Ruth Roland.

"MY HEART is yours, and yours is mine,
So let me be your Valentine."

Whether this ancient bit of lovers' verse aided the romance of Ben Bard and Ruth Roland, members of the film colony, probably never will be known.

It is a fact, however, that they are to be married on St. Valentine's Day, next Thursday, at the Beverly-Wilshire Hotel. Rev. James Leishman, pastor of the First Presbyterian Church at Pasadena, will perform the ceremony, with Mrs. Frank Vincent as matron of honor, and Robert Z. Leonard, film director, best man.

Miss Roland, who long has been known as a successful real-estate operator following her virtual retirement from the films, appeared at the Courthouse yesterday to get her license. She was accompanied, as the law provides, by her intended husband, Mr. Bard, who has gained fame both in vaudeville and in the films.

Bard said he is 35 years of age, and lives at 1466 North Sweetzer street. Miss Roland gave her age as 32 and her residence as 409 North Las Palmas. Both have been married and divorced.

THREE MORE ON TRAFFIC DEATH LIST

Crashes Add Two to Toll and Victim in Mishap of Last Month Succumbs

Deaths in motor traffic yesterday maintained the high rate of preceding days of this week in the Los Angeles area. Jerry Duarte, 26 years of age, of Monrovia, died in the General Hospital yesterday several hours after he had been injured in an automobile smash in front of 4101 Alhambra Road. He was driving alone when his car collided with one driven by Miss Carrie Davis of 525 Date street, Monrovia. She was not injured. The body was sent to the morgue.

Frank J. Berveiler of 1035 West Twenty-third street, died yesterday in the California Lutheran Hospital of injuries received in an auto collision January 31, last, at the intersection of Harvard and Manchester Boulevards.

L. V. Shearer's Funeral Rites Set for Today

Funeral services for Leon V. Shearer of 1346 La Solana Drive, Altadena, will be conducted at 3:30 p.m. today at Reynolds & Eberle chapel. The body will be placed in Mountain View Mausoleum. Mr. Shearer was 54 years of age. He was born in Towanda, Pa.

He was construction superintendent on the Lehigh Valley Railroad and a member of the United States Secret Service during the Spanish-American War. Later he was active in the mining business throughout Utah and Colorado, with offices in Salt Lake City, Chicago and New York. He had resided in California for the last nine years, having business headquarters in Los Angeles.

Mr. Shearer was a member of the Chamber of Mines and Oil of Los Angeles, Los Angeles Athletic Club and Elks' Lodge, No. 672, of Pasadena. He leaves his widow and two daughters, Opal d'Elsa Sale of Altadena, and Mrs. Amy Reames of Denver, and a sister, Mrs. Clara Marsh of Waverly, N. Y.

Final Tribute Paid McAdam

Tributes by friends were paid yesterday to the memory of George McAdam of 1542 North Ogden Drive, who was buried Thursday in Forest-lawn Memorial Park. He had lived in Hollywood ten years.

He was born in Ursa, Ill., July 8, 1862; was County Treasurer of Adams county, Ill., and later was in the grain-elevator business at Quincy. He leaves his widow and two sons, William and George McAdam, and a brother who lives in Quincy, Ill.

MOTOR SALON OPENS TODAY

In the field of the high-priced motor car uniformity is said to be quite passe and individuality and distinctiveness rule instead. These characteristics are attained largely through the artistic treatment of the coachwork, as to line and contour, coloring and upholstery, and in the selection of the essential accouterments. In consequence those who have an interest in motor cars de luxe are awaiting the opening of the annual Biltmore Salon this afternoon when a score of American and European custom coachbuilders formally will present their latest creations.

One of the interesting features to be disclosed by this salon will be the increased passenger comfort. It formerly was the practice to design a beautiful body and then arrange the seating within it. Now this idea has been reversed and the seating is considered first and the body designed around the seats. The result is a much higher degree of riding comfort. When low bodies were first desired the head room was sacrificed. Now the chassis are built to provide this feature with ample head room. Thus design and wheelbase lengths, as well as wheels, fenders, running boards, radiators, hoods, cowls, bumpers and lamps, all come within the province of the carrossier in his work of combining beauty and comfort, style and convenience.

There are other new features contributing to greater passenger comfort. Narrow pillars and wide windows give increased vision. Various ventilating devices have been developed. Adjustable seats and form-fitting seats and seat backs are generally adopted. Arm rests and folding arm rest divisions for the rear seat, for use when occupied by one or two passengers, are universal in new custom coachwork. A feature is stuffing these arm rests with sponge rubber. Auxiliary seats have been improved, many having adjustable backs.

The keynotes of this salon will be lines of distinctive smartness, color schemes of richness and dignified

GAS TEST CASE MAY BE FILED

Dist.-Atty. Fitts Considers Bringing Suit

Independent Dealers Plan Session Monday

Probability that a test case will be made by Dist.-Atty. Fitts under the Cartwright Act to determine the legality of gasoline price cutting in the State was announced yesterday by H. R. West, president of the Independent Super Service Association.

West declared that Dist.-Atty. Fitts has promised the independent dealers a chance to challenge price cutting if enough evidence can be produced by the association to prosecute such a case.

Simultaneously West announced that 80 per cent of the local gasoline stations have agreed to quote a price of 18½ cents a gallon on gasoline.

PRICE RANGE

Three of the major oil companies yesterday raised their prices 1 cent a gallon on ethyl gasoline, making the difference between white and ethyl gasoline prices 3 cents.

West's assertion that John H. Amen, a special worker for the United States Department of Justice, is investigating on behalf of the department an asserted California gasoline combination, was said yesterday by the department to be premature, according to a Washington report.

MEETING PLANNED

Complaints have been received by the department concerning an asserted agreement between certain California companies, the eastern report declared, but it had not been determined whether there is basis for such charges or whether the department would have jurisdiction.

An open meeting at which the independents expect to discuss local conditions is scheduled under auspices of the independent association next Monday evening at 845 South Figueroa street.

CITY SEEKS GATHERING OF LEGION

Auxiliary County Council Told of Efforts to Win National Convention

Plans to make Los Angeles host city to thousands of members of the American Legion are being made by the Chamber of Commerce, according to Harry H. Main, manager of the convention department of the chamber, who was cheered yesterday when he told 400 members of the County Council of the American Legion auxiliary that efforts are being made to obtain the American Legion national convention in 1930.

The luncheon at the Alexandria was in honor of Mrs. Alice J. Gill, president of the American Legion auxiliary of the department of California, and was attended by officials of nearly every county auxiliary in the State. Speakers included Mrs. Ethel Flinn, department secretary and treasurer; Phil Dodson, national executive committeeman of the Legion for California; Judge Georgia Bullock, Frank Belgrano, department commander, and John R. Quinn, chairman of the Veterans' Welfare Board of California.

Mr. Quinn said the $30,000,000 voted by the people for veterans' welfare work has been wisely spent and predicted the passage of the new bill for more funds for the work.

BABY STAR'S JOB CLINCHED

Anita Page

The life of a presiding judge of the Superior Court is a tough life. He has to keep the peace among forty-five or forty-six other judges, all the newspaper reporters at the Courthouse, and he has to sign his name thousands and thousands of times a year.

But then he approves contracts for baby stars.

Life has its little compensations, after all.

Judge Keetch, meet Miss Anita Page.

Pleased to meet you, Miss Page.

Your Honor, Miss Page is not yet of age, and we would like to have you fix up her movie contract.

With pleasure, gentlemen, what are the terms?

Four hundred dollars a week the first year, $600 the second year, $1000 the third year and $1500 the fourth year. Pretty nice for the young lady, don't you think?

Yes, indeed, where is the judge's dotted line?

And he signed. Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer officials signed, and Miss Page signed. According to the terms of the contract, Miss Page, whose real name is Anita Pomares, may be used in the talkies, but if her voice isn't just right a vocal double may be employed to talk for her.

STAGE COUPLE MARRIED ANEW

Ten Years' Separation Comes to End

Mr. and Mrs. Caro G. Miller and Rev. Neal Dodd

CULMINATING a separation of ten years, Mrs. Ado V. Miller, mother of Marilyn Miller, New York musical-comedy star, and her former husband, Caro G. Miller, were remarried yesterday by Rev. Neal Dodd at the Little Church Around the Corner in Hollywood. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Neal Dodd at 3 p.m.

The wedding was informal and was attended by Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Maguire and Mr. and Mrs. Robert M. Franckins, friends of the couple. It was stated they do not plan a second honeymoon. They have taken an apartment in Hollywood.

Mrs. Miller arrived here last Saturday when plans for the wedding were made. Miller was formerly a well-known vaudeville player. As a wedding gift Miss Miller sent them from the East an expensive automobile.

Federal Jury Names Sixteen in Indictments

Sixteen persons were indicted in twelve indictments returned yesterday by the Federal grand jury. The charges are mostly for violations of the National Tariff Act and the Dyer Act.

Christine Fredericks, Lorenzo Ponce, Roy Pina and Frederic Echeveria were accused of violating the Immigration Act in an attempt to smuggle seven alien Chinese across the border from Mexicali. Grover J. Braden, a youth, was accused of abstracting a small amount of money from the funds of a local bank.

BEACH CASE PUT OFF

Hearing of protests against the ordinance establishing a setback on Ocean Front Walk between Fifty-first avenue and the Esplanade was postponed again yesterday by the City Council. The next hearing date was made March 8. The Playground and Recreation Commission wishes the establishment of this setback to assure the use of the beach by the general public.

CADILLAC COMPANY HEAD HERE

L. P. Fisher Declares Auto Industry Looks Forward to Best Year in History

The automobile industry confidently expects 1929 to be the best year in its history, according to L. P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car Company, a division of General Motors, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday.

"All General Motors divisions are running at 100 per cent capacity," Mr. Fisher said, "and expect to continue such production for the first half of the year. Beyond that no one can predict with certainty.

"Cadillac and LaSalle have had the best January in their history and February shipping records likewise are expected to break all records."

A brother of the Cadillac president, F. J. Fisher, accompanied by his wife, is at the Ambassador, recuperating from a recent illness.

Pneumonia caused her death within fifteen hours. Funeral services will be conducted today at 2 p.m. in Hollywood Cemetery.

HARMONY URGED AT ROADS MEET

Bill to Add Secondary State Highways Supported

Legislators and Southland Representatives Confer

Merriam Argues for Route Change to Pomona

Unanimity of thought and purpose on the Southern California highway program was exemplified yesterday in a road conference attended by legislators, supervisors, and members of chambers of commerce and highway organizations conducted at the Automobile Club of Southern California.

The principal issue under discussion was the bill introduced in the Legislature by Senator Edwards of Orange county and Assemblyman Kline of Riverside adding 615 miles to the secondary State highways in the southern counties. This bill, if adopted, will increase the southern mileage of secondary highways from its present figure of 525 miles. The northern counties now have 1771 miles in the secondary system.

MERRIAM EXPLAINS

The bill as introduced carried the names of all southern Senators with the exception of Frank F. Merriam of Long Beach. He explained his reasons yesterday at the conference. The measure is the result of years of study by club officials and engineers, co-operating with local officials and organizations and the Southern Regional Council of the California Development Association.

The delegates, numbering about 100, were welcomed by Horace G. Miller, president of the club. Ivan Kelso, chief counsel for the club, presided. Henry W. Keller, chairman of the club's roads and highways committee, began the discussion. Senator Edwards then explained the bill and E. E. East, chief engineer of the club, discussed in detail each of the fifteen projects proposed to be added to the secondary system.

LABOR CAMP SUGGESTED

He stated that it means practically that the State will take over the maintenance of the county roads. There is, however, some construction work to be done. The Maricopa-Ventura link of 115 miles must be constructed, he stated, and this will be a good location for a convict labor camp.

When asked what chance the bill has of carrying, it being a matter of common knowledge that political control in the Legislature is vested in the north, Mr. Kelso replied that he believes if Southern California shows a united front the Governor will lend his influence toward its adoption, despite the fact that in his inaugural address he appealed for no additions to the State highway system.

Lieut.-Gov. Carnahan was present and stated that in his opinion the south is entitled to more highways in the State system. He called on the conference, however, to consider cautiously the best means of acquiring these roads without forcing a fight on the floor at Sacramento.

MERRIAM DISPUTES ROUTE

Senator Merriam's contention is that another route be chosen from Los Angeles to Pomona. He said sentiment in Pomona favors another road over the Valley Boulevard, and two Pomona representatives supported him. Engineers and others explained to him that if the State takes over the Valley Boulevard the county can then allocate more money to the other route.

The discussion was continued at dinner served in the club's dining room. Legislators and Supervisors from every Southern county except the far desert rose to state their support of the present measure.

Mr. Keller digressed from highway problems a few moments to urge the legislators not to raise the limit on game birds in the interest of preserving wild life in California.

REQUESTS TO BE GRANTED

Many requested numbers are featured on the one hundred and forty-third vesper recital of Sibley G. Pease, residing organist of the Elks' Temple, opposite Westlake Park, which will be given tomorrow afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

BACHELORS' BALL GORGEOUS

The Sala de Oro, new ballroom of the Biltmore, was the setting last evening of one of the most gorgeous of the season's affairs when the Bachelors entertained with their fifty-seventh annual Mardi Gras ball, this being the last noted event before Lent.

Poinsettias and foliage predominated in the decorations and small vases of the blossoms formed the centerpieces of the tables, while wall pockets of greenery studded with gorgeous blooms were hung from the grills of the balcony.

Asked to assist as patronesses this year were Mrs. Allen C. Balch, Mrs. Walter Jarvis Barlow, Mrs. Ernest Albert Bryant, Mrs. James Calhoun Drake, Mrs. William May Garland, Mrs. Frank Silas Hicks, Mrs. Hugh Livingston Macneil, Mrs. Dean Mason, Mrs. Eugene O. McLaughlin, Mrs. John Barnes Miller, Mrs. Daniel Murphy, Mrs. Lee Allen Phillips, Mrs. Robert Irwin Rogers, Mrs. Joseph Francis Sartori, Mrs. Russell McDonnell Taylor and Mrs. William Lucas Valentine.

The Lancer

by Harry Carr

I HAVE it on the direct authority of a young lady writing for an evening paper that every bully is a coward.

That is a comforting doctrine; but don't try it on the bully.

In the World War they turned out the bullies and the gangsters; and, sad to say, most of them made good as soldiers.

In the old-fashioned novel the young gentleman with social position and a chivalrous heart always rushed in and knocked the ignorant ruffian kicking—he having learned the manly art of self-defense. In brutal modern conditions, the brutal ruffian has usually fought a few preliminaries in the ring and the chivalrous young gent is tenderly pushed into the ambulance—while the young lady gives three cheers for the winner.

TERRIBLE THREAT

If some of the native politicians push this glorious crusade too hard the islands might get their independence—which would be a sad day for the agitators to whom this perennial campaign is a good meal ticket.

SCHEME SONGS

Sometimes the stumbling fingers of a linotype operator make wiser remarks than the writer intended. As, for instance, in the dramatic department of an evening paper where the printer made "theme songs" of the movies into "scheme songs."

I fully expect to see the day when this custom extends itself to the cafes—with one delirious ditty which makes you forget that the beefsteak is tough; while another disguises the fact that the coffee never saw a coffee plantation.

HOME-MADE LAWSUITS

There never should be another criminal trial in California conducted as the Northcott murder trial was conducted.

The defendant rambled all over the map; used this court trial as a means of trying to show off. No one can feel that his case was adequately presented, though there is no doubt of the correctness of the final verdict. In a less-clear case of guilt such conditions might work grave injustice.

After all, he is not the only one with an interest in the matter. The courts are a system erected for the purpose of assuring justice. It is just as important to the people that justice be done as it is to the defendants.

Under the present laws, the judge is almost helpless in a case like Northcott's.

PICK 'EM YOUNG

William Wrigley, the gum king, has bought a large dairy in Phoenix. He is evidently determined to dominate the lives of the flappers right from the start—from the cradle to the grave.

ARMY UNIFORMS

The army officers are in a high state of indignation because the taxi chauffeurs have a uniform that looks just like the clothing of our armed forces.

The obvious remedy would be to furnish the Army with some real soldiers' clothes and leave the present sublimated overalls to the chauffeurs.

TULLY ACCUSED OF 'HUSH' OFFER

Neilan Hurls Bitter Charge in Divorce Scandal

Says Writer Asked $25,000 to Omit Name in Suit

MARSHALL NEILAN

Charges that Jim Tully, hobo poet and novelist, offered to withdraw Marshall Neilan's name for a consideration of $25,000 from his cross-complaint in a divorce action instituted by Mrs. Margaret Myers Tully, was made in an answer to Tully's complaint filed by Neilan as co-respondent yesterday.

According to Tully's complaint, Mrs. Tully confessed to him that she had been guilty of misconduct with Neilan one occasion being the first time she met him at his home, 601 Camden Drive, June 6, last. Mrs. Tully in her answer denied this, saying that she had made the statements to Tully when he threatened her and that they were not true.

The first move in the sensational Tully divorce case began when Mrs. Tully charged her husband with getting drunk and beating her. She said he was a "man of no convention and very few morals." She added he had brought "another woman" to his home.

Tully, in his reply, filed by Attorney Francis J. Heeney, accused his wife of associating with Neilan, although she knew he and Tully were enemies.

In the latest legal development in the case, Neilan's answer, the director says: "Jim Tully has offered to give me an affidavit to the effect that there is no truth in charges made by Tully in his cross-complaint if I would pay him $25,000 in cash."

Neilan adds that Tully has called him on the telephone number of times offering to withdraw the charges against Neilan if a large sum of money is paid.

Mrs. Tully, who is represented by Attorney Clay Robbins, is receiving $50 a week from her husband pending trial of her suit. Attorneys Milton Cohen and R. D. Knickerbocker filed Neilan's answer.

Actress Loses Liberty Fight

A fight by Dorothy Anderson, Chicago actress, held on a bigamy charge, to obtain her liberty by habeas corpus proceedings was lost in Superior Judge Shaw's court yesterday when the court denied the writ.

A hearing before Municipal Judge Dudley Valentine to determine whether or not Miss Anderson shall be turned over to Chicago officers was continued to Monday by Judge Valentine to permit the eastern authorities to present extradition papers now being prepared in Sacramento.

FIGHT OVER BOND MAN'S WILL OPENS

Jury Selected in Suit for Detlefs Estate Secretly Left to Charity Cause

An attack on a secret will which leaves the bulk of a $600,000 estate to charity began in Judge Elliot Craig's court yesterday, with the selection of a jury to hear a contest of the will of the late John Detlefs, trader in stocks and bonds.

Detlefs died November 21, 1926, and according to an asserted "secret" will which was produced after Detlefs's death, he disinherited his daughter, Mary Detlefs Nelson. This will was offered for probate after the court had granted letters of administration and ordered the estate divided according to the laws of inheritance relating to the property of those who die intestate.

According to the widow and Mrs. Nelson, who are opposing the new will, it was made while the decendent was under the improper influence of Mrs. Ada B. Colfelt, who died prior to Detlefs.

The trust officer of a local bank produced the will after Detlefs's death. One clause of the will said: "I am disinheriting Mrs. Nelson because she has not been a dutiful daughter to me." Another clause left the widow one-half the community property, and a third clause bequeathed a large share of the estate to the Florence Crittenden Home. The trial of the case was continued to Monday.

Meighan Arrives Inconspicuously

Because Thomas Meighan likes a good game of bridge he made an inconspicuous entry into Los Angeles yesterday. There was nothing of the hullabaloo at the railroad station that usually attends the arrival of a screen actor.

It was all because just before he left New York with his wife, Frances Ring, he mentioned he would like to find some good bridge players who were going west at the same time. He was besieged with bridge enthusiasts, many of whom thought they were to be his guests on the trip. It was necessary for him to sneak out of town two days ahead of schedule.

Meighan is here to do a series of talking pictures.

W. B. Seabrook's "Magic Island," giving a vivid description of Haiti with a civilization centuries old, will be one of the works discussed. Much information is given the travelers in this new list as to what is most interesting in these countries and how best to see points of interest.

EDISON SON HERE FOR TESTS

Southern California Trip Made for Investigations to Perfect New Type Radio Set

Not only may California be justly proud of her many desirable features, which bring thousands of persons here, but her faults may be deemed assets in certain cases. Take for instance the announcement made yesterday by Theodore M. Edison, son of the electrical wizard, that peculiar conditions of static and radio reception in Southern California not duplicated in the East caused him to come here to perfect a radio receiving set.

Laboratory equipment valued at several thousand dollars was brought along by Mr. Edison from the Edison laboratory at Orange, N. J., he stated, and will be used to experiment with peculiar local conditions with a view to making such changes as will eliminate prevailing static and other imperfections in radio reception.

Accompanying Mr. Edison are Mrs. Edison and R. M. Somers, the latter an electrical engineer, who will assist in the experiments. The party is stopping at the Ambassador.

"You see, someone invariably recognizes me from my picture. In passing on the street persons stop and tell me they went to school with my father or use some other pretext to get my attention, and then propose that I put across some invention they have or are interested in. These inventions vary from can openers to perpetual motion machines. So you see why I don't like to have my photograph in the newspapers. Besides, my brother Charles is president of the company and is entitled to all the publicity."

Questioned as to his father's intentions to develop television, Mr. Edison smiled and replied, "Possibly a little later."

He declined to say where the experimental work will be done, but indicated he will be here for a considerable time.

PROTESTS TURNED DOWN

Protests against the ordinances of intention for the improvement of Hermitage avenue between Chandler Boulevard and Magnolia avenue and of Coverly street between Centra and Mesa streets were denied yesterday by the City Council, thus opening the way for the adoption of the final ordinances.

BUYERS OF LAND TOLD TO BE WARY

Water District Director Warns Against Deception in Desert Purchases

Persons contemplating the purchase of desert lands on the belief that such lands will be greatly benefited by the Boulder dam project were warned last night by W. P. Whitsett to study the situation carefully before investing their money.

Mr. Whitsett, a member of the Los Angeles Board of Water and Power Commissioners and a member also of the board of directors of the Metropolitan Water District, issued the warning at the annual meeting of the Van Nuys Realty Board.

"Before buying any undeveloped land on the belief that it will receive water from Boulder dam it would be well if prospective purchasers would study carefully a government map and ascertain whether or not the land in question is situated at an elevation to permit of economical development," Mr. Whitsett pointed out.

"Much desert land will be reclaimed and made productive and valuable as a result of Boulder dam development and through this same great project will be made possible and feasible the Colorado River aqueduct. But, at the same time, it would be the safer course to establish definitely the future possibilities of a given area before investing," Whitsett pointed out.

ART EXHIBITION PLANS LAID

No-Jury Event to be Sponsored by Civic Bureau Scheduled for First Two Weeks of April

Definite plans were made yesterday to bring to fulfillment a long cherished dream of a no-jury art exhibit by the Civic Bureau of Music and Art of Los Angeles. At a luncheon meeting in the Chamber of Commerce Building members of the bureau, together with representatives of civic organizations, women's clubs, art clubs, the Municipal Art Commission, the Chamber of Commerce, art schools, architects and universities, met to discuss details for the exhibit to be conducted during the first two weeks of April in the Architects' Building, Fifth and Figueroa streets.

The event is being planned with the object in view of reaching artists who are not members of art organizations and of encouraging originality and freedom of expression. The latter, it is said, too often is cramped by thoughts of submission to a jury.

SCOPE OF EXHIBIT

The exhibit will be open to everyone except grammar and high-school pupils. There will be no fee for exhibiting and no admittance charge to the public.

Miss Louise Schmidt, head of the architectural exhibit, has given space in her building which will provide ample room for a large showing and it was roughly estimated at yesterday's meeting that the entries will be in the neighborhood of 4000 to 5000.

Each artist will be limited to one offering but there will be no restriction on the artist's expression.

TYPES OF WORK

The types of work acceptable for the showing will include oil paintings, water colors, prints and etchings, miniatures and sculpture. All pictures must be framed and March 27, next, will be the last day for the acceptance of entries. Application for entry should be made through the Civic Bureau of Music and Art, 684 Chamber of Commerce Building.

David R. Fairies, president of the bureau, presided over the first part of the meeting and turned the direction of discussion of plans and details over to John G. Mott.

JURIST DIES IN BAY CITY

Judge Wheaton Andrew Gray Famous in State

Service in Courts Extended Nearly Fifty Years

Funeral Set for Monday at Home in Visalia

Judge Wheaton Andrew Gray, an eminent jurist and attorney in California courts for nearly fifty years, died yesterday at the University of California Hospital in San Francisco of heart disease, following seven weeks of illness. He was 75 years of age.

Funeral services will be conducted at his home in Visalia Monday at 2 p.m.

Judge Gray acted as a special prosecutor in the trial of J. B. McNamara and J. J. McNamara, unionite brothers who confessed to bombing The Times Building and the Llewellyn Iron Works in 1910. In this he was associated with J. D. Fredericks, then District Attorney of Los Angeles county. The McNamara brothers confessed to the bombing outrage on the eve of their trial and were sentenced to San Quentin prison, where J. B. McNamara is serving a life sentence.

BORN IN MINNESOTA

Born in Filmore county, Minnesota, in 1853, Judge Gray attended Iowa College at Grinnell, Iowa, from 1870 to 1873. He moved to California in 1873, but returned to the East and attended Harvard University law school from 1877 to 1878.

He took up practice of law in Tulare county in 1879 and practiced there until 1891, when he was appointed by Gov. Markham as a judge in the Superior Court of Tulare county. In 1899 he was appointed commissioner of the Supreme Court and held this position until 1905.

From 1905 to 1907 Judge Gray was the presiding justice of the Second District Court of Appeals.

On retirement from the bench Judge Gray entered into a law partnership here with Don Barker and Bowen.

He was associated with Barker and Bowen for eight years. He withdrew from the partnership and established his own offices from which he practiced until his retirement four years ago.

TRIBUTE PAID

He was a member of the Los Angeles and San Francisco clubs and of the California Club. He was a staunch Republican.

When informed of Judge Gray's death, William A. Bowen, with whom Judge Gray had been associated as a law partner for several years, declared, "A great barrister of California has gone."

"Although not a specialist in any type of legal cases," Mr. Bowen said, "Judge Gray was one of the finest trial lawyers the profession has ever known. The judge was steadfast in his convictions and exerted his whole life in trying to right wrongs while on the bench and as a defending or convicting lawyer in court."

Besides his widow, he leaves a daughter, Mrs. Chester W. Judson, wife of a prominent San Francisco business man.

COUNTESS TRIED FOR HOTEL BILL

Charged with defrauding an innkeeper in neglecting to pay a bill of $494, which she incurred as a guest of the Ambassador, Countess Charlotte de Chaquett went on trial yesterday before a jury in Municipal Judge Sheldon's court.

Deputy City Prosecutor Morton charged that the Countess left the hotel on October 12, last, without paying her bill. Morice Kistler, credit manager of the hostelry, testified to that effect on the witness stand and W. W. Dolf, hotel auditor, identified several bills, including one of $53 for shoes and another of $20 for stockings, which he said the hotel had paid for her. He also stated that she had been advanced cash on several occasions.

J. D. Sullivan, clerk at the hotel in Venice, where the Countess was arrested, testified that she registered there under the name of Wilson the day after she left the Ambassador.

S. S. Hahn, her attorney, maintained that her difficulty with the hotel was purely a civil matter and not a crime, and as such, is not punishable by fine and imprisonment.

The Countess, according to police, is American born and a writer.

Hearing Set for Asserted Slayer

James Chandler, 41 years of age, colored, will enter his plea to a charge of murdering his common-law wife by beating her with a dressed chicken and kitchen utensils, next Monday. Superior Judge Shaw ruled yesterday at the defendant's arraignment.

The woman, Jessie Gafford, died December 25, 1928, two days after the asserted beating.

FINDINGS IN SUIT TO BE CONSIDERED

Neon Sign Contest Slated for Attention of Federal Court Jurist Today

United States District Judge Henning today will take under advisement the recommendations of United States Commissioner Head regarding the suit of the Electrical Products Company against Neale, Inc., in which the plaintiff company was awarded an injunction as to one type of patent using Neon gas in the making of display signs.

It was held by the commissioner that in this instance Neale, Inc., infringed on that particular patent, but also held that in respect to the iron button, caesium mirror type of sign there has been no infringement whatsoever.

It was stated by attorneys for Neale, Inc., that the company is the western licensee of Rainbow Lights, Inc., which controls patents on Neon, Argone and helium gases in connection with the manufacture of certain tube signs, and that the recommendations do not affect the rights of Neale, Inc., to the use and manufacture of signs by the use of these patents.

While the injunction suit involves property of about $1,000,000, yet no damages have been assessed against Neale, Inc., and, if such are made, they probably will not exceed $500.

DRUG MAN'S DAUGHTER BETROTHED

Formal announcement of the engagement of Miss Madelyn Elizabeth Weiss, only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. William E. Weiss, vice-president of the United Drug Company, Wheeling, W. Va., to Henry Lane Kinnucan, Detroit banker, was made last night by Miss Weiss's parents in the Biltmore.

Speaking for himself, Dr. Weiss explained that his trip to the islands was a combination of business and pleasure. While in Los Angeles the drug store magnate will study conditions for further expansion of United Drug chain stores, he said.

"The possibilities for an extension of our business along the west coast are encouraging," Dr. Weiss declared. "We have just completed a survey along the Pacific Slope which shows Los Angeles is still white on the trade map, and the result is that in the near future we shall open a number of new stores here."

Dr. Weiss stated that more drugs and medicines are being sold by drug stores throughout the country today than ever before. At the same time, communities are enjoying greater health than ever, he added. The visitor's explanation of this paradox was that most medicines used by persons now are of a preventive character, rather than curative.

Dr. Weiss recently was presented the degree of doctor of philosophy by the University of Cologne, Germany, which made him the first American doctor of philosophiae honoris causa named by that country. The affair was the occasion of a banquet in the Biltmore of New York at which, outside of Germany, England, Canada and the United States were represented.

Humane Board Learns of Department Quiz Plea Before City Council

Investigation of the Humane Department has been requested in a resolution presented to the City Council, it was learned at a meeting of the Humane Commission yesterday. The request is signed by Robert Milton Byrne, Mrs. Francis H. Weldon, former commission member, and Rosemarie Rae Wright, who stated they compose a committee representing State, county and city humane organizations.

The resolution contains no detailed charges and was referred to the health and sanitation committee of the Council. It reads as follows:

> Owing to lack of competent humane supervisors the Los Angeles City Pound has become a discredit and a menace to the city. We have no reason to believe that under the present majority personnel of the Humane Commission that the conditions will be changed. Humanitarians, not politicians, should be chosen to direct the policy of a humane department.

Mrs. Warren McIntyre, president of the commission, and other members declined to comment on the resolution until they received official notice of it.

Following an investigation by the fire department into the disposal of the carcasses of pensioned fire horses, the commission has suspended Rodman Robeson, general manager, and Inspector Roy McCarrell from the department on the ground that there has been improper disposition. McCarrell was suspended for two weeks at an executive meeting on Wednesday, and at the regular meeting yesterday Robeson was suspended, pending investigation of his responsibility in the affair. The suspensions were made on motion of Mrs. McIntyre, who said it had not been expected the action Wednesday would be made public.

BULLET IN WALL TELLS OF TRAGEDY

A bullet yesterday plowed through the bathroom wall of A. J. Zumouzelle's apartment at 1314 West Twenty-second street. Looking through the hole, Zumouzelle saw Charles Bingman lying dead in the bathroom of the adjoining apartment. Police were called, and found the revolver with which Bingman had fired a shot through his head. Neighbors say that Bingman had been despondent over illness. He was a part-time post-office employee and lived with his mother, Mrs. Ella Bingman.

Edwun C. Burach, 60 years of age, of 1036 West Eighth place, yesterday was found unconscious in his room. His was covered by an overcoat under which he had inserted a gas tube which was clinched between his teeth. When removed to Georgia-street Receiving Hospital, his condition was found to be so critical that he was transferred to General Hospital.

VISITOR SEES GREAT SUPPLY OF OIL HERE

California is assured of a supply of fuel oil that will last indefinitely, according to John C. Howard, president of the Utah Oil Refining Company, who is at the Biltmore on a business visit to Los Angeles. Mr. Howard yesterday viewed the Rincon and other near-by oil fields by airplane.

What a funny way to escape a COLD

Prevent a cold by rinsing the hands with Listerine before each meal? Sounds strange doesn't it? Not when you know the facts, however.

During the day your hands accumulate germs. Ordinary washing with soap and water doesn't destroy them. So, carried to the mouth on food, they develop, attacking the mucous membrane. A cold or sore throat or both frequently follows.

Full strength Listerine, is powerful against germs—kills most varieties in 15 seconds. Therefore its use on the hands before each meal is simply another wise precaution against colds and sore throat. Mothers handling children's food should particularly bear this in mind. Write for our great free book, "Personal Hygiene." Address Dept. S-68, Lambert Pharmacal Co., St. Louis, Mo., U. S. A.

And for SORE THROAT

Listerine built its reputation on its ability to quickly check sore throat which is also caused by germs. At the first symptom of trouble gargle with it full strength. Repeat the treatment frequently.

DATA ABOUT ROCK PLANT REQUESTED

Palisades Representative Wants Company to State Its Plans in Detail

A request to the City Planning Commission that the Los Angeles Mountain Park Company be required to state specifically to the commission just what it intends to do under its proposed rock quarry and crushing mill permit, if granted one by the commission, was made yesterday by Thorwald Siegfried of the Pacific Palisades Protective Association.

Siegfried points out in a letter to the commission that the application of the company for a removal of restrictions against heavy industrial plants such as it proposes to operate in Santa Ynez Canyon is so vague and general in terms that it is difficult to set up specific objections. The matter is to come up for a public hearing before the commission on the 26th inst.

It is suggested that the company be required to state whether or not it intends to operate a general rock crushing business, whether it will engage in trucking material on Beverly Boulevard or adjacent districts, whether it will make a showing that its project is a feasible one, and whether it will agree to limit its operations, or whether it intends later to manufacture cement on the property, and will it definitely fix the course of its proposed pipe line from its plant into Santa Monica bay.

Suspect Held Here on Old Killing Charge

Arrested in San Pedro on a warrant from St. Louis charging him with the murder of J. W. Chamberlain November 25, 1925, Frank L. Smith told Deputy Sheriffs J. B. Kelly and Charles Kelly yesterday that he has a perfect alibi and is not guilty of the crime of which he is accused.

According to Smith's story, Chamberlain was held up and robbed in the railroad yards of St. Louis. The bandit fatally wounded Chamberlain and escaped with $300.

Smith said that he has been questioned about the case before and satisfied officers that he had nothing to do with the shooting.

SUE CAROL MUST WAIT FOR RULING

Court Takes Matter of Her Cinema Contract Under Submission

Instead of giving his decision at once at the close of testimony in the hearing for an injunction brought by the Douglas MacLean Productions to restrain Sue Carol, film actress, from working for other producers, Superior Judge Engs yesterday took the case under submission.

As a result it will be some time before Miss Carol will know whether she must continue to work for the MacLean concern until the expiration of her contract, two years hence, or will be allowed to work for whom she pleases.

At present Miss Carol is restrained by a temporary injunction from working for any other company without the consent of the Douglas MacLean Productions. The hearing before Judge Engs was one wherein the company asked that the injunction order be made permanent, with the burden of proof on the actress to show cause why it shouldn't be made permanent.

In her answer to the assertion of the picture concern, Miss Carol declares she is free to work for whom she pleases because the company was delinquent in the matter of exercising its option for her service at the end of a six months' period, as provided by contract.

AUTO PLANT MECCA FOR THOUSANDS

Thousands of visitors toured the new Willys-Overland Company assembly plant on East Randolph street near Riverside Drive yesterday as the wheels of the $1,500,000 establishment spun in their third day of operation.

Open house will be continued at the plant today, next Monday and Tuesday. Three special courtesy busses an hour will continue to cruise in the downtown section during the inspection days, to take visitors to and from the plant.

Representatives of the automotive trades and automobile dealers yesterday were guests of John N. Willys, president of the company, at a luncheon in the new building. Mr. Willys and Colin Campbell, vice-president in charge of sales, gave short addresses.

As visitors arrived at the plant yesterday they were taken in groups under the direction of guides to view the assembly of Whippet cars.

Several classes of high-school students are to visit the plant next week, J. A. Forree, factory representative, announced.

Pair Booked on Drug Act Charge

Narcotics and hypodermics, it was asserted yesterday by Detective Captain Seager of the narcotic squad, were found in rooms at 649 North Rossmore Drive, where his squad seized a woman and a man. The girl said she was Florence George, 24 years of age, a dancer, living at 2118 North Highland avenue.

She was in the apartment of Ira A. Sturman, where Capt. Seager said he found two hypodermics, a quantity of drugs and ten gallons of liquor. The two were booked on charges of violating the State Poison Act.

SCHOOLS KEYED UP FOR CONTEST

Cultural Advantages Given Wider Recognition

Students Grasp Purpose of Oratorical Movement

All Anaheim Seniors Booked to Submit Speeches

"Although our high school is limited in numbers there is a great deal of enthusiasm demonstrated for the oratorical contest on the Constitution," said Miss Lillie C. Brandt, oratorical coach for the Redondo Union High School, yesterday. "The participants are giving their best efforts and the student body is standing back of the movement.

"Students are realizing more than ever before that education is endeavoring to teach them responsibility, law and order and that the tendency today is to direct young people in the right paths rather than the correction of crime and wrongdoing. The three factors in this guidance are the home, the school and the church. An understanding of the Constitution is perhaps the surest, safest and quickest way to establish the foundation of patriotism, citizenship and belief in God. There is benefit for all in this oratorical contest and the wide experience it is giving the students and the public in many other ways should not be underrated."

PLACE IN SYSTEM

With such spirit in our public schools it is not surprising that the oratorical contest on the Constitution has taken a definite place in educational systems, even in States where its study is not compulsory, as it is in California.

From the Anaheim Union High School it is learned that the entire senior English class of twenty-three members has completed orations conforming to the requirements of the contest. Six of the students will compete for the school elimination honors before local judges prior to the District 1 finals to be held at Anaheim April 12. One of the six competitors is to be a Japanese boy and another is a young man who has to overcome a tendency to stutter.

At the Tucson High School of Tucson, Ariz., an extensive elimination oratorical tournament is being held preparatory to the constitutional event. The oratorical prospects are divided into two groups, one of juniors and seniors and the other of freshmen and sophomores. In each class there is a contest carried on by preliminaries and a final with semifinals if necessary, and the contestants are allowed to orate on any subject they may choose. Then the winners will present their orations on the Constitution. This method, it is said, has created a lively interest in the main event.

FORTY COMPETITORS

The Women's Civic Club of Garden Grove has substituted the National Oratorical Contest on the Constitution for a contest of their own which dealt with citizenship and thus made it possible for forty students of the Garden Grove Union High School to enter the national contest, according to Miss Ellen MacKenzie Dodson, of the department of English of the school.

"On March 4 we will assemble the entire student body to hear the inaugural address of President-elect Hoover by radio and will follow with the school oratorical elimination contest, so that the entire day will be devoted to a consideration of our government," she writes.

Arbuckle Case Alimony Delay Vexes 'Fatty'

Roscoe (Fatty) Arbuckle, former film comedian and now proprietor of the Plantation Cafe, registered extreme disappointment in Superior Judge Schauer's court yesterday when his alimony hearing was postponed until next Monday.

Roscoe Arbuckle

Doris Deane, his film-actress wife, sued him last August, charging him with beating her while he was in a drunken rage. She also resented one of his wise cracks, she said, when he told her he didn't get any kick out of her because she wouldn't fight with him.

DORIS DEANE

Miss Deane, in demanding alimony, declares that Arbuckle makes $750 a week and owns property on which she placed a value of $200,000. The hearing was delayed because Attorney W. W. Bearman, employed by Arbuckle, had not had time familiarize himself with the case.

Woman Accused as Bandit Ring's Aide Convicted

Clara Bleich, asserted member of a bandit ring, was convicted of receiving stolen property by a jury in Superior Judge Murray's court yesterday after a few minutes deliberation.

Edward Bleich, her husband, and Phillip Bleich have pleaded guilty to charges of forgery and will be given a hearing on an application for probation the 25th inst. They also pleaded guilty, with Ralph Bender, of a charge of robbery and applied for probation.

The case was prosecuted by Leo Aggeler and Julian Richardson. Leroy Reames was attorney for Mrs. Bleich.

PASADENA SITE TO BE AIRPORT

Municipality Negotiates Deal for Sale of Tract

Western Air Express Buys 188-Acre Farm Property

By a "Times" Staff Correspondent

PASADENA, Feb. 8.—Negotiations under which the Western Air Express will purchase this city's 188-acre Valley Boulevard farm for a consideration of $517,000 are reported to have been closed, except for minor details, late today, at a conference in Los Angeles between City Manager R. V. Orbison, representing Pasadena, and Harris M. Hanshue and William May Garland, Western Air executives.

As soon as the money has been paid it will be used to finance the construction of an $800,000 civic auditorium on the site at the south end of Garfield avenue, city officials revealed today. The sale of the city farm property as the best means to finance the auditorium was proposed by City Director N. J. Shupe a year ago.

AIRPORT PLANNED

Although the Western Air Express officials have not divulged their completed plans for the development of the property, located south of the Valley Boulevard and west of San Gabriel, it is understood at the City Hall that 155 acres will be converted into one of the best equipped flying fields in Southern California and that arrangements will be made whereby private owners of planes will be allowed the use of the facilities. The remaining thirty-three acres are not needed for the airport, but are included in the deal to satisfy the city's desire to dispose of the property in one piece.

The site of the field presents ideal flying conditions, according to aeronautical experts. The prevailing winds are northerly, obviating the necessity for a transverse runway.

OFFER RAISED

The previous offer of the company was $2750 for 155 acres and $2500 an acre for the remaining thirty-three. By the new blanket price of $2750 an acre, the city gains an additional $8250. Pasadena's original price was $3000 an acre.

The sale of the farm property will "kill two birds with one stone."

It will furnish a landing field within a ten minutes' drive from Pasadena and will result in the realization of the auditorium project, which local business men hold to be the other most important civic need at the present time.

EMPLOYEES OF BANK TO FRATERNIZE

Security Workers Will Celebrate Anniversary of Founding This Evening

With the public observance of the fortieth anniversary of the founding of the Security Bank just one day away, the directors, officers and employees of that institution will gather this evening at the Philharmonic Auditorium for an informal family celebration.

CHARLES H. TOLL

Under the leadership of Georg Schneevoigt the entire Los Angeles Philharmonic Orchestra will give a concert. The Male Quarter, composed of Don Wheaton, Earnest Feutz, Gerry O. Stocking and Frank E. Geiger, also will be heard. The musical program will be broadcast over radio KFI beginning at 8 o'clock.

President Sartori will extend greetings to the gathering and relate some of his experiences in the early days, when the Security had only three employees in the little storeroom banking office on Main street. The staff today numbers 1500.

Charles H. Toll, vice-president, who has lived in Los Angeles since the '80's will preside and in closing will introduce Laurence L. Hill, publicity manager, who will deliver an illustrated talk on the history of Los Angeles and the Security.

Indictments in Old Drug Store Robbery Voted

Morris Moll, arrested in Miami recently, accused of participating in the robbery of a messenger of the Sun Drug Company in Los Angeles of $15,000 in 1923, is charged with the robbery in an indictment issued by the grand jury yesterday.

Elmer Dowdy, known as the Pajama Kid, one of the four bandits, was tried and convicted shortly after the robbery.

Moll, officers believe, will fight extradition on grounds that the case is outlawed. The State will contend that the case is not outlawed because Moll has been out of the State since a few days after the robbery.

Film Actress's Suit Unopposed

Viola Dana's divorce action against Maurice Bennett (Lefty) Flynn, football player and film actor, will not be opposed, it appeared from Superior Court records yesterday, when Flynn's default was entered.

Miss Dana asserts that her husband treated her cruelly, drank too much liquor and left her for long periods without explanation.

You learn so many worth-while things at the Electrical Cooking School, held each Monday and Thursday in the basement of the Bureau of Power and Light at Second and Broadway. All the electrical appliances you absolutely need and now may own without fear of a huge electric-light bill are demonstrated either at the cooking school or afterward.

You know about the reduced electrical rates made possible by the Bureau of Power and Light, didn't you? Why, the low cost of operating electrical appliances has absolutely revolutionized the home of every Los Angeles housewife and each and every one is rejoicing in consequence.

You see, electrical appliances of every kind are a necessity today—nor are they expensive. You owe it to yourself to make your housework as easy as possible, don't you think, and now that the electric rates are so very reasonable, let's all take advantage of them and utilize our tastes to the fullest, giving credit, however, where credit belongs—namely, to the Bureau of Power and Light.

To tighten a loose sewing-machine belt, put a few drops of castor oil on it; run machine a few minutes and belt tightens. If necessary to shorten belt, punch a new hole with a hatpin or large needle, heated red hot; it penetrates like magic.

I am sure many of my readers will like to make their spare time profitable . . . if so let me suggest that they call on the Liberty Candy and Supply Company and get details of their plan for making candy at home and selling it to stores. I was shown most gratifying results from letters sent in by their students. This concern teaches candymaking personally and by mail, (distance makes no difference with their method.) Now, before Easter is the time to learn. Why not call or write today for their explanatory booklet. The address is Liberty Candy and Supply Company, 4th floor Grant Bldg. 355 S. Broadway, Tucker 4156.

Any article of silver which you have that is broken or worn can be repaired and replated by the Peerless Platers of 239½ S. Spring (upstairs,) when finished you cannot tell them from new . . . it's true and what is more, this concern is very reliable and their prices extremely modest. Knives, forks and tablespoons are done for $3.50 a dozen; teaspoons costing but $2.50 for the same amount.

You will never regret opening an account with the Woman's Department of the Bank of Italy National Trust and Savings Association at Seventh and Olive streets. This department is presided over by Miss Grace S. Stoermer, who never finds it too much trouble to advise her depositors on all matters of a financial nature.

Keep in the sewing room a padded covered brick to which any sewing can be pinned that must be held taut while hand work is being done.

My, how times have changed. It used to be a day's job to hitch up old Dobbin and go ten miles into town to do a little shopping. The automobile has changed this into simply a two hour's outing in the fresh air. Just a few years ago thousands of people thought coffee didn't agree with them, and that the enjoyment of this delicious beverage was forbidden them for life, but since the advent of Ben Hur Drip Coffee and the Ben Hur Healthful Coffee Maker, milady is making four or five pots of this harmless mental and physical stimulant, and serving the guests at her bridge party with it up into the wee small hours of the morning and no one feels anything but beneficial effects.

Surely the old coffee percolator and coffee pot are as antiquated as the horse and buggy and will soon be relics of the past as I have noticed that nearly all of my friends have become wise to the fact that coffee can be made a healthful, beneficial beverage, when properly prepared. The method is so much more simple, the beverage so much more delicious and what a pleasure it is to enjoy such a delicious beverage without fear of ill effects.

I notice the company, who is putting out the deliciously good Ben Hur Drip Coffee, are still offering, through the grocers, one of their $2.00 Healthful Coffee Makers and a pound of this delicious coffee, that makes many more cups to the pound, a $2.60 retail value, all for $1.00. This low introductory price represents only a very small part of the bargain; the economical saving in additional cups to the pound as well as the keen satisfaction in coffee enjoyment and health protection are claimed by thousands who are using it, to be worth a hundred-fold the initial price. More power to this company whose costly research work has done so much for mankind.

Worn-out broom for floor polisher—When a long-handled broom becomes worn out, instead of throwing it away, cut down the straws even, tie a piece of felt, carpet, or flannel cloth, around the head and make a good floor polisher (an old felt hat can also be used for this purpose.) It will also keep linoleum in good condition. Footmarks can be rubbed off at any time without stooping.

The most enjoyable trip you can possibly take over the week-end is to drive down to Travaglini's Cafe Clemente at San Clemente—the "Spanish Village by the Sea" halfway between Los Angeles and San Diego, which as you know, is just a nice two hours' drive and, oh, how you will enjoy the sumptuous dinner served when you arrive!

Mr. Travaglini is known far and wide as a most hospitable host while the food which he serves beggars description—so good is it.

Then, in the city, there is Travaglini's Roma Rotisserie and Food Shop, where you may dine or buy food to take home and serve. 1801 W. 7th is the address while the phone number is WAshington 0873.

When using a double-edged razor blade for ripping, etc., lay a match along one edge and bind it on with adhesive plaster; this gives a firm hold and prevents cut fingers. Or, attach the blade firmly through the holes to a strong, narrow piece of wood, such as a pencil or penholder, using either linen thread or wire, so it cannot possibly slip.

You are going to enjoy to the utmost Thew's sweet milk cocoa, which is an imported preparation, being made in England by Thew, Hooker & Gilbey, Ltd., of Buckingham, a concern famed for their cocoa. If your grocer hasn't it write or phone C. M. Boxall, 5335 7th Ave., UNiversity 7152, and your order will be taken care of promptly.

Cheap polish for floors or linoleum—Take equal parts of kerosene, linseed oil and turpentine for an inexpensive polish for oiled or varnished floors. An application of this polish to linoleum with soft cloth or mop keeps it like new.

Could any thing be finer than Guasti Wine Jellies, which have but recently come into our midst, but though new, have already won a firm place in our affections—for as a woman told me, "There's nothing like them and we couldn't get along without these Guasti Wine Jellies now that we may buy them" . . . and it's true, every word.

Today let me give you a recipe for Arctic Pudding, which is just another one of the delicious ways to use Guasti Sherry Jelly. "Arctic Pudding":

Whites of 4 eggs, 1-4 cupful granulated sugar, pinch salt, 1 teaspoonful lemon juice, 1-3 cupful Guasti's Sherry Wine.

Beat egg whites until stiff and dry, add salt, and gradually add sugar and lemon juice. Beat at least five minutes after ingredients are added and fold in lightly the jelly. Place this in refrigerator pans, placing on top a layer of whipped cream, slightly sweetened. This will not freeze but will be delightfully light and chilled.

Oh, and have you sent for your free new copy of "Treasured Flavors" as yet? It will be mailed to you at once if you write in to the Italian Vineyard Company, 1248 Palmetto St., Los Angeles. Be sure, though, to address your note to Department "D."

Do go into Mrs. A. M. Walden's Cake and Pastry Shop, 638 S. Western Ave., Saturday, for she is having Lady Baltimore cake and mince pies on special sale! No need to tell you how truly wonderful they are . . . all who have had them go back for more.

New stockings and socks last twice as long if soaked in warm water two hours and dried before wearing. A teaspoonful of vinegar in a bowl of rinsing water retains the luster of silk stockings and keeps black stockings a good color.

When you need new overdrapes my suggestion is that you have them made by H. E. Simank, 738 W. 9th. Not only will you find his prices fair, but the workmanship is of the best and materials ever so ultra. Samples and prices are submitted, too.

Another enthusiastic "rooter" for Hughes's Ice Cream is Kate, a little friend of mine who gives me great pleasure by her praise of Hughes's Ice Cream, which by the way, she is serving more frequently all the time. "It's better than I can make myself," she said, "and that is no mean accomplishment for I once thought I made good ice cream!"

You see, Hughes's is made of pure cream, fresh fruit juices and the best chocolate and vanilla obtainable. There is certain to be a dealer in your neighborhood!

Old stocking tops for dusters or dustless mop—Old stocking tops make good dusters when sewed together, also good polishing cloths for oiling and rubbing down floors or furniture. Several old stocking tops, cut in strips and dipped in paraffin oil make fine dustless mops for hardwood floors or furniture.

It is interesting the way news spreads. First Maurice and "Teeny" had their mother buy Coca-Cola in the Special Home Package of 12 bottles for 50 cents so they might have it to treat the crowd when they dropped in after school, and to drink when they came in thirsty from their various out-door sports, then Sandy, one of the crowd, had his mother buy Coca-Cola in the same way until now the entire bunch of boys have Coca-Cola in their homes and my word but they enjoy it! You really should try several cartons in your home, your grocer is certain to be able to supply you!

To make new silk stockings last longer, rinse them out in soap and water before wearing them; but at this or any other washing be sure no soap is left in the silk. If washed at once upon removing them from the feet, they will last twice as long, as it is the perspiration which rots the fabric.

DARK CONTINENT OPENED

Missionary at Conference Tells of Advance Made in Breaking Down African Paganism

Travel by steamer, by rail and by airplane is now the usual mode up the Congo River into equatorial Africa, according to Thomas Moody, a Baptist missionary who entered the field there thirty-seven years ago, and who addressed members of his denomination last night from the stage of the Philharmonic Auditorium.

The meeting was the second of the Southern California Associational Missionary Conferences which opened yesterday morning in Burdette Hall, and which last night brought representatives from Baptist churches throughout the southern section who crowded the main floor and balconies of the auditorium.

"More than 165,000 persons have been converted in Uganda, and today we have boarding schools for boys and girls, hospitals, and educational centers scattered throughout the territory," Mr. Moody declared.

CONTINENT OPENED

"There are seventy-nine mission stations in the Belgian Congo and more than 34,000 boys and girls in the schools there, and the whole of that once 'dark continent' has been opened up."

The speaker was preceded by Edwin Phelps, general secretary of the Baptist Young People's Union of America, who deplored the lack of sympathy between the adults and the young people who are making up "the flaming youth" whose conduct has been subjected to such constant criticism.

MORNING SESSION

At the morning session, which opened at 10 o'clock in Burdette Hall, with Birney S. Hudson, moderator of the Los Angeles association, presiding, Mr. Moody talked on the Congo. Other speakers were W. F. Harper, A. M. Petty and A. W. Rider.

Miss Ina E. Burton, woman's promotional secretary of the Board of Missionary Co-operation, also spoke at the morning meeting. She discussed women's home and foreign missions. In the afternoon she opened the meeting after the invocation, discussing women's share in the Baptist world program. Dr. Norman B. Henderson, George E. Burlingame, and Edwin Phelps made brief addresses during the afternoon.

HER RELIGION OPPOSED

Mrs. Alvin H. Reiter testified before Superior Judge Yankwich yesterday that she and Reiter had been married twenty-six years, that he objected to her religious belief and that he became angry when their son embraced her. A divorce decree was granted.

Daniel Willard, Rail Head, Here

Business of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad in the first five weeks of 1929 was considerably better than in the same period last year and prospects are that the increased volume will continue, according to Daniel Willard, president of the road, who arrived at the Biltmore yesterday.

The Baltimore and Ohio, Mr. Willard said, will spend $20,000,000 this year in extensions, improvements and rolling stock.

Mr. Willard, who arose from the ranks to his position as head of the road, has won considerable fame by putting into practice his theory that the rolling stock of a railroad can be made attractive by color harmony. As an example, he has caused engines of the road to be painted olive green to harmonize with the color of the Pullmans.

Mr. Willard is accompanied by his wife and by Frank Batchelder, vice-president of the B. & O., and Mrs. Batchelder. They are en route to Honolulu on a vacation trip.

CABLE DRUM KILLS OIL DERRICK WORKER

Edward Hasty, 28 years of age, of Compton, was killed instantly yesterday when a cable drum collapsed at the Santa Fe Springs oil field. The drum struck Hasty on the head. He was working on a derrick of the McMillan Drilling Company. His body was removed to White and Emerson's undertaking rooms, Whittier.

Today's Bible Text

NOT STUMPED

The man who is learning about women doesn't give up—even when he is unable to master the subject.

CALL FOR FOGG

Head of the American Gas Association is named Fogg. Thus proving that the members knew what they wanted. Some folks say that the gas tastes like fog, anyhow.

IN OLD VIRGINIA

The anti-Smith Democrats wish it distinctly understood that their rejection of the Smiths is not meant to include that peerless pioneer, Capt. John Smith. Pocahontas was never of the Tammany tribe.

DIVORCE AND DELICATESSEN

There are more delicatessens in America than ever before and the proportion is said to be still increasing—although it was felt that the peak of our pickled-tongue life had been reached. But it is still a fact that the more delicatessens the more divorces—although there is no absolute warrant for the alliance.

THE NEW NUMBERS

Police and traffic officers agree that the new system of letters and numbers on motor license plates is a great help in the hasty identification of cars. The mind visualizes the number more readily and retains it longer. During the month of January 930 cars were stolen in Los Angeles, but 837 of them were recovered by the authorities. That is a high percentage of restorations and considerable credit is given to the numbering system.

MEET THE PRINCE

Not having been on the matrimonial counter for several weeks Evelyn Nesbit Thaw now declares her intent to wed a Russian prince. This isn't so much of a muchness. Just now a Russian prince would fall in rank below a Greek with a shoe-shining parlor. However, this particular prince has a job in a restaurant and may be able to pull through. We hope Evelyn likes him. There's a girl who has had a couple of tough breaks.

THE BIG BANK

That new bank with a sort of a Tammany background and $55,000,000 of capital is now lining up for business and gossip is that John J. Raskob is to be the chairman of its board of directors. This would be also the bank in which Gov. Al Smith would sit were he also to decide upon a financial career. It should be right easy for this institution to handle that Democratic deficit. Just a couple of signatures that can be hung up until the next pay-off comes.

THE SKY PILOT

The first flying mail was due in Panama at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon and, therefore, right on the stroke of the hour Col. Lindbergh dropped from the skies on the chosen field and royally opened a new chapter in the realm of service and progress. The prince of pilots had covered his 2200-mile schedule with absolute fidelity at every point and it is only up to the flying colonel's successors to follow his smoke to have a perfect functioning air mail. If we only had about a thousand Lindberghs we could do a lot of business on time.

NIGHTS WITH NIGHTINGALES

Hawkeyed critics were having sport with President Coolidge because of some rosy words in his Florida speech in which he described the green foliage as reflected in the sparkling waters over which the alluring song of the nightingale mingled with the magic chiming of the bells. The sharps said the President was a nature faker—or was seeing things. Didn't he know that there were no nightingales in Florida, or ever were? But Edward Bok, the creator of the bird sanctuary and the donor of the wonderful chimes, had already imported numbers of nightingales and they were ready to do their stuff according to the chart. Anyhow, any person who wanted to make a fuss because the big chief spoke of nightingales in Florida is foolish. They ought to be there.

THE NEED FOR HASTE

The suit of the Southern Pacific, now on trial in the Court of Claims at Washington, to recover from the government $1,059,000 of the money it spent in 1906 and 1907 to close a break in the Colorado River levees and prevent the complete destruction of the Imperial Valley, is a reminder of the need for haste in getting the Colorado under permanent control and an admonition to Arizona, California and Nevada to settle their differences on a reasonable basis and let actual construction work on Boulder Dam begin as soon as possible.

Testimony introduced in that suit not only describes the devastation wrought by the diversion of the flow of the river into the Salton Sea at that time, but shows that a similar break may now occur at any time, that the possibilities of stopping it are less than they were then, and that if it occurs not only will an immensely rich agricultural area in California be inundated, but that Yuma and Parker and various other irrigation projects in Arizona will be left high and dry, and also a portion of Nevada. This is true because, given a chance, the Colorado will scour out its channel to a depth estimated as much as 100 feet clear back to the mouth of Boulder Canyon, undermining and washing out the Laguna Dam and various other constructions in the process. A break now is even more likely than it was twenty years ago because the river has silted up its bed to a point much higher above the surrounding territory than it was then.

The big break of 1906 followed a series of smaller breaks, the repairing of which bankrupted the California Development Company, original irrigation canal builder, and cost the Southern Pacific hundreds of thousands of dollars which it loaned for the purpose. The Southern Pacific undertook to close the break when President Roosevelt appealed to President Harriman of the railroad, and promised he would recommend to Congress that the road be reimbursed. He did so, but Congress did not provide for paying the claim until 1924.

"At that time," says a brief submitted by Isador B. Dockweiler for the railroad, "the entire river was cutting through the break, the width of which was then 1100 feet and the depth reached a maximum of forty feet. The river was in sandy soil that ate away like so much sugar—no more stable material than that for hundreds of feet in depth with sides which eroded as easily as the bed. The work attracted a great deal of attention among engineers, many of whom came to inspect it, and hardly without exception they regarded the Southern Pacific engineers as foolhardy to think they could divert the river before the coming spring floods. However, the engineers went to work and put a trestle across the break and brought in rock at a tremendous rate and dumped it from the trestle.

"For three weeks two divisions of the Southern Pacific system, about 1200 miles of main line, were tied up because of the engineers' demands for equipment and facilities. Ordinary freight, the usual passenger trains, and even the luxurious limited trains, had to give way to the rock and gravel-laden trains."

Fifteen days after the first carload of rock arrived at the trestle the break was closed with the handling of 72,000 cubic yards of rock and 5000 cubic yards of gravel and clay. In all, to close the break and build new levees and protect them, the railroad put in 410,000 cubic yards of material.

The torrent had gouged out a gorge through Imperial Valley a quarter of a mile wide and forty to eighty feet deep, and had started a process of backcutting of a channel averaging sixty feet deep at the rate of a mile a day. Engineers testified the progressive back-cut, because of the much more rapid flow of the river into this new outlet, would in time have extended to Needles and beyond. Ruin in the Imperial Valley would have come to 1,214,000 acres of land.

Because of the great development that has taken place since 1907, the monetary loss that would be occasioned by a similar break today would be multiplied by hundreds. Imperial Valley has now about 605,000 acres under cultivation, supports a permanent population in excess of 65,000, has an annual production of $65,000,000, and had a total assessed valuation in 1927 of $54,776,000.

Arizona's stake in Colorado River control amounts to 27,000 acres in the Mojave Valley, 110,000 acres in the Parker project, 130,000 acres at Yuma, and 20,000 acres in the Cibola Valley and isolated projects, not an acre of which could receive any water from the Colorado in the event that the river cut its channel deeper to the extent that engineers declare it would. Nevada is interested in 4000 acres on Cottonwood Island, which is in a similar situation.

These figures do not take into account the additional Arizona and Nevada acreage that can be irrigated if Boulder Dam is built, and which cannot be irrigated if it is not.

It is plain that neither California, Arizona, nor Nevada can afford unnecessary delay and a constantly increasing risk of the river getting out of control.

There is need for haste.

RACKETEERING MADE SAFE

If the loophole through which an official of a cleaners' and dyers' union recently escaped prosecution for squirting acid through the transom of a cleaning shop which had incurred the displeasure of the racketeers is not plugged, racketeering and sabotage will be discovered to be reasonably safe in the State of California. It is probable that the municipal judge who dismissed the charges on a mere showing that the damage had been paid for did not consider the full consequences of his decision.

The statute which permits the compromise of a misdemeanor could never have been intended to apply to cases in which the offense was likely to be repeated, or was part of a general campaign of terrorism. It was meant to provide lenity for cases in which a crime was committed in petulance or sudden anger and in which it was plain that making good the damage involved sufficient punishment—where the crime was isolated and involved little public interest.

But all cases involving racketeering and sabotage involve the public interest to a very high degree and in them compromise should never be permitted. If other judges follow the precedent set in this case, conducting a racketeering campaign will be made much easier. It will be no trouble at all to employ acid-throwers if the boss racketeer can say: "I want you to take all the precautions you can to avoid being caught, but if you are caught, don't worry. We have money enough to pay for any damage they can prove on you, so there's no danger of your going to jail. Here's your acid—go to it!"

NORTHCOTT CONVICTED

The Riverside county jury which convicted Gordon Stewart Northcott of first-degree murder without a recommendation to mercy deserves praise for doing its duty. That Northcott is the type of individual who should be destroyed for the general good of the community is plain. He has been found guilty of three murders and is almost certainly guilty of others, committed in the most callous fashion. These murders were committed not for gain, but to conceal other crime.

His abnormality is patent from all the circumstances, but abnormality is not insanity, nor is it an excuse for crime. If anything, it furnishes an additional reason for his being put to death.

There is some evidence that his criminal tendencies were known before these murders were either committed or suspected, which makes the case something of a parallel with the Hickman case, in which stricter supervision would have prevented the commission of further offenses. There evidently is a need for careful checking of known cases of abnormality so that the community may be protected. The Hickman and Northcott cases are not so much an indictment of the probation system as of the way it is carried out. Probation without supervision is worse than none at all.

Riverside county officers, of course, are not to blame for not knowing things which occurred in Canada and there can be no just criticism of them for failing to discover earlier that Northcott was the worst kind of a menace to society. The duty was Canada's, but Americans, living in a more extensively glazed house, are in no position to throw stones.

SOUL OF SCIENCE

Albert Einstein, who startled the world some years ago by his relativity theory, has stirred up the savants again by announcing that gravitation and electro-magnetism are one.

He also says that possibly there are only twelve men in the world competent to understand it. We feel somewhat omitted by this statement, yet one thing about his findings is in our line. He was able to say it all in about five pages. He compressed the work of a lifetime into a little folder. He relieves the mind of the world in not using an encyclopedia to house his investigations. Brevity would seem to be soul of science as well as of wit.

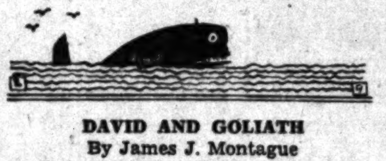
This is one of the encouraging features of the present trend. Sentences no longer have to be a page long to express a thought. After-dinner speakers have not arrived yet; but some of these times they may catch the caboose. Some theologians might profit by the example. Even other scientists might see the light without so much voluminosity.

Possibly Einstein has been taking lessons from Calvin Coolidge and Herbert Hoover. Some of the filibustering hollow-heads of Congress might consider. At all events talking is ceasing to be so much at a premium.

When but five pages can hold a lifetime of thinking of Einstein, many things said by others which everybody understands might be deleted altogether. Some orators who fatten on platitudes should now desist and begin to think. When the speakers cease to muddle and the weary are at rest, the world will be better off. The trouble is that too many stir up the muck and mistake it for depth.

Many writers and speakers will try to squeeze into the immortal twelve who can understand Einstein. Many have dashed off Einstein's relativity with seeming ease, and yet possibly the number in the world today that knows what it is all about would not amount to a dozen. Some have unraveled it until there has been nothing left.

However, without further ado, we are unanimously in favor of his theory, whatever it is. Any man who can do it in five pages and make the world talk about it has our confidence and support.



DAVID AND GOLIATH

By James J. Montague

A whale is practically as large
As a camel boat or a barge.

A germ is so extremely small
That it cannot be seen at all.

And you would probably affirm
That if a whale should meet a germ

And bad blood came between the two
The germ without the least ado

To some whale-proof retreat would scoot
And put an end to the dispute.

And presently the whale is found

Keel upward on a rolling wave
And destined for a watery grave.

To find another finny prey

And when at last it heaves in sight
To win perhaps another fight.

For bulk, though it commands respect
Is not a proof of intellect.

Yet it is only fair to state
That when the germ sets out to sate

His avid eager appetite
For any kind or sort of fight

He always brings his gang along
And it's a thousand billion strong!

The LEE SIDE o' L.A.

BY Lee Shippey

WE COULDN'T say half as much as we wanted to about the Frank Wiggins Trade School yesterday, but there is one thing more we want to tell. In most schools, a student must enroll for a definite time. In that school time does not count—only proficiency. If a student can learn a trade in six months, while another must take two years, the quicker student is given his certificate as soon as he has completed his course and worked six months in his trade to the satisfaction of his employer. The slower student must keep on till he achieves the same proficiency, no matter how long it takes. If more schools were like that diplomas would mean more in the business world.

We happened to visit the beauty culture department of the school just as a class of graduates was being photographed. One of the girls was about to leave for India, and the picture was being hurried a bit on her account. Every one of the girls had been worked on by sister students till she looked her 150 per cent best. It probably was the only graduating class in town in which every member had just stepped out of the chair of a beauty specialist. And they were so busy admiring each other's permanents and marcels and whatever theycallems that the photographer was almost helpless.

Contact Men

Most big business institutions now have "contact men," men whose work is to mix and mingle in the city's life, keep in touch with individuals and firms of all kinds that may be helpful and study the public's reactions to every new movement which may possibly affect their business. We know one delightful chap who draws a good salary because he is a good mixer—in more ways than one—and can be counted on to bring back to the office an intelligent, analytical report of what he has seen and heard. Day after day he eats, dances or golfs his way to information his company needs, and his reports often have influenced large outlays of capital and the launching of new company policies. He is so amazingly informed on a great variety of matters, from odd places in which to eat to good openings for capital, that the h. p. executives who have no time to gather all those data themselves often have to call him into conference before deciding just what their next move ought to be.

It sounds like an easy job, but he told us the other day that the greatest thrill he and his wife ever get is out of a quiet evening at home, for it's a far longer time between such evenings than it is between drinks.

And Contact Ladies

Miss Hazelle Moore is contact woman for the Frank Wiggins School. It is her job to know, always, what the employers of Los Angeles want, what the new movements in trades are, what new tricks of the trade the garment manufacturer, the plasterer, the bricklayer, the beauty-shop girl, the dressmaker or the garage worker must know in order to please the employer and the employer's patrons. She doesn't have to eat and imbibe her way to knowledge as our good-mixer friend does, but her job must be one of the hardest—and most interesting—in the city.

Didn't Even Have to Be Collected

Glendale must have its court trials even more exciting than some of ours if we can take this sentence from the Glendale News-Press as describing something exceptional:

"Through it all the judge sat undistributed, finally bringing the lawyers to a point where each disclaimed all feeling toward the other."

Never Satisfied

State Government

POMONA, Feb. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] Your editorial on the statement of the California Taxpayers' Association should receive the careful consideration of all citizens. The increase in assessed valuation of property 242 per cent, and the net cost of operating the State government 430 per cent, means only one thing. That unless the people wake up, "stop the hole in the skimmer," observe the red light ahead, the State craft will go on the rocks.

But I am afraid that your editorial does not go deep enough to uncover the trouble. While in the State Senate I made somewhat a study of this situation. Here are some of my conclusions:

(1) To change the situation a new Constitution is of first importance. Through constitutional amendments people have been voting for new commissions, or bureaus, or legislation has been enacted likewise, everyone of which places a new tax burden directly or indirectly upon the people. And when placed in the Constitution, neither the Legislature nor Governor can reach them, and the people themselves lose control.

(2) We have the budget system. But the people vote to establish new bureaus, and the budget makers can only provide for their cost in the appropriation bills, knowing full well of the waste in duplication and overlapping. The only effective remedy is a new Constitution, general in its provisions, and let the people retain the power of legislation through their legislators, who can be changed if they do not serve the people faithfully.

(3) Gov. Young is making an honest effort to correct the existing situation, so far as it can be done by co-operation of the Legislature, by trying to assemble scores of these bureaus under one responsible head. He is making progress, and should have the encouragement of all good citizens. But he cannot reach bureaus established by the people by constitutional amendments. Illinois has solved the same problem, I think, by establishing seven departments. If I were to criticise the Governor's program, it would be to stop at the seven point, and bring all bureaus under the seven heads, rather than a greater number, as now proposed.

(4) My investigation long ago convinced me that the root of the whole trouble is in that conglomeration and patch work we call the Constitution, which the people insist on changing more every two years than has been done by the United States in 150 years. When this is done we will have a foundation upon which can be established a State government that can function along more economical lines, and be held responsible for its acts. But it is unfair for the people to be legislating all the time by constitutional amendments, and then hold the Legislature or State government responsible. My experience in the State Senate justifies me in saying that in a long experience in other States, I never met a more honorable and sincere body of men than can be found in the California Legislature.

Aviation Laws

LOS ANGELES, Feb. 6.—[To the Editor of The Times:] The Behrendt-Levy Insurance Agency of this city calls attention to the situation in aviation in California. Some nine bills have been introduced to the Legislature regulating aircraft and flying. These bills levy taxes upon aviation activities, provide for absolute control of aviation by the Motor Vehicle Department and the State Railroad Commission and provide for State licensing of aircraft, pilots, airports and business managers of companies. It is pointed out that the United States, through the Department of Commerce under President-elect Hoover's administration, has worked out a very wise method of handling commercial aviation. These Federal rules insure the safety of the public by providing Federal inspection of aircraft and licensing of pilots under rigid examinations.

The Department of Commerce, being a national body, has no jurisdiction on flying totally within the boundaries of one State and has consequently asked that separate States enact laws simply enforcing these Federal regulations. The Department of Commerce has asked that no other regulation be attempted at this time by States inasmuch as additional local regulation will do much to stifle and hamper legislation. One bill, Senate No. 416, introduced by Senator Joseph L. Pedrotti of Los Angeles, simply makes unlicensed flying illegal. This bill is indorsed by all phases of the aircraft industry. Legislation other than this will, in the opinion of men who are familiar with the situation, be a tremendous handicap to aviation activities.

OUR GAMBLING SPIRIT

BY EVELYN McDOWELL

We are great gamblers in the United States. We have it on the authority of Stephane Lauzanne, writing in the Paris Matin, and he cites American newspapers to prove his statements. The year 1928, he says, was a year of fever—electoral fever and speculative fever.

It seems that the mass of Americans suddenly discovered the prosperity of America and have rushed to take advantage of it. The fever is undeniable, and has invaded even cold and austere Boston, intellectual capital of the republic. And he translates a paragraph from a Boston newspaper to the effect that everyone is talking about stock-exchange quotations, gains and losses; women have even forsaken fashion magazines to read financial news.

The amount of stock changing hands has been amazing, the writer says, especially soon after the election of Herbert Hoover. He attempts to unravel the reasons for this frenzy, and finds an explanation in the Wall Street Journal which he thinks ought to be correct. Within the last ten years, business has become more centralized, interests concentrated in giant trusts, so that investors could follow their growth, become familiar with their balance sheets, and compute their chances. Each little enterprise, known to only a few people, became merged financially with others into a sort of skyscraper whose interior life as well as its external structure could be seen from afar.

That alone would have been enough to upset the investment habits of masses, thinks the writer in the Matin. But in addition this became a kind of revelation to the entire country of its power of production and of the immensity of its riches. Too, those who, even yesterday, considered the heaping up of stocks and the accumulation of merchandise to be one form of fortune, said to themselves that it was simpler and surer to gain a fortune by heaping up certificates representing stocks and to accumulate securities representing merchandise. And there you have the secret of the fever of speculation which is consuming America.

That is the technical explanation. But at bottom there is another more fundamental. The writer quotes from a New York newspaper which says with harsh frankness that millions of American citizens have arrived at that grievous and disquieting state of mind where they think that things will continue always to go up. Many buyers think that the price they pay is not important because there will always be plenty of other buyers ready to pay still more.

If there comes an end to this prosperity—and everything here below has an end—says the New York paper quoted, it will be brought about by the banks, which for three months past have been trying with all their might to curb this movement. The banks will bear down so heavily on the credit-brake that, willy-nilly, the whole speculative machine will have to stop. Above all, perhaps, it will be brought about by the refusal of the good sense of the public to place, even momentarily, its money in business that does not pay more than 2 per cent.

Good sense is, indeed, a factor that always ends by imposing itself on a great people, healthy and vigorous, thinks Mr. Lauzanne. America herself knows too well that she owes her wealth to the strength of her labor and to the genius of her production to allow herself to be long consumed by the gambling fever—which is after all only a transient growing fever.

MY RADIO

My radio! 'tis of thee,
Author of harmony,
Of thee I speak;
Long may you sound the jazz,
Laugh, sing, shout, praise and razz,
The while your sweet voice has
No static squeak.

My radio! when I woo
Soft organ chimes from you,
To soothe my soul;
And you mix with the chimes
Snatches of songs and rhymes,
Jokes, sad and droll.

Then radio! comes the day
When I'm compelled to say,
In accents bold;
Your se-lec-tiv-i-ty
Is bum and don't agree
With the sworn guarantee,
That I was sold.

So radio! get to work,
Do your stuff, do not shirk,
While I relax;
And if you start to squeal,
Bark, scratch, roar and reveal
Just how cussed you feel,
You'll get the ax.

A RECIPE

Many have found no lasting joy in life. Pleasure grows stale—hoarded money is a driver's whip—greed kills beauty and self-indulgence saps the spring of health. Experience brings disillusion and social triumphs turn to disappointment. How many go through life seeking happiness and finding none!

But I know a joy that never stales—is close to nature's heart—makes patient work inspiring—takes little cash and reveals each day some new delight—brings health and happiness and keeps life sane and sweet. I have found it in a California garden—growing roses. H. B.

HEALTH and DIET ADVICE

Dr. McCoy will answer personal questions on health and diet, addressed to him care of The Los Angeles Times. Inclose stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

THE DUST OF THE GROUND

"And Jehovah God formed man of the dust of the ground, and breathed into his nostrils the breath of life; and man became a living soul." Most of us do not realize that this is still true. The elements composing our bodies are actually found in the minerals of the earth and the gases surrounding it. In other words, the food we eat comes from the soil from which the body is built. All of our food originates from the crude elements of the earth which were first refined by plant life, and perhaps later by animal life, before becoming suitable enough for the human digestion.

It is impossible at the present time to determine the exact difference between the iron found in the soils and the iron found in such vegetables as spinach and celery, but there is some subtle difference.

There have been many attempts in the past to feed the mineral elements such as iron, calcium, iodine, etc., to human beings in medicine and food, and although the reports are somewhat conflicting, it is quite evident that these minerals must first be organized by the vegetable kingdom before they can be converted into a healthy cell structure within the human body.

The millions of small root-like villi of the small intestines are always sucking up the nourishment out of the vegetable and animal food, and the blood passing through these villi carries the nutriment to all parts of the body.

The plant must remain in one place and send its roots in search of food, but the human being and the animals are endowed with the ability to move from place to place in search of food. All of the higher animals really carry along their root system internally.

Since the body is built from the food which is eaten, it is necessary that the best be selected. The elements of which the body is composed are as follows: Oxygen, carbon, hydrogen, nitrogen, calcium, phosphorus, chlorin, sulphur, potassium, sodium, fluorin, magesium, iron, manganese, iodine, silicon, arsenic and copper. Each of these seems to be essential to health although the exact use of the last two has not been fully determined. Practically all of these elements are found in every food as it is found in nature, but, of course, some foods are richer in one element and others are richer in another element.

Each element plays some special part in the growth or function of the body, some build into hair, some [illegible], some bone, and some are used to produce energy. If any element is not supplied to the body in sufficient quantity, a disease or sickness is sure to result.

A short time ago I prepared two articles showing the food's richness in the different mineral elements and their uses in the body. I will be pleased to send these articles to anyone who is interested, upon receipt of a large self-addressed stamped envelope.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

SKULL FRACTURE

Question: Miss A. B. writes: "Seven months ago I was the victim of an automobile accident from which I suffered a fracture of the skull and cheek bone, and am now recovering from a nervous breakdown. Can a person marry who has had a skull fracture?"

Answer: If you have recovered from the skull fracture, I do not see how it would interfere with your marriage. If seven months have elapsed since the accident, there is very little danger that you will have any further trouble.

WHOLE-WHEAT TOAST

Q.: Mrs. J. asks: "Is Melba toast made of white or whole-wheat bread?"

A.: Melba toast is made by thoroughly dextrinizing thin dry slices of white bread. Real whole-wheat bread becomes somewhat bitter if thoroughly toasted. If the whole-wheat bread is only partially toasted it has a much better flavor and can then be used at any meal where starch is permissible. Those in good health can generally use the whole-wheat toast with the ordinary breakfast of eggs and stewed fruit.

REDUCING HIPS

Q.: Mrs. A. Mc. writes: "Will you please tell me through the newspaper column if it is possible to reduce the hips from thirty-nine to about thirty-five and one-half inches and if so how? Also, please tell me how to distill water."

A.: The best way to reduce the hips is to take long walks each day. There are no calisthenic exercises you can take which will take the place of this kind of exercise received through walking. It is impracticable to distill water in your own home, but you can do so if you purchase a small still which you can buy in a chemical supply store. It is much cheaper to buy distilled water by the bottle, as it sells for about 50 cents for a five-gallon bottle.

YOUR BABY AND MINE

Mrs. Eldred will be glad to answer all questions pertaining to babies and children. A stamped and self-addressed envelope, forwarded to this office, will bring a personal reply.

This department offers leaflets on weaning and feeding the child from 6 weeks to 6 years, prenatal care and diet for the nursing mother, constipation, eczema outfits for the new baby, sleeping, walking, teething, thumb suckling, ammoniacal urine, bed wetting, training in cleanly habits, periods of nursing, cod liver oil, orange juice, hives, worms, vomiting, refractory children, prune juice, lime water, rupture, styes and boils and cradle cap. Before asking a personal question about one these subjects, it is better to send a self-addressed stamped envelope for the leaflet you need. If your particular problem is not covered in the above list, Mrs. Eldred will be glad to give you a personal reply.

WHAT ABOUT COD LIVER OIL?

The habit of giving cod liver oil to the child, beginning about the third month of his life, is such a comonplace procedure that mothers acept it as such and cease to wonder about it. In spite of its usualness there are some popular misconceptions about the oil, chiefly that it is given to put on weight, or that the oil itself is sufficient to prevent rickets.

Cod liver oil isn't given to make fat babies. It is a fat true enough, and fats are high in calories as we know, but the amount of oil given a baby contributes very little to his weight and, if he becomes fat, it is not because of oil he is taking.

Cod liver oil has the power to act on the body as does sunlight. We have found that without sunlight the body has greater difficulty depositing the necessary amounts of calcium and phosphorus which are essential to good bony development. The addition of cod liver oil to the diet helps this condition and the child gets the benefit of the minerals in his diet. But the minerals have to be there! One can't develop good bones and teeth merely by feeding cod liver oil. One must have the right kind of diet. Cod liver oil can help very little when a child is being fed constantly on foods deficient in mineral elements.

A carpenter has to have a saw to make the best use of the wood before him, but his saw won't do him any good at all unless he first has the wood. So the minerals in the diet are the wood, and the element in either sunlight or cod liver oil which constitutes the saw is called Vitamin D. This vitamin D can also be obtained by exposure to artificial sunlight known as the ultra-violet ray; or by eating foods which have been exposed to this artificial sunlight and thus impregnated with the vitamin D.

CONCENTRATED OILS

I have had a lot of inquiries about concentrated oils and irradiated foods. For the mothers who have written asking information on the former, especially the concentrated oil called Acterol, I am reprinting the following information from the February issue of Hygiea, health magazine of the American Medical Association.

"Information has been received that Acterol has been withdrawn from the market. We know of no preparation of this sort that is at present available for use. 'Acterol' was irradiated ergosterol.

"This is an agent of such remarkable potency that it should be administered only by a physician thoroughly familiar with its properties and should be used by him with care."

This makes it certain that these concentrated oils are not to be used in any way by the amateur, but are to be available only to the professional who understands their use and misuse.

IRRADIATED FOODS

Irradiated foods are already being prepared for commercial distribution. Commander Byrd took some irradiated cereal on his expedition to the South Pole, where sunlight is scarce and Vitamin D must be obtained from other sources. I hope that these foods will soon take the place of oils as a preventive of rickets and there isn't a mother who has struggled to give plain oil who won't echo these sentiments.

Meanwhile stick to your own doctor's advice. Scientists are at work constantly to try to solve all these problems for us, and we should be eager to accept their aid when it is given us. Until then be certain that the infant is getting his milk, his additional foods, direct sunlight during his daily airing, or cod liver oil or the equivalent supply of Vitamin D in some artificial form.

Revue Script Awards Made S.C. Students

Winners in the script-writing contest for the annual extravaganza of the University of Southern California were announced yesterday afternoon. Leland S. Auer and James H. Morrison, students in the college of music, will receive the $100 prize for their manuscript, "College Days."

Eight complete books with musical scores had been heard by the judges. The students had spent eleven months in its composition. "Footsteps," another script for the revue, written by Vincent and Bernice Palmer, received second award.

The judges, who rendered unanimous decision in both cases, were Ray MacDonald, university play productions manager; Mrs. Betty C. Perkins, of the college of music faculty; Miss Florence Hubbard, of the school of speech faculty, and Harold William Roberts, band leader. The revue will be presented April 11, 12 and 13.

KFI to Offer Good Chamber Music Program

BY DR. RALPH L. POWER

Broadcasters at last seem to have agreed on one thing. This is that the 9 o'clock evening hour seems to be the peak of the night's entertainment, from the standpoint of audience numbers, as well as studio offerings.

Coupled with the ordinary 9 to 10 p.m. hour, studio managers also find that from 9 o'clock until midnight Saturdays the peak load is reached, so far as local programs are concerned. That is why there appear to be some excellent features in store for dialers this evening.

Those who like dance music will find that KHJ, the Don Lee station, plans to broadcast a three-hour dance program commencing at 9 this evening.

The purveying group of tantalizing terpsichorean tunes will be Earl Burtnett's orchestra. This aggregation is a regular feature over KHJ for two hours each week-day night. This evening, however, they will be hooked up with the ABC chain of Pacific Coast stations during the period. This is the dance contest feature in which the Los Angeles orchestra, one in San Francisco and another in Seattle, have been playing once a week.

On the 23rd inst. each of the orchestras will have a grand free-for-all, an hour apiece on the air. Following this the fans are expected to vote for their favorite group, all over the age of 16 apparently being eligible to vote.

Those who do not care for radio dance offerings may listen to KFI for the 10 o'clock hour and then twist the dials back to KHJ at 11 p.m.

The KFI presentation will be in the form of a good all-around hour of chamber music. There will be the Purcell Meyer instrumental trio, assisted by Zhay Clark, harp soloist, Virginia Flohri, soprano, and Robert Hurd, tenor.

'Lady or Angel' Hubby's Aim for Her, Says Wife

Michael Moreno, wholesale produce merchant, must pay his wife $15 a week until their legal quarrel about her meeting another man in a South Rampart apartment is settled.

Moreno sued his wife, Cleo, charging that she had met secretly George Hutchison, who was named defendant by Moreno in a $10,000 lost-love suit.

Mrs. Moreno has filed an answer to her husband's divorce petition, denying that she ever met Hutchison and declaring that her husband kicked and beat her.

"I've tried to make a lady out of you,' she says he shouted at her, "and if you go out of the house I'll kill you."

PHOTOGRAPHS OF TIRE TRACKS USED IN FOWL THEFT ARRESTS

Tire tracks photographed at numerous farms in Los Angeles county where chickens had been stolen yesterday led to the arrest of two men in Santa Ana accused of stealing poultry in this county and selling it to Orange county dealers, according to Capt. Stensland, head of Sheriff Traeger's burglary investigation detail.

The men gave their names as Clair W. Vinnedge and Woodward M. Russ of 612 East Washington street, Santa Ana.

Their arrest came as the result of a two weeks' investigation by Deputy Sheriffs Freeman, Rankin and Higgins, following reports of wholesale poultry thefts in Los Angeles county. At each of [illegible] places where chickens [illegible] stolen the same tire marks were found.

The officers then checked Orange county dealers and obtained the names of those who had been selling large numbers of chickens. These persons were then checked until a place was found where the tire marks tallied.

A complaint will be filed against the men in Orange county, charging them with burglary and petty theft with a prior conviction, according to Capt. Stensland.

Three Held in Discovery of Stolen Safes

Discovery of several safes stolen recently from chain grocery stores in the vicinity of his home, coupled with the fact that he has, according to police, a record for safe burglaries, resulted yesterday in the arrest of Daniel Clasby, 28 years of age, of 4837 East Sixty-first street on suspicion of burglary. His wife, Margaret Clasby, 24, was taken in custody with him.

Arthur E. Heeman, 27, of 1748 East Florence avenue, who has a police record also, according to Captain of Detectives Lynn, was arrested as an associate of Clasby.

While all three have made denials, Lynn stated that they will be held until experts compare their fingerprints with those found on the abandoned safes.

LASKY TO MAKE CIRCUS TALKER

Reginald Denny's Next Universal is Stage Comedy; Report Murnau, in Break With Fox, Is Leaving; M.-G.-M. Signs Renowned Stage Actress

BY GRACE KINGSLEY

For the first time in the history of talking pictures, a circus story is to come to the screen.

ESTHER RALSTON

"Here Comes the Bandwagon" is the promising title of a magazine story by Henry L. Gates, which deals with circus life, and the rights to which Paramount has just bought, according to the announcement yesterday of Jesse L. Lasky.

Esther Ralston is to have the featured feminine lead, and while there is nothing definite as yet about it, we understand that it is likely that James Hall will have the hero role. Miss Ralston will be a bareback rider.

Lothar Mendez will direct, and the adaptation is the work of William Jutte, former New York dramatist.

According to Paramount executives, "Here Comes the Bandwagon" will be the first story of the circus to be grought to the talking screen. All the sounds of the circus, the roar of the animals, the cheers of the crowds and the romance and adventure in the lives of those under the big tops will be part of this picture.

One of the circuses now wintering near Los Angeles will be used as the background of the action, according to present plans.

U BUYS BOLTON-SWAN COMEDY FOR DENNY

Just forget all the stories which you have been told were to be filmed by Universal as Reginald Denny's next picture.

REGINALD DENNY

We have it from headquarters that Universal has just bought the film and talking rights to a play called "The Third Party," by those two clever writers, Guy Bolton and Mark Swan, and that this will shortly go into production with Denny as star. The comedy has been a success in New York.

This comedy should prove an excellent vehicle for the popular actor, as its fun is of the spontaneous sort which is right in his line.

Just who the director will be isn't certain, and no leading lady has yet been assigned. The picture will be a talker.

Report Murnau to Leave

Report is to the effect that F. W. Murnau, director of "Sunrise," cited by many critics as the best moving picture ever made, is to leave the Fox organization following the completion of "Our Daily Bread." No reason is given for the break.

Certain Fox officials denied the report, but admitted that the German director is taking a trip to his native land within the next two weeks, to be gone several months.

Murnau himself could not be found last night to affirm or deny the report of the break, but members of his office staff stated they were sure he means to return to the Fox organization.

A close associate of the director's admitted, however, that a story originally written for Murnau probably would be made by another director.

M-G-M Signs Effie Ellsler

I'm going to have a rubber stamp made to record the remark that the talking pictures are drawing the flower of the acting profession away from the stage.

The toast of New York in the early years of the present century, Effie Ellsler, Shakespearean star, is the latest of the many stalwarts who have allowed the talkies to wean them away from the socalled legitimate boards.

Miss Ellsler has just been signed by Cecil B. De Mille for an important character role in his first Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer picture, "Dymiamite," by Jeanie MacPherson.

There is a charming little note of friendship in the engaging of the actress for this role. When De Mille was a struggling young leading man, Miss Ellsler's name blazed in the electrics—or possibly in the gaslights—of stardom in honor of her characterizations of Camille, Juliet, Ophelia, Desdemona and other classic heroines.

Laska Winter With Haines

Laska Winter, well-known leading woman of the screen, has been added to the cast of William Haines's new Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer starring vehicle, "The Gob." She is playing an oriental charmer in a Chinese port, who leads Haines, in the role of a sailor on a destroyer, into trouble when he gets shore leave.

Laska Winters.

Cowen's First for R. K. O.

Now that William J. Cowen has got a nice oak roll-top desk and new megaphone and is all ensconced at R. K. O. studios, it is interesting to relate that his first story has been chosen.

This story is called "Help Yourself to Happiness" and will be supervised by Henry Hobart.

It is understood that either Betty Compson or Olive Borden will have the leading feminine role in the picture.

Cowen began his film career as assistant to some of the best directors in the business. He worked and studied the first six months without pay. Then he became one of the highest salaried assistants. His first directorial effort was "Ned McCobb's Daughter," which he made for Pathe.

Lupino Lane in San Francisco

Lupino Lane has taken his Music Box Revue to San Francisco. Incidentally, six of his most beautiful show girls are to go into Educational pictures with him when he resumes his film work here.

DRIVER'S TRIAL SET FOR AUTO FATALITY

Charles H. Blake, charged with running down and killing Joseph Meinzer, 67-year-old news vender, March 23, 1927, will be tried before Superior Judge Burnell on a charge of manslaughter March 4, next, Superior Judge Shaw announced yesterday. Blake, who is at liberty on $5000 bond, pleaded not guilty to the charge yesterday and demanded a jury trial.

The British territorial army reports a marked increase in the number of enlistments.

Life End Comes for M. A. Keefe, Newspaper Man

Word of the death of his father, Michael Angelo Keefe, at San Diego, was received in Hollywood yesterday by Bill Keefe, publicity and advertising man. Keefe left yesterday for San Diego to attend the funeral services tomorrow.

The deceased, who was a veteran newspaper man, had served on the editorial staff of the San Diego Union and, unwilling to retire, kept active in his work until a month prior to his death when he was removed to a hospital for an operation.

As news editor of the Indianapolis Journal he is said to have published the first poems of James Whitcomb Riley, having been a next-door neighbor of the poet nearly fifty years ago. Later Mr. Keefe served on the Sentinel, Star and News of Indianapolis, where he became friends with Bill Nye, Riley and Mark Twain.

He leaves besides his widow and son, five married daughters, Mrs. H. C. Clifford, Jr., Los Angeles; Mrs. Tom Lynman of Vaucouver, B. C.; Mrs. Tom Marshall and Mrs. Ed Lovell of San Diego, and Mrs. Leslie Askins of Indianapolis. He was 71 years of age.

"PUNCHING BAG" RESIGNS

"I got tired of being a punching bag for my husband," said Mrs. Maria L. Slaker when Superior Judge Schauer asked her why she left Louis Slaker, Jr. The couple were in court to effect a property settlement pending trial of their divorce suit. Mrs. Slaker asserts cruel treatment. Slaker works in a local bank.

FIRST LATE SHOW WILL TAKE PLACE

Sophie Tucker, Rooneys and Others to be Guests of Grauman Tonight

With the role of honor guest to go to Sophie Tucker, comedienne, and with the Rooney family of vaudeville, topping an array of guest artists, festive preparations are being rushed by Sid Grauman for the first special Saturday midnight matinee of "The Broadway Melody," to be staged tonight at Grauman's Chinese Theater.

Charles King, star of the picture, will act as master of ceremonies in welcoming the assemblage of footlight and stage personages, who will foregather to pay tribute to the stars of the picture and Sid Grauman's prologue.

The Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer all-talking, singing and dancing opus marks the first appearance in motion pictures of King, for years a musical-comedy favorite on Broadway.

Included among Manhattan actors brought to the Coast by Grauman to appear in the prologue are Buster and John West, late of George White's "Scandals;" the Albertina Rasch dancers of Ziegfeldian fame; Alfred Latell of the Greenwich Village and Ziegfeld Follies, and the Pasquali Brothers, acrobatic stars.

Lowe Registers at Criterion

As a result of the success he has scored throughout the country in "Old Arizona," Edmund Lowe has been booked by Fox studios for leading roles in two new pictures, both of which probably will be 100 per cent talking productions.

The Fox-Criterion Theater, where Lowe is now playing the role of Sergt. Mickey Dunn in "In Old Arizona," already has been granted first opportunity to book both Lowe pictures from the Fox studios.

Evidently the team of Warner Baxter and Edmund Lowe is considered by Fox to be one of the best money-makers of the year, for Lowe and Baxter are teamed again, as they were in "In Old Arizona," in "Through Different Eyes," the talking picture which Jack Blystone is directing at Fox studios.

The other picture, in which Lowe will be co-featured with Victor McLaglen, is "The Cock-Eyed World." Raoul Walsh, who did all the preliminary work on "In Old Arizona," is preparing to direct "The Cock-Eyed World," and requested that Lowe be given the important role to which he was subsequently assigned. (It will be remembered that Walsh suffered an almost fatal accident in Utah and could not finish "In Old Arizona.")

Pair of Hits to Writer's Credit

Bernard J. McOwen had the unique experience of appearing in one of his own plays on the same day that another of his authorship was being given its premiere several thousand miles away.

McOwen came here from New York to play Prof. Vorheese in the Henry Duffy Players production of "The Skull," which he wrote with Harry Humphreys and which is now running at the President.

The day following the opening he received a cablegram with the one word "hit" and signed "Mayer." This referred to McOwen's new play "Why Bachelors?" which Daniel Mayer and company are producing in England and which was given its initial performance at Brighton on the day "The Skull" opened here.

The Mayer company also produced "The Skull" which is now running in London. McOwen is the author of several other plays including "The Dust Heap" and "The Univited Guest," both of which have been produced in New York, and the former, in Los Angeles.

WOLF BATTLES BAND; BUT NO ONE WINS

A very exciting fracas between the leader and his musicians at Loew's State occurred several times Thursday and Friday. First the orchestra threatened to quit, because Rube fired one of the trumpet players. Then Rube got mad and said he too would quit!

At this juncture the manager of the theater rushed up excitedly on the stage and fired Rube, orchestra and all. The excited audience by this time had begun to realize that it was all in fun, and just a little surprise act in the show. Harry Vernon impersonates the theater manager and then winds up the stunt by singing a couple of popular numbers.

SHORT, SHARP AND SNAPPY

For one of the most powerful acting sequences of "Dynamite" Cecil B. De Mille has signed Leslie Fenton and Barton Hepburn. A short, sharp conflict of wills between this pair, ending in a confession of murder, provides the central motivating forces of the story's plot.

VILLAIN IS ATHLETIC

Ben Hendricks Jr., athletic villain of many screen battles, has been aded to the cast of Clara Bow's new all-talking picture for Paramount, "The Wild Party," it is announced at the Hollywood studios. Hendricks's most recent role in a Paramount picture was in "Barbed Wire," which starred Pola Negri.

WITH NUPTIALS PENDING

Confirming reports of her engagement to William Seeman, tea and coffee merchant, Phyllis Haver yesterday returned to Los Angeles to begin work under her newly-signed contract with Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer.

NO REST FOR ACTORS

Motion-picture actors have little time for rest between pictures these days, owing to the amount of time they are forced to give to making out their income-tax returns, says Huntly Gordon. "Any one who has a return to make finds little time for play," the actor declares.

"Happiness Girls" Spread Cheer

Marion Mack

Is one of them. They will be present at the Hillstreet tomorrow and for the ensuing week as one of the new acts to be offered at the vaudeville house.

M'LAGLEN PLAYS CAPT. LASH

Resuming the characterization he dropped when "A Girl in Every Port" was over and done with, Victor McLaglen came to the fore once again as a waterfront Lothario in "Capt. Lash," a Fox film which had a quiet local premiere yesterday at the Boulevard Theater. On this occasion he appears as the chief of the stokers on a liner which plies between somewhere and Singapore; and he has, for a bosom pal, not Robert Armstrong, but Clyde Cook. From the casual ramifications of the role he emerges easily and without any new claims to the title of a great actor; but whoever accused Victor McLaglen of being a great actor?

The lash itself is nowhere in evidence in this picture. McLaglen handles his men in a way that is hale and hearty and humane; but he gets the work done, so what matter? When he is ashore he applies himself with equal cheerfulness to the domination of the women who cross his path; on land he is hale and hearty and human. His perception of values is severely jolted when he meets a creature not hitherto identified with the limited world in which he moves; she travels in circles exactly three decks up. Not in circles, precisely; she has come aboard ship with a singleness of purpose rare in so languid a being. She is, in short, a lady crook.

The chief stoker—like the Hairy Ape in O'Neill's tragedy—is fascinated by her. His not to reason why, his but to do and die. His pal objects strenuously; pertinently, but inelegantly, he reminds McLaglen "there's bilge-water in your veins and the smut of the stokehole in your nose." (Titles by Malcolm Stuart Boylan.) McLaglen scoffs at the idea and rides for a fall.

As brought to the screen by John Blystone, director, "Capt. Lash" is well told. He has given it a sumptuous production—almost too sumptuous for the material, perhaps—and made it entertaining enough to while away an hour of almost anybody's time. The best work in the film is done by Clyde Cook, the pathetic little cockney who is always so anxious to please; to those who have watched him before in the movies, this statement will not be news.

Claire Windsor, the fair siren, has not been photographed in all her usual ravishing beauty. The man she is out to rob of the "Kismet collection of jewels" is Albert Conti, who can play a gentleman and look like one too. The crook who waits to share the spoils with Miss Windsor is Arthur Stone; and the girl who waits to share Capt. Lash with no one is Jane Winton.

In conclusion, one wonders where McLaglen is headed. He cannot go on playing sailors forever; and then there is that persistent flaw which crops up in practically all his characterizations (or in each repetition of the same characterization,) to wit: after being carefully established as a dull-witted apostle of brawn, he suddenly and unaccountably develops brains. These sit strangely on his shoulders.

Reginald Denny to be Heard in 'Redhot Speed'

Collegians with marathon mammas are advised that Reginald Denny's new so-called movie-talkie-laughie, "Redhot Speed," contains valuable tips on the treatment and cure of itchy-foot. The picture, which will appear on the Pantages talking screen starting today, relates the story of a ninety-miles-an-hour blond who gave parents and police the runaround until the boy friend took her in hand. Alice Day is the girl.

This is Denny's talkie debut, and those who have heard him on the dramatic and musical comedy stage anticipate success on the talking screen for the Universal favorite.

Pathe Sound News is featured at Pantages for the week, as is also a vaudeville program of five acts, headed by Bert Byton.

'Sonia Karlov' Saves the Day

Sonia Karlov is to be seen and heard in a talkie-single. For those who don't know who Karlov is, perhaps she may be remembered by her correct name—Jean Williams. She is the girl who journeyed to Hollywood from the Ziegfeld Follies, New York, and told Cecil De Mille, after being turned down several times when seeking film work, that she was Sonia Karlov—just arrived from Moscow. The foreign name secured work for her.

ANN LITTLE POPULAR IN TWO DUFFY PLAYS

Ann Little, who plays Mrs. Harper in the production of "Lightnin'," which the Henry Duffy Players are presenting at El Capitan, was seen here last as Lida Moore in "Lombardi, Ltd." with Leo Carrillo at the Hollywood Playhouse. Miss Little made her stage debut in "Lombardi," coming from the screen where she had been one of the best known of leading women.

Miss Little played western roles in pictures for so long that she had difficulty in persuading film producers she could wear evening gowns. Then she appeared in one picture in which she was called on to act a society role and, after that, she was in as much demand for the one type as for the other.

Aging Diplomat Caught by Lens

Make-up plays an important part in H. B. Warner's portrayal of Sir William Hamilton in "The Divine Lady," the production starring Corinne Griffith, now current at the Carthay Circle Theater.

As the British ambassador to the court at Naples, which is threatening an alliance with France in a war against his own nation, Warner is seen in the early sequences as a man on the sunny side of middle age, alert and smiling.

As war nears between his government and that of Napoleon, the lines begin to appear in Warner's face. His shoulders develop a slight stoop. His smile disappears.

Like the majority of those who have won their way to the top on the stage, Warner is an expert with the make-up pencils and brushes. Sans coat, a turkish towel about his shoulders, Warner seats himself before his dressing-room mirror, and in less than five minutes he puts on or takes off years.

Futurism Novel Angle to Film

"The Three Passions," Rex Ingram's dramatic photoplay now running at the United Artists Theater, is creating interest among art students because of its futuristic sets. One setting in particular, a cafe interior, is the last word in futurism, being decorated in swirling masses of black and white.

John Ray Housanne, well-known European modernist, saw the picture, and recommends it as an example of the art of futurism. To make the cafe more bizarre, Ingram had the entertainers clothed in silken suits of patched black and white zig-zags. Even their faces carry out the design, made up in polygons of black and white.

FEMALE MUSKETEERS

Sally Eilers has joined with Alice White and "Peanuts" Byron to make a trio of feminine counterparts of Athos, Porthos and Aramis who did so much to promote D'Artagnan's fame in "The Three Musketeers." Even the title of their vehicle, "Broadway Musketeers," is suggestive of Dumas's novel.

NOON-TIME RECITAL BY ORGANIST

Milton Charles, organist at the Paramount Theater, and considered one of the foremost theater organists in the country, will present a series of Sunday-morning recitals, starting tomorrow

The concerts will start at noon each Sunday and will feature a half-hour of classical semiclassical and popular numbers. The programs will be composed entirely of requests received from theater patrons and music-store customers. Purchasers of his records have requested such a program through their music dealers.

Charles is scoring an individual hit on this week's program at the Paramount, where he has a microphone attached to the console of the organ and loud-speakers installed throughout the house. He announces each number and sings a refrain to one of them

Sets Rushed by 'Escape' Crews

An extra crew of carpenters and electricians has been put to work on the stage of the Los Angeles Repertory Theater to rush completion of the sets of "Escape," John Galsworthy's drama to be given in a prologue and nine scenes.

This play, the third offering of the Los Angeles Repertory Theater organization, which Galsworthy describes as his farewell contribution to the stage, opens Monday evening at the Fgueroa Playhouse, following the engagement of Lowell Sherman in Molnar's "The Guardsman," which closes with today's performances.

More than 350 persons were interviewed by casting directors of the Los Angeles Repertory Theater before the twenty-six roles were assigned.

The roles provide such atmospheric detail and are so difficult in interpretative requirements, directors point out, that it was finally decided to engage a cast made up entirely of players of English birth, headed by Vernon Steele, Norman Cannon, Eric Snowdon, Ilka Chase, Nora Cecil and Kathryn Givney.

Pom-Pom Plans Valentine Ball

Motion-picture stars, vaudeville headliners, song writers and visiting celebrities have made reservations for the valentine ball which will be staged at the Pom Pom, Hollywood, Thursday night, between performances of the current girl-and-music revue. This popular night club continues to draw the "who's who" of Hollywood.

"Harlequin and Columbine," colorful costume tableau, will be revealed at midnight under the direction of William Meiklejohn, and as an added feature the Pom Pom girls will appear in a special number, "Dance of the Marionettes." Lee Phelps, banjo comedian, will introduce a new topical ditty entitled "Say It With a Valentine."

The Pom Pom will be decorated for this occasion with imported poster valentines and huge heart-shaped Persian lanterns, and French cupid dolls, whoopee hammers and comic balloons will be given out as souvenirs. There will also be prizes for the most unusual costumes displayed by the guests.

Tower Retains 'Home Towners'

It is one of the brightest and smartest comedies written by George M. Cohan. In the play he has inscribed a delightful and understanding record of people living not only in the small town, but also the big town.

Every player in the company has served long and notably on the speaking stage. The cast includes Richard Bennett, Doris Kenyon, Robert McWade and others.

There is being shown on the Vitaphone, "The Coconaut Grove Orchestra."

Jannings Drama Will be Shown

Announcement has been made that the second feature in the recently reopened Million Dollar Theater will be Emil Jannings in his "Sins of the Fathers." This production will be shown with sound accompaniment and music arranged by Dr. Hugo Riesenfeld and played by the Paramount orchestra. Dr. Riesenfeld, it will be remembered, was the genius behind the musical scores of such well-known pictures as "The Ten Commandments," "The Covered Wagon" and "Beau Geste."

Jannings is supported in his latest effort by Ruth Chatterton, Zasu Pitts, Barry Norton and Mathew Betz.

A POPULAR STREET

New York's best-known thoroughfare is getting a lot of notoriety through the medium of films these days. Practically every studio has a production with "Broadway" tacked on to it. M.-G.-M. has "Broadway Melody," First National is making "Broadway Musketeers," Betty Compson is to feature in "Broadway or Bust" at Warners and Marian Nixon is leading lady in "Broadway Bound."

SIGNS TO TAKE PUNCHES

Nate Slott of Chicago, former amateur featherweight champion and later a contender for the professional 125-pound crown, has been signed as trainer for Richard Arlen who is preparing himself for the role of a prize fighter in "The Man I Love," soon to go into production at the Paramount studios in Hollywood. Mary Brian plays the role of the girl in this dialogue screen story of the ring.

COP AND CUPID CAPTURE NURSE

Georgia-street police station yesterday was agog with the news that it had harbored romance unawares, and how! Somewhere in San Francisco on their honeymoon are Policeman Howard James Reid and bride, who until Wednesday was Miss Catherine Phyllis Brennan, nurse in the Receiving Hospital.

He has been on the force five years, while she came to soothe fevered brows at Georgia-street only last April. An immediate case of heart trouble developed, with Reid as patient. The fair nurse remedied that when they were wed Wednesday in the Mission Inn Chapel at Riverside. First news of it reached the station yesterday.

Upon their return they will live at 2256 Cambridge street and continue their official duties at Georgia street's combined station and hospital.

'Decoration' for Interior Seized

Interior decorating, which in the past has been a trade followed by those adorning the walls of dwellings and public buildings, has become an appellation for those who supply liquid "decorations" for the interior of man.

This fact was revealed when Deputies Maxwell, Knowlton and McNary raided an office in the Western Mutual Building at Third and Hill streets and arrested Alice Thompson on a charge of violation of the Wright Act.

Two gallons of gin and an assortment of bottled liquors were confiscated, according to the officers.

PASTORS TO HONOR LINCOLN

Announcement of Church Services Disclose Many Programs That Will Deal With Emancipator

Aristocrats of the kingdom of heaven, when coming to earth to teach men the way to that kingdom, usually are lowly born, doomed to a life of pain and loneliness and often a tragic death. Greatest of these masters and martyrs, in the eyes of Christendom, was the gentle Nazarene who mingled freely with the worst and best of men and whose doctrines, power and influence have staggered science, baffled philosophy and revolutionized religion. Since His day, those men most like to Him in character and influence have been reckoned greatest among mankind. Outstanding among such sons of spiritual nobility is Abraham Lincoln, "the Great Emancipator," the anniversary of whose birth will be celebrated next Tuesday, and whose birth, life and death will form the theme of scores of sermons from pulpits of Los Angeles churches tomorrow.

A big business executive said the other day:
"Every year men and women of marked ability, unusual intelligence, character and great promise have to be dropped from the payroll, much to the regret of their employers and to their own amazement, discouragement and grief—because of some attribute the dismissed one never knew he had or whose significance in the scheme of the institution he never realized. This means LOSSES—loss to the firm that loses a valuable man; loss to the discharged employe and those dependent upon him. And the sad thing is that most of these losses could be avoided."

FEAR RENDS GETZOFF

Convicted Man in New Collapse

Doctor Intimates Danger of Complete Physical and Mental Breakdown

Attorneys Visit Keyes and Rosenberg to Lay Plans for Further Fight

Suffering the second collapse since he was convicted with Asa Keyes and E. H. Rosenberg of criminal conspiracy, Ben Getzoff, Spring-street tailor and asserted pay-off man in the bribery deal, was declared to be in a serious condition last night in the County Jail hospital.

Attorneys Le Compte Davis, representing Rosenberg, and Al McDonald, for Getzoff, also visited their clients and announced they will join in the request for a new trial.

BAIL TO BE ASKED

It is understood that the defense counsel will ask for several days' time in which to prepare their arguments for a new trial when they present their motion tomorrow, and that in the meantime they will request that the three convicted conspirators be released on bail.
